To relieve overcrowding Change Tarkington, Field borders: panel

A Wheeling-Buffalo Grove Dist. 21 subcommittee recommended Wednesday night that boundaries be changed for Field and Tarkington schools to relieve anticipated overcrowding.

The London Junior High School subcommittee suggested to the boundary committee:

- Students attending Field who live north of McHenry and Aptakisic-Tripp roads be transferred to Irving School, 1250 Radcliffe Rd., Buffalo Grove.

- Students at Tarkington this year who live in the Dun-to Highlands subdivision west of Buffalo Grove Road and south of Dundee Road be transferred to Riley School, 1209 Burr Oak Dr., Arlington Heights.

Field, 51 St. Armand Ln., Wheeling, anticipates 641 students next year which would overcrowd the school. Transferring students as recommended would take 121 students from Field primarily from the Whipple Tree and Cedar Run subdivisions.

Plans told to double size of Ranch Mart Center

Gregg Builders presented plans to the Buffalo Grove Plan Commission Wednesday night for the first phase of an expansion program that would eventually double the size of the Ranch Mart Shopping Center.

Kenneth Rodeck, an engineer for the firm, said the first phase of the expansion would consist of a two-story building that would have offices on the top level and retail stores on the ground floor. The building would be north of the existing drug store.

He said construction of the first phase would begin immediately following approval by the village.

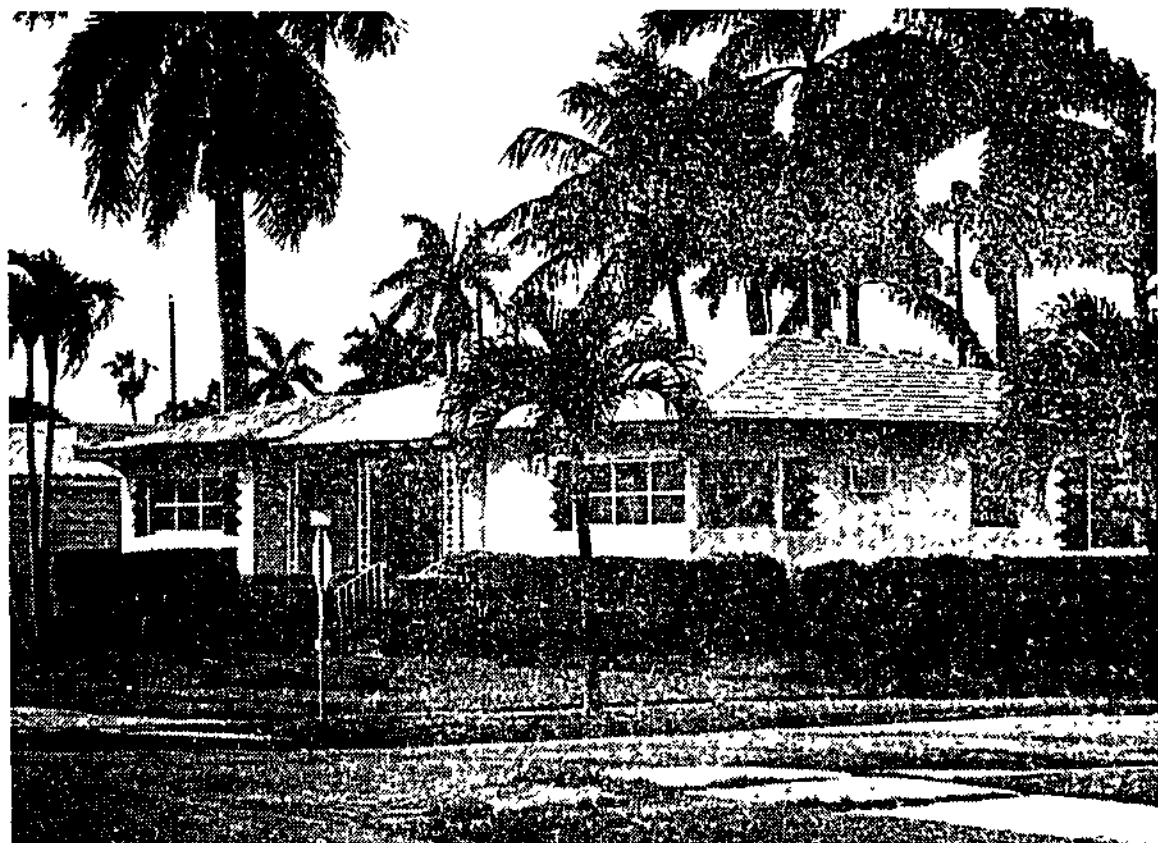

The Ranch Mart, which was built in the 1960s is northwest of Buffalo Grove and Dundee roads.

In addition to the two-story building, Rodeck said Gregg Builders also is planning substantial expansion at the north end of the shopping center. That phase of the project probably will consist of retail stores and has been tentatively scheduled to begin in about a year.

A restaurant also is planned on the south end of the property in the future, Rodeck said.

Plans for the expansion of the shopping center were proposed in 1973, but were delayed by zoning difficulties and construction on Dundee Road.

Plan commission members Wednesday night raised some questions concerning the number of additional parking spaces that would be required in order for the shopping center to be expanded, but made no decision. No date has been set for further consideration of the project.

VACATION HOME of County Republican Chairman Floyd T. Fulle is involved in the federal case against him. Fulle said he paid $35,000 for the Hollywood, Fla., house in 1970 but the grand jury said the price was $45,000. He was charged with perjury because of his testimony.

Linked to alleged payoff

U.S. to press Fulle on Florida land deal

by AL MESSERSCHMIDT

The purchase of a Florida vacation home and testimony by the man who sold it are key elements in the federal case against County Republican Chairman Floyd T. Fulle, The Herald has learned.

Joseph D. Zizzo, a bank executive and former village president of Harwood Heights, has told a federal grand jury that he sold a Hollywood, Fla., vacation home to Fulle in 1970 for $45,000, according to a source close to the case.

Fulle testified before the grand jury that the house cost $35,000. He later was charged with perjury because of that testimony. The jury apparently believed Zizzo's version of the house deal, despite documents in federal hands that indicate the price was $35,000.

AT ISSUE IS the amount of Fulle's down payment. Fulle told the grand jury he paid $10,000 down, but the grand jury said in the indictment that the down payment was $20,000.

The $20,000 figure is important because Fulle also is charged with receiving a $20,000 payoff three months before the house purchase from developer Sellergren Inc. Fulle, a county commissioner, allegedly shook down the firm for county apartment zoning in Palatine Township.

Fulle purchased the vacation home Aug. 28, 1970, according to a deed filed with the Broward County, Fla., circuit court clerk's office. Tax stamps on the deed show a $35,000 purchase price. The stamps were purchased Oct. 5, 1970, when Fulle paid the balance of the purchase price.

Federal investigators have obtained a copy of the house-purchase agreement, which lists furniture, decorations and a $35,000 purchase price for the house, at 1401 Hollywood Blvd., Hollywood, Fla.

A copy of a $10,000 cashier's check from the Parkway Bank and Trust Co., Harwood Heights, which was a down payment on the purchase, also is federal evidence. In addition, Fulle is believed to have given the grand jury a copy of a personal check for more than $24,000, which was further payment on the house.

ZIZZO, WHO was village president of west suburban Harwood Heights from 1961 to 1965 and now is senior vice president of the Parkway bank, refused to discuss the property sale or Fulle's indictment.

His attorney, Warren Fuller, confirmed that Zizzo has appeared before the grand jury.

Also refusing to comment were Fulle and Assistant U.S. Atty. Anton Valukas, who heads the county zoning investigation.

Federal officials apparently have not attempted to link the Fulle home purchase with county zoning obtained by Zizzo in 1969 and by another Parkway bank official in 1970 for the Devon-53 apartment project in Elk Grove Township.

Internal Revenue Service agents obtained both zoning files from the County Zoning Board last summer.

ZIZZO, AS BENEFICIARY of an Exchange National Bank trust, is owner of 27 acres north of Devon Avenue and west of Rohlwing Road in the middle of the Devon-53 site. The property was zoned for high-density apartments by the county board July 29, 1969. The board vote was unanimous and included a "yes" vote by Fulle.

A second, 50-acre parcel in the proposed project, which is owned by Aaron Cohen, also was rezoned. The Parkway Development Co. is planned developer of the land and (Continued on Page 7)

End of rebates cuts auto sales

by United Press International

It's back to business as usual in the automobile business — slow.

New-car dealers, with the best sales period of the 1975-model year behind them, told UPI business this week is much like it was before the cash rebates started in mid-January — almost nonexistent in some cases. Other dealers, however, noticed no difference since the rebates ended last Friday.

"It sort of slowed up real quickly," says Roger Harper, sales manager of Stewart Chevrolet, San Francisco. In Chicago, a Ford dealer was more explicit: "Since the rebates ended, it's been like someone turned off the faucet."

Many auto dealers in the Northwest suburbs said Wednesday that sales are holding their own since cash rebates ended Feb. 28, despite reports from around the nation showing sales have slowed.

GOV. DANIEL WALKER is greeted by members of the Illinois General Assembly as he leaves the chamber following his budget message. The governor presented a record $10.8 billion request for fiscal 1976.

Walker proposes record budget

SPRINGFIELD (UPI) — Gov. Daniel Walker Wednesday proposed a record $10.75 billion state budget for the coming fiscal year — an increase of 36.5 per cent from the request he made a year ago and of 24 per cent from current appropriations.

Walker estimated he will spend $8.15 billion during the year starting July 1 — another record.

The budget calls for a second straight year of deficit spending and would wipe out every cent the state has in general-revenue reserves.

Walker said he will avoid a tax increase by spending the surplus left over from past years and by issuing hundreds of millions of dollars in new bonds, which will not come due for retirement for 20 or 25 years.

Comptroller George Lindberg, however, called the proposal a "blueprint for bankruptcy." He and some other analysts said the massive hike in appropriations and in spending will force a tax increase by 1977 at the latest.

Walker acknowledged his budget proposes spending the state dry. But, he said, such a program is needed to fight the recession and growing unemployment.

"In my book, this is the rainy day we've been protecting against," he told a (Continued on Page 3)

'Health reasons have arisen'

New parole review for Kerner

The U. S. Parole Board Thursday will conduct an emergency review of the parole application of former Illinois Gov. Otto Kerner because of Kerner's health, a spokesman announced Wednesday.

The board declined to comment on the nature of the health problems, but prison officials said Kerner is not in imminent danger.

The Parole Board decided to hold the hearing after receiving a medical report this week from the physician at the federal penitentiary at Lexington, Ky., where the 66-year-old Kerner has been incarcerated since July 29.

Kerner is serving a three-year sentence for conspiracy, bribery, fraud and tax evasion in connection with a race track stock deal he was charged with after completing his term as governor.

The eight parole board members, meeting as the National Appellate Parole Board last Feb. 11, deferred action on Kerner's parole application until April 14, when it planned to study a full medical report on Kerner's health condition as of March 15.

Otto Kerner

A parole board spokesman who announced plans of the full board to consider Kerner's parole application on a speedy basis said that "health reasons have arisen." The spokesman would not give any further explanation.

BECAUSE FIVE OF the eight board members are serving in scattered regional offices, they will consider Kerner's case in a telephone conference call, a spokesman said.

According to documents filed in U. S.

District Court in Chicago, Kerner has suffered four heart attacks and has become "dangerously undernourished" during his confinement.

U. S. Atty. James R. Thompson, who prosecuted Kerner after he became a federal appeals court judge, has publicly recommended that the former governor be released from prison.

KERNER WAS GIVEN a hearing by parole examiners last Oct. 8 but action on his parole request was continued until January and was delayed again last month.

Kerner was charged with gaining a $144,000 profit from a bribe consisting of an offer of racing stock in 1966 at 1962 prices. He was charged with underpaying his federal income tax by more than $93,000. He also was charged with making false statements to Internal Revenue Service agents who interviewed him in 1970.

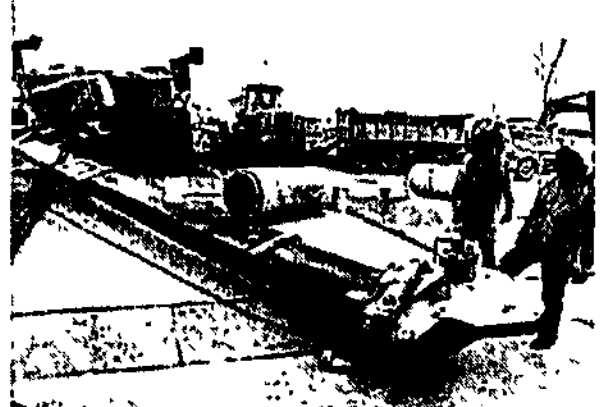

Kerner served as governor from 1961 to 1968 and was a judge at the time of his conviction.

Three men were injured when their twin-engine plane crashed Wednesday in Kenosha County, Wis. The pilot was identified as John H. Whitted Jr., 51, of Glenview. Passengers were Anthony S. Miceli, 50, of Niles and Raymond F. Phillips, 60, of Lombard.

MSD to weigh asking hefty corporate tax-rate hike

The staff of the Metropolitan Sanitary District has proposed a substantial increase in sanitary district taxes to meet rising operating costs.

The MSD board today will consider asking the Illinois General Assembly to raise its corporate tax-rate ceiling from 28 to 40 cents per $100 assessed valuation, paving the way for an increase in the district's over-all tax rate from 37.96 cents to 52.73 cents.

The proposal, which will be opposed by at least one MSD trustee, James C. Kirie, is being sought by the sanitary district staff to combat inflation.

General Supt. Bart Lynam of the sanitary district blamed increased operations, including the new John E. Egan Sewage Treatment Plant in Schaumburg Township, and inflation in the cost of chemicals and natural gas as reasons for the increased rate ceiling.

THE INCREASE would mean that the owner of property with a $10,000 equalized assessed valuation would pay $52.73 in MSD taxes, $14.70 more than he will pay on his 1975 bill, payable in 1976.

Lynam blamed drops in district revenue and a leveling off of assessed valuation increases for the MSD's tax predicament. He said the district should be praised for staying below its statutory tax-rate ceiling until this year.

He said his staff had used "the pessimistic approach" in setting the 40-cent corporate tax-rate ceiling and hoped the tax rates would come in lower.

Without the ceiling hike, the MSD will have to "quit cleaning streams, which will cause flooding;" violate legal pollution levels in its sewage treatment, and start dumping sludge in lagoons, he said.

The board will also decide today whether to ask the state legislature to allow the industrial surcharge to be levied against small industries and whether to seek hikes in MSD trustees' salaries for $20,000 annually to $25,000 for trustees elected in 1976 to serve six-year terms on the board.

Arab guerrillas storm ashore in Tel Aviv

TEL AVIV (UPI) — Arab guerrillas in commando boats stormed ashore in the city's main beachfront entertainment district Wednesday night, exchanged rocket and machinegun fire with police and seized hostages in a seaside hotel.

Police sources said at least five Israelis were wounded in the initial attack and that one guerrilla may have been hit by gunfire from counter-attacking troops.

The guerrillas held the hostages in the Savoy Hotel, a four-story structure 200 yards from where they beached their rubber boats. The hotel usually accommodates pilgrims on religious visits to Israel.

Newsman at the scene said there were unconfirmed reports that the guerrillas were demanding to negotiate with the French ambassador to Israel over their hostages.

It was the first guerrilla attack in the city since Dec. 11, 1974, when a lone guerrilla threw hand grenades in a downtown movie house, killing himself and two others and wounding another 52 persons.

In Beirut, the Palestine Liberation Organization said it was responsible for the attack which was followed by "fierce fighting in the heart of the city."

"Our revolutionaries are using rockets and machineguns in this operation," the guerrilla news agency WAFA said.

Police sources said at least five Israelis were wounded in the attack and that the city's hospitals were on full alert for more casualties. They said one guerrilla was apparently hit by fire from counter-attacking Israeli soldiers.

"Two boats landed on the beach at Tel Aviv at about 11 p.m.," the police spokesman said. "It is assumed there are three, four or more terrorists involved."

"As they landed on the beach, they began shooting in all directions," the spokesman said. "They managed to reach the Savoy Hotel and entered the hotel. The hotel is surrounded."

About 300 soldiers took up positions in the area. Ambulances stood by with canvas stretchers ready to carry away the wounded.

As one army officer briefed newsmen on what was happening, rocket fire echoed between the buildings surrounding the Savoy Hotel.

In Beirut, the guerrilla spokesman said the attacking groups belonged to the unit of "Martyr Mohammed Yusef Al Najjar" — a leader of the Fatah guerrilla movement who was killed by an Israeli commando force that raided Beirut in April, 1973.

This indicated that the operation was carried out by Al Fatah, the largest of the guerrilla organizations whose leader is Yasser Arafat, Palestinian sources said.

The attack came shortly before Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger's arrival in London. Kissinger began his 11th Middle East mission on a moderately optimistic note that he can arrange agreement on a new Israeli withdrawal in the Sinai Desert.

At stake in Kissinger's new mission is his diplomatic record and the future of his step-by-step Middle East diplomacy — opposed in varying degrees by the Soviet Union, radical Arab states, the Israeli political opposition and some congressmen.

On Thursday, he will attend a ceremony in Wales, honoring Britain's Foreign Secretary James Callaghan.

On Friday he will fly to Egypt, perhaps stopping in Brussels to confer with Greek Foreign Minister Dimitrios Bitsios about the stalled Greek-Turkish negotiations over Cyprus.

For the next two or three weeks, Kissinger is scheduled to shuttle between Aswan, an Egyptian city 600 miles south of Cairo on the Nile, and Jerusalem, trying to bring about the new Egyptian-Israeli accord.

Police and army units patrol street near terrorists-held hotel.

Auto anti-pollution gear called threat

Citing a new potentially serious health threat, the Environmental Protection Agency Wednesday proposed a sweeping delay in exhaust clean-up rules for cars. EPA Administrator Russell E. Train said the stall is necessary because pollution control devices now coming into widespread use are creating more problems than they are solving. The devices, catalytic converters, are giving off a sulfuric acid mist which could have a "potentially serious impact on public health." Train cited a particular problem to asthmatics and others with respiratory disorders.

Rule GOP 'victory bonus' unlawful

A three-judge federal appeals court Wednesday ruled unconstitutional the Republican party's "victory bonus" rule for the 1976 national convention. But other judges on the court suspended the ruling until the entire nine-member court can rehear the case. Meanwhile, the Republican National Committee, after an agonized debate, voted to let GOP officials accept a $2 million federal subsidy to finance the party's 1976 national convention.

Faced with a recommendation for foreign supersonic transport operations in the United States, the forces that killed the American SST program began work Wednesday to block the foreign flights and keep the U.S. program from returning to life. Congressional sources said several bills might be introduced during the next week to prevent British Airways and Air France from starting Concorde SST service next year linking London and Paris with New York and Washington.

Taxpayer money used to study student sex

Over $32,000 of taxpayer money is being spent by Michigan State University to inquire in detail about the sex lives of students. Sen. William Proxmire, D-Wis., said Wednesday, Proxmire questioned the value of the survey and said it should be financed privately if at all. David J. Kallen, the professor conducting the research said Proxmire's criticism "is a distortion of fact regarding a legitimate and important research undertaking."

Number of jobless claims down

by United Press International

The number of persons filing for unemployment benefits for the first time hit a three-month low the government said Wednesday.

Economists viewed the sign that the worst worker layoffs was past.

Despite the decline in first-time claims, the number of persons receiving some form of unemployment assistance from states remained at an historic high, exceeding 6 million in the week ending Feb. 15.

President Ford, meanwhile, asked Congress for more than $2 billion to extend 310,000 emergency government jobs six more months and to create 760,000 more jobs for young people this summer.

Ford also ordered an immediate study on how best to help unemployed persons whose jobless benefits have expired.

Press Secretary Ron Nessen said Ford's actions were not an indication that unemployment is getting worse, but were intended to ensure that his basic anti-recession program goes as planned.

According to Nessen, Ford will ask Congress for $1.625 billion more to continue until July of 1976, the 360,000 public service jobs he already had budgeted at $2.5 billion. Nessen said the Labor Department reported that unless it gets the extra money, it would have to start phasing out the 310,000 jobs this July.

The President also expects to ask Congress for $412 million for the 760,000 summer youth jobs because state and local governments have been spending too little federal aid funds on the program.

Nessen said $2.4 billion had been allocated to state and local governments for various job training and employment projects, but the recession economy forced too much of the money to be used on items other than summer jobs.

In other economic developments:

• Treasury Secretary William Simon said Wednesday tax rebates should be concentrated on middle and upper income persons because they will buy cars, television sets and other items which must be sold if the recession is to end. Simon urged the Senate Finance Committee to revise a House-passed bill which would give more than half its tax reductions to persons making less than $10,000 per year.

• The Shah of Iran said Wednesday in Algiers he is ready to accept a link between the price of oil and world inflation. "You go up, we go up — you go down, we go down," the Shah told newsmen at the first summit meeting of the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries. Kuwait Oil Minister Abdel Montaleb Kazimi, meanwhile, announced his nation is nationalizing the property of Gulf Oil, a U.S. firm, and British Petroleum so it could run its own oil policy "without any foreign intervention."

• Morgan Guaranty Trust of New York, the nation's fifth largest bank, sharply reduced its prime interest rate from 8 1/4 to 7 3/4 per cent, the lowest rate for the bellwether loan rate in 21 months.

U.S. airlift jet damaged by shrapnel

PHNOM PENH (UPI) — Heavy communist shellfire ripped into Phnom Penh's airport, the lifeline link to the outside world Wednesday, hitting a U.S. airlift jet and halting all commercial air traffic to the besieged Cambodian capital.

U.S. military spokesmen said a chartered World Airways DC8 jet was hit by rocket shrapnel and sustained minor damage, but flew back to Saigon. The plane carrying rice, fuel and ammunition was the first reported hit since the U.S. airlift started last week.

Airline officials said the shrapnel damaged the hydraulic system of the DC8, forcing it to make a "wheels up" landing in Saigon.

The United States, meanwhile, halted the airlift because of the heavy attacks on the airport. "We're taking a look at the whole thing now and waiting military intelligence," an official said.

Meanwhile, Pentagon sources said the U.S. carrier Okinawa with helicopters and 1,500 Marines aboard has been ordered into the Gulf of Thailand as a precaution to evacuate Americans from Phnom Penh if necessary.

As a last resort, the Marines would go in to secure the airport to allow evacuation of civilians by military transport, the sources said.

Pentagon sources said some 400 to 500 Americans are still in Phnom Penh and stressed no evacuation has been ordered yet.

Rebel gunners only four miles from Pochentong airport aimed their artillery, rockets and recoilless rifles at the airfield, an adjacent village and the road linking the airport to Phnom Penh. The shells included 105mm howitzer fire, the first time accurate guns have been brought to bear on the Pochentong runway.

In Washington, prior to his trip to the Mideast, Secretary of State Henry Kissinger told President Ford and a congressional delegation he has "little hope" for any negotiated peace in Cambodia at the present time, said Rep. Paul N. McCloskey Jr., as he emerged from a White House meeting. He said several of the eight lawmakers who visited Southeast Asia expressed fears of a bloodbath if the surrounded capital city of Phnom Penh falls to communist troops.

Did 'guilt' send Jackie to Dallas with JFK?

• A former friend of John F. Kennedy says Jackie Kennedy may have accompanied the President to Dallas on Nov. 22, 1963 because of "guilt feelings" about press criticism of her stay on Aristotle Onassis' yacht. Excerpts from the diary of Benjamin Bradlee, appearing in the April edition of Good Housekeeping, suggest it was that remorse that led to Jackie's presence at her husband's side when he was assassinated. Bradlee is executive editor of the Washington Post.

• Atty. Carla Anderson Hillis was confirmed by the Senate Wednesday as secretary of housing and urban development and only the third woman to serve in a president's Cabinet. Confirmation came on an 85-5 rollcall vote.

• Anne Hearst, who once pleaded with her fugitive sister, Patricia to surrender by saying: "... You're really young. You have your whole life ahead of you

People

... was in trouble herself Wednesday. Anne was facing drug charges following arrest Tuesday at Niagara Falls, N.Y. when customs agents found what looked like marijuana residue on the floor of her auto.

• Like it or not, French pigeons are getting "the pill." Pierre Roger, director of the Action Center for a clean Paris said the pigeon population carries harmful disease, dirties buildings, and must be drastically reduced. Hopefully 70,000 pigeons will eat pigeon feed spiced with Ornitrol to make them lay only sterile eggs.

• If you want to buy the latest Rolls Royce — a $70,200 Camargue model unveiled Wednesday — you had better hurry. The Shah of Iran and 119 others are in line ahead of you. The car has an aluminum alloy V8 engine, gets 14 M.P.G., has seat belts that tighten on sharp curves, and seats covered with the hide from a special herd of 500 Rolls cows. Delivery will take one year. Two cars come off the line weekly.

• The Royal Canadian Mounted Police are again in control of Brian Erb's Atlantic which led authorities on an 11-day chase through ice floes on the Gulf of St. Lawrence. Erb was arrested and some of the 23 young crew members were airlifted from the ship to a Canadian Forces base on Prince Edward Island.

Walker proposes record $10.75 million state budget

joint session of the legislature. "We must face these conditions. We must spend more to meet the increasing needs of people caught in this deepening recession."

The major expenses in the budget are:

- Transportation. Budgeted at $2.5 billion — up from $2.03 billion this year.
- Welfare. This year's request is $1.840 billion — up from $1.709 billion.
- Education. Elementary and secondary education is pegged for $1.086 billion, up from $1.466 billion. Higher education is set at $1.137 billion, a hike from this year's $905 million.
- Mental Health. This year's $400 million is up from $354 million.
- Children and Family Services. $134.9 million, up from $120.4 million.
- Public Health. $63.2 million, down from $63.47 million.
- Environmental Protection. $359.5 million, up from $238.4 million.
- Agriculture. $20.5 million, up from $19.5 million.

The governor's speech was interrupted only twice by applause — once when he repeated his long-standing pledge not to hike taxes and again when he said he has allocated more money for local schools. Some Republicans gasped audibly when the governor mentioned his total budget figure.

"The budget will utilize all the resources available to us," Walker said in a printed statement. "In a time of recession, we must use all our resources to take steps to help people."

"This is a budget we can afford, but it is all we can afford."

Much of the recession-fighting muscle in Walker's budget proposal comes from his "accelerated building program."

That plan — which still needs legislative approval — calls for $2 billion in new bond authorization this year and expenditure of some $1 billion of that money in an effort to create new jobs.

Elsewhere in the budget, however, the governor estimates he will sell only about $600 million worth of bonds during the fiscal year starting July 1 — an indication that only a fraction of the $1 billion estimate actually will be spent.

Over all, the budget calls for $2.5 billion in capital appropriations, Walker said.

The second element in the governor's proposed increase is spending of the surplus left from past years in the state's "bank account."

Walker said he estimates there will be $215 million left in the General Revenue Fund — which pays most day-to-day state expenses — at the end of the current fiscal year. He plans to spend all of that $215 million during fiscal 1976, leaving nothing in the GRF for carryover to the next fiscal year.

The "all-funds" balance, which includes bonds and other elements, will be "drawn down" from a $771.2 million balance at the start of fiscal 1976 to a residue of $308.3 million by year's end, Walker said.

Walker said he realizes his plan to spend all available funds means there will be nothing in reserve to handle unexpected costs. But, he said, he believes he can live within his budget and avoid surprises. If they occur, he said, they will have to be paid for by making cuts elsewhere.

Larson predicts:

'Healthy financial future for village'

by BETTY LEE

The financial picture for the 1975-76 fiscal year in Buffalo Grove will be the "healthiest" in years, Village Mgr. Daniel Larson said Wednesday.

Larson said additional tax revenue from new residential and commercial development is expected to bolster the village's shaky finances, which were weakened by a poor construction season last year.

"By the first of September, we'll be in strong financial shape," he said.

The prediction was made by Larson in light of the 1974-75 projected annual report, which will be used at coming budget meetings. The first session will be at 8 a.m. Saturday by the village board's finance committee.

The village expects about $136,000 in general funds left from the current fiscal year, Larson said. The money will be available because every village department "pulled in their belts," Larson said.

OF THE $3.1 million budget last year, about $1.4 million was allocated for general funds. About $1.3 million is anticipated to be spent by the end of the fiscal year, April 30, leaving some funds available at the start of the new year.

Tax money will come with the first phase of the Plaza Verde center, adjacent to Villa Verde apartments near Arlington Heights and Dundee roads, with the center scheduled to open in May. Within the center, Eagle Food and Osco Drug stores and two other businesses will bring in tax money by September, Larson said.

Also, Grand Spaulding Dodge on Dundee Road will be another source of revenue.

The village is dependent on commercial and residential development as a source of income because of the lack of industry. Last year, officials projected that more than 700 new residential units and five shopping centers would be built.

BUT A TIGHT mortgage market, combined with a slow growth in the nation's economy and the two-month long cement truck drivers' strike last year, severely slashed construction activity in Buffalo Grove, Larson said.

Village departments were able to cut expenses and remain below budget allocations by:

- Canceling all training requiring village funds between Feb. 1 and Sept. 1, 1975.

- Discontinuing participation in the Metropolitan Enforcement Group, effective Sept. 1, 1974.

- A moratorium on hiring staff until "absolutely necessary." There are 78 full-time positions of which three remain unfilled.

- Delaying a 1974-75 employee pay plan until Aug. 1, 1974.

- Purchasing a used tractor instead of a new one for the public works department, saving $4,000.

- Deferring the village hall landscaping and sidewalk project.

- Eliminating participation in national professional conferences.

Despite the cutbacks, the village was able to start several programs and services such as:

- An investigative youth division at the Buffalo Grove Police Dept.

- A second full-time mechanic to maintain police and public works vehicles. Major repairs done by the village result in substantial savings, village officials said.

- Construction of a regional stormwater retention basin at the Arlington County Club on Buffalo Grove Road. This is a project jointly financed by the State of Illinois, the Metropolitan Sanitary District and the village.

- Storm water relief projects along Buffalo Creek, White Pine Road and along the rear yards of McArthur Lane.

- Participation in a central police dispatching program with Arlington Heights, Mount Prospect and Elk Grove Village.

- A study on the proposed town center to be built in the area bounded by Buffalo Grove Road, Ill. Rte. 83 and Lake Cook Road.

- Well repairs at a cost of $135,000.

- Street resurfacing and curb replacement project at a cost of $137,000.

- Landscaping on the Dundee Road median.

- Cleaning of all storm-sewer catch basins.

- Emergency generators installed at two major sewage lift stations.

- New staff cars to replace high gas consuming cars.

- Installation of a sanitary-sewer flusher.

The village also equipped its Civil Defense truck with emergency supplies, hired an architect for the new public service facility, entered a lease purchase agreement with the Buffalo Grove Golf Course and assumed operational responsibility and gave financial support to Omni-House: Youth Services Bureau in Wheeling.

Court clears Schaumburg employee

Rogers R. Eiermann, a Schaumburg Park District maintenance employee, was cleared in court Wednesday of all charges stemming from an alleged chemical-company kickback scheme.

Circuit Court Judge Nathan J. Kaplan dismissed two counts each of accepting bribes and official misconduct after the State's Attorney's office requested the charges be dropped. An assistant state's attorney told Kaplan there was insufficient evidence to prosecute the case.

Border changes urged for Field, Tarkington transferred from Field still would attend London Junior High School.

Students who might be transferred from Tarkington, 310 S. Scott St., Wheeling, are bused to school because they must cross Buffalo Grove Road. The boundary change, which would allow the students to walk to school is expected to remain for several years. The subcommittee also recommended that a sidewalk be built along Buffalo Grove Road.

THE SUBCOMMITTEE also recommended that Tarkington's enrollment and boundaries be reviewed next year for possible boundary changes.

THE COOPER and Holmes Junior High School subcommittees have recommended no boundary changes for next year. However, the Cooper group has urged that crowded facilities at Alcott School, 330 Bernard Dr., Buffalo Grove, be reevaluated next year.

The subcommittees' recommendations will be reviewed by the boundary committee Wednesday before final recommendations are made to the school board. The committee was appointed by the board to investigate possible boundary changes to alleviate crowded conditions next year and to develop long-range building and boundary plans for the district.

Eiermann was indicted nearly a year ago along with 21 other officials including two Village of Schaumburg employees for allegedly receiving kickbacks from United Laboratories, Addison.

Immediately after Kaplan dismissed the charges in his Civic Center courtroom, Eiermann's wife whispered, "Thank God."

Eiermann said "I am just happy. I want to thank everyone. The park district people were all for me."

PAUL DERDA, Park District Director, after learning of the court decision, said, "I'm pleased it's all over. I'm pleased and pleased for Rog. He has gone through one hell of an ordeal and it was certainly traumatic for him."

"We were all pulling for him. He is a loyal and dedicated employee."

Eiermann was suspended briefly after the indictments, but was reinstated pending a court decision.

The two village employees facing trial are J. C. Smith, public works superintendent, and John Mittvick, a building inspector. Smith, charged with 11 counts each of accepting bribes, official misconduct and having illegal interest in contracts, is scheduled to appear March 14 for trial.

No trial date has been set for Mittvick, who is charged with bribery, official misconduct and illegal interest in a contract.

Village Pres. Gary Armstrong of Buffalo Grove has proclaimed this week as Lions Recognition Week.

Armstrong asked the community to recognize the organization and its contribution to the community.

Each year the Lions of Illinois sponsors a Candy Day program calling the public's attention to the plight of the blind. Last year more than $1 million was raised for the blind by Illinois Lions.

New Senate rule 'would kill' ERA

Illinois Senate leaders Wednesday proposed a rule that would require a three-fifths vote to ratify amendments to the U.S. Constitution — a move interpreted as a means of blocking ratification of the Equal Rights Amendment without forcing a Senate vote on the issue.

ERA supporters said the rules change would kill the ERA's chances of passing the Senate because 36 votes would be needed instead of the present 30. A scheduled vote on ERA was postponed Tuesday when sponsors found they had less than the necessary 30 votes.

"This is it. ERA is dead," said Sen. Dawn Clark Lutes, D-Chicago, a chief supporter of the amendment. She said only 30 votes would be needed to change the rule, and it would let Senate Pres. Cecil Pardee, D-Chicago, "off the hook" in a growing wave of opposition to passage of the controversial amendment. So far, 34 states have ratified the proposal and four more are needed before it becomes law.

Rockford youth still missing

Police found no sign Wednesday of a Rockford alderman's teenage son who was last seen delivering his newspaper route early Tuesday. Rockford police said clues have been pouring into the office since the disappearance of Joseph Didler, son of Ald. George Didler. Police were searching on foot and checking cars, fields and cemeteries. Authorities said they feared the 15-year-old has been abducted.

UI enrollment sets record

Spring enrollment has set a record at the University of Illinois Urbana-Champaign campus, with a total of 33,242 students. Officials said the enrollment is 311 more than last spring. The figures include 24,064 undergraduate and professional students and 9,278 graduate students. The high enrollment will mean spaces for most new undergraduate transfer students at freshmen and sophomore levels will not be available, although special petitions for admission can be filed on a hardship basis.

Man's tax bite undigested

An Illinois man who moved to Arizona in 1973 recently received a set of false teeth and a check for $274 from the Illinois Dept. of Revenue. It was the end of a "biting" exchange between taxpayer and computer.

The man's problems started when computers checked his Illinois and federal income-tax statements and found a discrepancy. The department sent the man a bill for $274 in additional taxes, and he sent back a check along with the false teeth. "I guess he was trying to say 'If you're going to take this big a tax bite, here's the teeth to do it,'" said Revenue Director Robert Allphin.

Allphin said a further investigation determined that part of the man's income for the year was from Arizona and he had filed his taxes properly, so the money — and the teeth — were returned.

Fund educational TV: IBHE

The Illinois Board of Higher Education has recommended that half the funds needed for a new Chicago educational television station be appropriated by the General Assembly. To become operational, the station, WXXW, needs $1.5 million, and efforts are being made to raise half the goal from private foundations. The board also voted to develop a statewide educational-television plan.

Parkway bank director Ted Szyzala heads the development firm. The 50 acres unanimously were rezoned for apartments by the county board Dec. 21, 1970, although Fulle was absent from the meeting.

The attorney for both zoning appeals was Robert Haskins, Zizzo said last week. Haskins also represented Sellsgron in appearances before the County Zoning Board of Appeals. IRS agents have concentrated on zoning petitions filed by Haskins and by attorney John Daley, a cousin of Chicago Mayor Richard J. Daley, in probing alleged payoffs to county officials to obtain zoning.

FULLE FIRST stayed at the vacation home during the 1968 Republican Party convention in Miami Beach. Zizzo, 46, now a resident of Long Grove, offered use of the house to Fulle while both men were directors of the Parkway bank.

The bank was named in a Better Government Assn. investigation in 1972 when Fulle, County Board Pres. George Dunne and Comr. Charles Bonk were charged with conflicts of interest for holding stock in banks that were depositories for interest-free county funds. Fulle, of 666 Laurel, Des Plaines, was exonerated of the conflict-of-interest charges in 1973 after an investigation by State's Atty. Bernard Carey.

Another political figure named in the BGA investigation was former County Treasurer Edmund Kucharski. The BGA contended that Kucharski placed the noninterest funds in the Parkway bank and its sister First State Bank of Chicago while owning stock in the banks. Zizzo is a founder of both banks.

FULLE'S RELATIONSHIP with Kucharski was questioned by the grand jury. The Herald reported last September. After a grand jury appearance, Fulle said that $12,000 of his 1970 income, which was reimbursement from Kucharski for running a campaign for state treasurer, was under investigation. "I volunteered information about that," Fulle said Sept. 16. "I've got nothing to hide."

Fulle reportedly has told the grand jury, which subpoenaed his financial records, that the funds from Kucharski were used as a down payment on the Florida house.

The $35,000 Fulle said he paid for the vacation home was $5,000 less than Zizzo paid for the property in cash for a year.

Fulle paid $708.60 in taxes on the house last year. The tax is based on an assessed valuation of $44,830, which is a "fair market" price, an official in the Broward County Assessor's office said.

FULLE'S INDICTMENT does not indicate the importance of the purchase price and the down payment. But a $20,000 figure is mentioned in the indictments in two separate charges against Fulle.

An extortion count involving Sellsgron Inc., developer of the Old Madrid apartment complex in Palatine, charges that Fulle received about $20,000 three months before the home purchase from plumbing contractor William Adams to influence county board zoning of the land June 15, 1970.

A separate perjury indictment charges that Fulle's down payment on the vacation home was in fact $20,000.

Fulle also is charged with receiving an additional $10,000 payoff from Adams in January 1971, the same month that Palatine annexed the Old Madrid project, and with receiving a $10,000 payoff from apartment developer Thomas Origer to influence zoning of a 96-acre apartment project in Northfield Township.

March 1968. Tax stamps on Zizzo's purchase agreement show a $40,000 price, which included a $30,000 personal loan from George W. Housley Jr., a Harwood Heights businessman who owned the property. Both the Fulle and the Zizzo purchases included furniture in the house and the 14-by-20-foot screened-in swimming pool at the rear of the home.

"That house has everything," including three bathrooms and living quarters for a maid, Housley told The Herald. Housley estimated the value of the house at $50,000 and said Zizzo received a reduced price because "it was a forced sale. You take what you can get. The house was va-

Don McMillan Ford, Houston, Tex., said there was a definite dropoff once the rebates ended.

"It's just like someone told the people to stay away," Williams said.

In Jackson, Miss., John Harvey, a local Ford dealer, said he expected the dropoff this week, especially since he stayed open until midnight on the last day.

"At the last minute, we wrote deals and ordered six cars, staying open until midnight," Harvey said, adding that the normal sales rate during the seven-week rebate period was from seven to nine cars a day.

THAT LAST-MINUTE spurt before the rebates ended gave Detroit automakers a Feb. 21-28 sales period in which more than 203,000 cars were sold. Off about 10 per cent from last year's energy-depressed levels, it still was the best sales pace for the slumping industry since the '70s went on sale in October.

Only Chrysler, originator of the $200 to $600 rebates Jan. 12 has maintained even a semblance of its old program, offering rebates on leftover '74s and on two compact models.

"I think there was some stimulation from the rebate program and I think it was something that was really needed," says Todd Cochran of KC Dodge, San Francisco. "From what I see many people are wondering what's going to happen — whether the manufacturers will drop prices."

One dealer however, wishes the rebates had never been started. Norman Quidsenberry, general sales manager of a Lincoln-Mercury dealership in Jackson, Miss., said his sales increased but it was a "false market."

But Lummy French, sales manager of a Chevrolet dealership in the same southern town, took an opposite point of view.

"The rebates have gotten people interested in cars again," French said. "I'd like to see it keep going from now on."

Sales in area 'holding up'

were fewer," said Joe Lesniak, owner of Colonial Chevrolet, Schaumburg. His dealership sold an average of 40 cars each of the three weekends rebates were in effect, he said.

Last weekend, after rebates ended, sales were down about 20 per cent. "We sold 32 cars," he said.

But Lesniak said the true test will be this weekend because many potential buyers probably were at the auto show in Chicago Saturday and Sunday.

Lesniak said February sales were the best he's had during the four years Colonial has been in Schaumburg.

VINCE PICCOLI, general manager at Ladendorf Olds, Des Plaines, said sales are "holding up about the same as during the rebates."

He said sales last weekend, the first two days that rebates ended, "were as good as they were the previous weekend." "I think they're going to pick up because of income-tax rebates," he added. Piccoli said buyers have been shifting to intermediate-sized cars in the last 60 days and that big-car sales have dropped about 10 per cent in the last 45 days. He believes the auto industry is on the upswing again.

Bill Hudgins, general manager of Mark Motors, Arlington Heights, said there still are rebates available on new 1974 models at his dealership. But sales are off 10 per cent compared to three or four weeks ago when rebates on 1975 models still were in effect, he said.

Chrysler Corp. still is giving $200 rebates on 1974s, he said, adding "we bought up all we could because people are still looking for bargains."

SALES THIS MONTH have held up "extremely well" compared to last month, said Warren Karlson, sales manager at Mulich Buick, Mount Prospect. "The trend is for the more economical V-6 and V-8," he said.

Sales are "running about the same" at Chalet Ford, Arlington Heights, as they were when rebates were in effect, said Ken Hall, sales manager. "People are sorry they were not buying when the rebate was on, but they're still buying cars," he said.

"The fun place to eat and drink."

The doctor says

by Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D.

Diabetes and impotence

I'm in the state prison. I'm 15 years old, 6 feet tall and weigh about 175 pounds, but I have diabetes and gout.

I developed burning in my feet so severe it felt like a cigaret lighter was being held to my toes. I couldn't stand the touch of a sheet or blanket. I'm now taking additional pills for this. My eyesight also has been failing.

My main concern is that when I go to church and hear the choir sing I cry real tears. Just hearing the other people around me causes me to cry. I cry when someone comes to visit me, even when I'm happy.

I'm not particularly unhappy here as I have a college background and have an office job. But when I am paroled this problem could be detrimental to my earning capacity. Is this a middle-aged liability I will have to live with the rest of my life?

I also notice the medicine is affecting my sex life. I'm impotent but happily married to a beautiful woman. What can I do for her when I get out?

Your primary concern, (the tendency to crying, is related to your own emotionality. It is not restricted to middle age or old age. Men do have feelings and you are probably very sensitive. Your experiences in life may have caused you to have some depression that you don't recognize. Some professional counseling would help if you are having too much of a response, as you seem to think.

Those painful, burning feet may be a response to your diabetic condition. Involvement of nerves, called diabetic neuropathy, will cause this condition.

The impotence problem may not be from your medicine at all, but rather another manifestation of your diabetes. Involvement of nerves in diabetes can, and in diabetic males sometimes does, affect the nerves necessary for normal sexual responses. I would be very suspicious that this is your problem in view of your history of feet burning, which also may mean nerve involvement.

THE BEST APPROACH to treating the feet burning and the impotence is good control of the diabetes. Eye difficulties can also be a complication of diabetes. I do not think oral pills for diabetes in the presence of your problems is adequate treatment. The Food and Drug Administration, The Diabetic Assn. and The American Medical Assn. have all recommended treatment by diet or by insulin, not by pills. In view of your probable complications, I think you need to see a diabetic specialist, one who recognizes the benefits to be derived from a form of treatment directed more toward replacement of insulin deficiency, the cause of diabetes.

Good control of your diabetes may help with your problems, but they may not be corrected entirely even with good treatment. If your impotence persists after parole, you may be able to get some help from a urologist. There are now some satisfactory splint implants being used in selected cases. You are young and may be a candidate then. Some of these devices are rather ingenious.

'Just by being around smokers,' doctors say

Nonsmokers also ingest nicotine, monoxide

SAN DIEGO (UPI) — If you never have smoked tobacco in your life, two researchers say there still is probably nicotine in your blood and carbon monoxide in your lungs because of the smokers around you.

Just sitting in a room with smokers can quadruple the carbon monoxide level in a nonsmoker's lungs, enough to cause a headache and a dull, tired feeling, Dr. Raymond C. Slavin says.

Slavin said he and Dr. Marvin Horits of the Environmental Protection Agency measured the air in the lungs of nonsmokers in meeting rooms at the American Academy of Allergy's last gathering in a Miami Beach hotel last year.

During the course of the meeting, the academy banned smoking in the rooms, giving them a chance to do before and after studies.

Before the smoking ban, the two researchers found carbon monoxide levels of eight parts per million in the lungs of nonsmokers sitting in smoky rooms, Slavin said. After the ban, the level dropped to two ppm, the level generally found in the air of the rooms with no smokers present.

With smoking allowed, the air level rose to 10 ppm, he said. Sitting in such a room can be equivalent to smoking four or five cigarettes, he said.

The meeting rooms were large, one capable of holding 500 persons, the other 2,500.

Clubs for widowed and divorced

Sometimes a haven, sometimes a hassle

by GENIE CAMPBELL

Publicized as havens for the divorced and widowed, single clubs talk up friendship, comradeship and a shoulder to lean on. Often they represent nothing more than cash bars and sexual charades. Let the newcomer beware.

"People who have tried the single parent thing are very disappointed. Do you want to go out? Do you want to go to bed? I'm told it's really that blatant in many cases," said the Rev. R. Carl Menkens, pastor of Church of the Cross-United Presbyterian in Hoffman Estates and founder of Theos, a self-help organization for the widowed.

PART OF THE attraction of single clubs is "knowing everyone there has experienced the same kind of tragedy, losing a mate either through divorce or death," said one former member of Fifth Wheelers. "And there is no need to answer for your particular situation."

Divorced, alone with children to rear? For some clubs, it's a membership requirement.

Attending a recent meeting of Young Single Parents at Lancer's Steak House in Schaumburg, I signed up with one child (in order to be admitted) showed my driver's license for identification and paid the $1.25 guest fee. Wearing my newcomer name tag (it was trimmed in a different color from those worn by regular members), I was greeted at the banquet room door and led to a "welcoming" table where a member in good standing began his pep talk. The bar had already been pointed out to me before I sat down.

"IT'S A GREAT PLACE to come and meet people," I was told. "YSP sponsors weekend trips, parties and all kinds of activities for the kids. Once a week there's informal dancing and socializing preceded by an educational program."

"How long does everyone stick around?"

"Usually until the end, 1 a.m."

"Do you come every week?" I inquired of my host.

"Yes, and two more chapters in Chicago, too."

"Doesn't that get somewhat tiring?" I pushed.

"It's just a matter of conditioning yourself," he said.

The topic for that night, appropriately or inappropriately, however you care to view it, was "love."

But no one particularly listened to the speaker. The low din of table conversation continued among small cliques and frequently someone took the outside route up to the front bar to refresh his drink and buy another for his neighbor. The bar never closed during the program.

AFTER ANNOUNCING final arrangements for the ski weekend coming up, including a reminder to bring a bottle ("even if you don't ski there will be plenty of partying"), the lights dimmed and the stereo came on.

Playing cards having been distributed earlier, men and women with matched numbers and suits had to hunt each other out for the first dance. The previous week all the female newcomers threw one shoe onto the dance floor. Men who were anxious to dance picked up one to find their partner.

"It reminds me of a high school sock hop," said the woman to my left, also a first-nighter.

Intent on retaining a youthful image, YSP puts a 40-year-old ceiling on its membership.

"Believe me, it's good to know you'll never be hassled by a lot of old men," said one young woman who said she had experienced just that at a Parents Without Partners function.

IT MIGHT BE encouraging to note that if you're already a member in good standing when you pass your 40th birthday, you may extend your membership for another two years.

"But hopefully by then you'll be remarried," said the same woman who gave her age as 32.

Sometimes marriages within clubs do take place.

"We hate to see members leave but we are happy to lose them through marriage," said a spokesman for Fifth Wheelers. Every April all the alumni are invited back to attend a function.

The YSP crowd numbering about 150, appeared to be pretty evenly distributed, male and female, much better than other single clubs who usually have twice as many women show up as men, I'm told.

The evening progressed with people talking in small huddles, pairing off only long enough to dance, or merely standing with an elbow on the bar. Many of the newcomers, I noticed, were still seated in the same chairs.

ONE GIRL RELATED how depressed she had been after her divorce until she started coming to YSP. Another divorced man with two small children added that he had "met so many wonderful people through the club in the last six months."

"It's not like going to a bar at all," he commented.

"Why isn't it like going to a bar?" I asked. "It looks like a singles bar."

"It's just not the same. It's more comfortable here," he replied.

One woman was able to offer a better answer to the question.

"Here you know everyone is probably divorced and has children besides. You don't have to explain or hide anything. A lot of the guys you meet in a bar walk off immediately when you mention kids."

And is there much intra-club dating?

"If you want to call it that, I don't even know why I still come anymore. I've never met anyone," she added.

"WOMEN IN particular are very anxious to find another partner. Regardless how well they might have been prepared for divorce, it remains a traumatic, lonely situation," said psychologist Mike Ostrowski, a marriage counselor and associate professor of psychology at Harper College.

"The single clubs purport to take care of this. But when it turns out to be just another big pick-up, these women are very disheartened and disappointed."

Ostrowski notes that women are usually more adversely affected by such encounters. Following a divorce they find themselves generally more isolated than their former mates who are better able to rely on contacts and outlets through their work.

Many women have no place to turn. They have no careers and most of their previous social contacts were with wives of men associated with their husbands. It becomes too uncomfortable to get together anymore.

Where can they go?

"A BAR IS NOT the answer. It's immediately branded as a sexual hunt. But the clubs on paper are very alluring because they profess to have speakers come in and they also plan activities for the kids. But unfortunately, in reality, it doesn't always work."

"Particularly for a widow it can be a very horrifying experience," said Rev. Menkens.

"The woman has always defined herself in terms of a spouse, socially, politically and even economically. She often is drawing on his Social Security. She doesn't know how to cope with life itself and a new heterosexual relationship can be a terribly shocking thing."

Rev. Menkens believes that the divorced and widowed should not be lumped together.

"Like oil and water... they just don't mix," he said. "A widow or widower needs to go through a process of giving up. Two people functioning as a couple were suddenly severed traumatically."

ON THE OTHER hand, the divorcee process is sometimes an exciting reward he points out.

Menkens, who was himself reared by a widow, instituted Theos, an organization of widowed persons who adjust to singleness by getting together to share their feelings and also offer knowledge on certain practical levels.

"We talk about what you do when your car breaks down... how do you know when the repair man rips you off. Many of the women in this group have never even had to write a check before," said Rev. Menkens.

Though Theos is spiritually centered, it's ecumenical and "not all the people had close religious ties before. Anyhow, atheism is irrelevant when you are faced with practical problems," continued Rev. Menkens.

Likewise, Naim is an organization that concerns itself only with adjustment problems of the widowed; specifically, those of the Catholic faith.

A MAN WHO JOINED the Spares and Fifth Wheelers six months after his wife died because "it was the greatest crutch in the world... there is definitely some comfort in being with other people in the same situation" calls it a real ego trip for the man. Males are in great demand.

"I think you can generalize and say that women are searching for a husband. Many have children and they are looking for some kind of security. Men also have children and they're having a tough time financially as it is. They are looking for other things. The two interests usually don't mix and someone ends up getting hurt time and again."

Always careful not to get involved in any one-to-one relationship — "I went on the assumption it was safer with groups of three or more" — Bob (not his real name) found it necessary to disassociate himself entirely with both clubs.

"The clubs attract a lot of true man haters who are going through the divorce courts for at least the third time. And there are a lot of fellows who really got burnt. They're out to get even with any woman they can."

REGARDLESS the membership rosters of all the clubs continue to grow.

"They share many things in common. And the more a group shares, the closer they become," said Ostrowski.

"We know so much about trauma these days. The greatest is for death of a spouse or parent. The second highest is caused by divorce. We need some kind of agency or facility for post-divorce counseling," continued Ostrowski, who often continues to see one partner through a divorce when reconciliation is impossible.

He pushes the women to return to school, discover new interests through the various adult recycling programs offered now by community colleges.

He recommends filling up time with volunteer work or involvement with the church if that happens to be an interest.

It is important not to sit home dwelling on one's problems and loneliness, he said. Keeping busy also de-emphasizes the need to seek out heterosexual company. Far more rewarding are those meetings that happen on their own.

REV. MENKENS admits that the church as it currently operates is not always able to fill the void caused by divorce or the death of a spouse.

Bob found this out.

"I decided that I needed a religious aspect to my life. I had never joined a church, but I felt I needed to belong to something."

"The more I went the more I discovered I was an outcast. I didn't fit in with the couples club. I didn't know how to fix a dish for the potluck suppers. Everything was either oriented to families or young people's groups."

"What a letdown. As far as I'm concerned, the church is the coldest place there is."

But after five years as a widower Bob has adjusted to his single status. It doesn't bother him. Why?

"I just don't go out that much anymore," he said.

Cleaning up soot, smoke on your knitted garments

It's ironic that one of the biggest consumer rip-offs around masquerades behind a very noble sounding name: "fair trade."

In fact, it sounds so good that few people seem to question it; thus few people understand what it is.

The salesman matter-of-factly explains that he can't give you a price break on a Sony TV because "it's fair-traded," and you nod acceptingly.

But in the recent words of Lewis A. Engman, chairman of the Federal Trade Commission, "fair trade laws are little more than anticompetitive price-fixing, unadorned with any redeeming features."

Engman was addressing the Senate Antitrust and Monopoly Subcommittee, which is considering a bill sponsored by Sen. Edward Brooke, (R-Mass.), to repeal the fair trade laws.

ENGMAN URGED passage of the bill, saying repeal of the laws "will reduce prices and increase consumer choice in the marketplace."

He pointed to the 1969 Economic Report of the President which estimated that fair trade laws cost consumers $1½ million a year.

He also pointed to a Justice Department study which, some years ago, found that prices on fair-traded merchandise were 19 to 27 per cent higher than prices on the same items in states not having fair trade laws.

Unfortunately, Illinois is not one of the latter states.

Illinois and 35 other states have laws allowing manufacturers to require retailers to sell the manufacturer's products at fixed prices. These laws were made possible by the 1937 Miller-Tydings Act, which offers an outright exemption from the Sherman Antitrust Act and the Federal Trade Commission Act.

IN 1932 THIS travesty of economic justice was carried a step further by the enactment of the McGuire Act, which allowed manufacturers to impose their price-fixing even on retailers with whom they do not have a specific contractual agreement. That in effect means that no retailer in a fair trade state can choose to undercut a manufacturer's price, even if the retailer has not signed any fair trade agreements with the manufacturer.

The laws were passed with an argument based on Depression economics. In those years, income and demand both fell sharply resulting in intense price competition. Many small retailers went out of business.

Fair trade advocates argued that large retailers could afford to cut prices long enough to drive smaller guys out of business, then hike prices and gouge consumers.

ACCORDING TO Engman, the argument was and is totally specious. Studies have shown that there has been no difference between the number of small retailers failing in fair trade states and in non-fair trade states, and consumer prices have not been lower in fair trade states — they've been higher.

Moreover, if the fair trade laws themselves aren't bad enough, they have led to additional abuses of the marketplace. Some manufacturers have prevented their wholesalers from providing merchandise to retailers who have not signed fair trade agreements — even though the wholesaler is located in a state that has repealed fair trade laws. Likewise, some manufacturers have forced retailers to sign fair trade agreements even though the retailers are located in non-fair trade states.

Both actions, Engman pointed out, are unlawful even under the provisions of Miller-Tydings and McGuire. The practices have since been outlawed by a court decision. But Engman added that other similar abuses "are bound to arise."

And it seems they have, right here in the northwest suburbs. One retailer told a Herald reporter he would give her a larger-than-justified trade-in allowance on her old TV to offset the fact that he couldn't give her a price break on a new fair-traded TV. But another retailer told her he couldn't offer a large trade-in allowance because the manufacturer would consider even that to be a violation of the fair trade agreement.

Career workshop for women March 18

PARTICIPANTS will have a chance to assess themselves, their aspirations and their resources during the day's activities. Job possibilities and the necessary qualifications will also be discussed. Enrollment is limited to 80.

Cost of the workshop is $5, including lunch. Babysitting is available for children 2 years old or over at a charge of $3.50. Fees may be sent to Oakton Community College, 7900 N. Dear Dorothy: Something went wrong with our furnace, and some of my white and light-colored knits are covered with soot and smoke. How do I get this off?

—Mrs. Lillian Mitchell

For washable items with soot or smoke damage, it is recommended that undiluted liquid detergent be rubbed into the stain until thick suds are formed. It has to be worked in until the outline of the stain is gone, then rinsed well. Sometimes it is necessary to repeat the operation. Nonwashable articles have to be sponged with a grease solvent until there is no trace of the stain. This type of stain is greasy, and if the knits are polyester or valuable I'd take them to a cleaner who is equipped to do it properly.

Dear Dorothy: Reading about what kind of filters can be used for coffee brings me to ask about paper towels. Can they be used safely for draining bacon, wiping off meals and so on?

—Jennie Morton

Absolutely. The white paper towels which come in rolls emerge from steam-heated dryers as the last step and are about as sterile as any product you can buy.

Dear Dorothy: Eating at our house these days isn't the problem it used to be — with various people coming in at different times. Life has been different since I got a crock pot to cook with. I can put a meal on in the morning and know that it will be perfect whatever the time for serving.

—Mrs. Fred Platt

Dear Dorothy: When using the oven for anything, I try to remember to also make crotons for salads, soups and so on. I use stale bread, melted margarine and whichever spice happens to suit my

A Valentine wedding theme

With Valentine Day so near her wedding date, Susan E. Wiley of Arlington Heights chose a red and white theme for her Feb. 8 nuptials. At 2:30 in the afternoon that day she became the bride of John C. Helmer of Arlington Heights in St. Thomas of Villanova Church, Palatine.

The bride's five attendants were attired in wine silk jersey halter dresses with matching hooded jackets and carried white fur muffs centered with small sprays of red roses. The young flower girl wore deep pink jersey, a crown of pink and white baby's breath in her hair and carried a white basket of pink and white flowers.

Susan, daughter of Mrs. Robert K. Wiley, was given in marriage by her uncle, Dante Paris of Oak Park. She chose a white satin gown topped with a yoke of beaded lace and with wide bands of lace on the skirt and hem. A crown of lace held her lace-edged veil, and she carried a cascade of white orchids, stephanotis and ivy.

HER BRIDEGRROOM is the son of Mr. and Mrs. James E. Helmer. Matron of honor for the candlelight rites was the bride's sister, Marianne Hummerich of Hoffman Estates. Bridesmaids were the couple's sisters, Patricia and Deborah Wiley and Ellen Helmer, along with Debra Alm of Evanston.

Standing at the altar with the groom were William Demma, Buffalo Grove, as best man and groomsmen William and James E. Helmer Jr., Michael Wiley and Fritz Hummerich. The first three are brothers of the pair; the latter is the bride's brother-in-law.

Also coming down the aisle were Angela Demma, 3, the best man's daughter, as flower girl and Bruce Slice, 5, of Hoffman Estates as ring bearer. Bruce is the groom's godchild.

AFTER RECEIVING 120 guests at a party at the Plum Grove club in Palatine, the newlyweds left for a week in Hawaii. They are making their home in Arlington Heights.

Both work for General Finance Corp., Susan a secretary in the home office in Evanston and John the manager of the Wheeling office.

She is a graduate of Sacred Heart of Mary High School and attended Harper College. John attended Prospect High, Loyola University and Southern Illinois University. He also completed officer's training at Ft. Benning, Ga.

Some tips on starting seeds indoors

If you're starting seeds indoors this year for the first time, you'll need all the help you can get.

In the house, the combined effects of heat, poor light and lack of space can easily lead to disaster.

The worst time is to have a crop of seedlings ready for transplant but started too early so they must be held back, and then they are vulnerable. The slowest growing seeds, of the kind that can be sown indoors early, are hot pepper, celery, broccoli, onion. Most vegetables can be started in week before the safe outdoor transplant time. Rapid growers are started as little as four weeks before transplant time.

IF USING "sowing mix," be sure you pour the mix out of the bag into a wash tub or similar container, add water and knead the mix as you would knead bread before you ever fill the potting containers. "Sowing mix" must be fully moistened before seeds are sown in it. This is very important to success when using store-bought mixes that contain no soil. You can't sow the seeds in a "sowing mix" and add water later.

If you're using containers other than peat pots, such as used clay or plastic pots, for example, be sure the pots are scrupulously clean, washed with hot, soapy water, rinsed and disinfected if necessary.

Add clean, broken clay pot chips to the bottom of the container and a layer of gravel.

USE DISTILLED water, spring or rain water, if possible, (even melted clean snow) not chlorinated water that comes through a water softener. Make sure the water is room temperature.

The containers, whatever they are, should drain quickly when watered, but not so quickly that the water runs out faster than the plant can absorb it.

Containers for sowing seed should be two to three inches deep. Most seed will germinate indoors between 10 and 20 days after sowing. The best temperature

by Mary B. Good for starting seeds indoors is 70 degrees. If you use grow-lights, place the fluorescent tubes about 6-8 inches away from the seedlings and leave the lights on for 12-16 hours each day.

Start seeds in the dark and when you see the first hint of something emerging, bring them out and give them the best light exposure you have in the house — or the grow-light.

IF YOU HAVE a humidifier, let your seedlings benefit from it. If not, heat water on the kitchen stove and let the steam envelope the rooms until moisture forms on the inside of the windows. (You can always use the water for coffee or tea.) Another way to build up humidity is to discreetly hide pans of water around the room. (You'll know when there is enough humidity in your house for the new plants — your woodwork will rot as mine does!)

After seedlings have two sets of true leaves (but not before), begin fertilizing with a weak plant food via eyedropper added to the watering can. Be sure the liquid plant food is high in phosphorus, the essential nutrient for young plants. I prefer liquid seaweed, "Mermaid," "Seaborn," "C-Feed" or any of that type fertilizer. They are available mail order, if you consult the monthly flower magazines or Sunday supplement ads, or visit any good nursery or plant shop.

Reform overdue after FBI spying

The comfortable disclosures by a new U.S. Attorney General, Edward Levi, concerning the nature of FBI files should prompt a re-examination of the Federal government's role in American Internal comments last week before the House Subcommittee on Civil Liberties and Constitutional Rights concerned what had been widely rumored, that former FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover and three other presidents — Kennedy, Johnson and Nixon — had abused their offices through the unauthorized collection of political information.

But, not secret files in his collection on the personal lives of all persons in public life. The disclosure in this disclosure that Hoover used the FBI's resources, for political purposes.

There is more than Hoover's collection of files of FBI misuses of the three past presidents. Not only the FBI, as evidenced by the Watergate affair, but the political collection of the FBI by John F. Kennedy had not been officially revealed before Levi spoke out.

Democratic Presidents used the FBI according to the testimony of Levi and others, to gather information about political opponents. During the 1964 and 1968 campaigns, President Johnson ordered FBI snooping against his political foes. It was also reported that President Kennedy at times ordered reports on activities of certain members of Congress.

All of this adds up to an overwhelming abuse of the purposes of a domestic crime-fighting agency. Political opposition is no crime, but that isn't the way our top officials seemed to view the activities of their political foes. Such spying has an ominous sound for those of us concerned about unrestrained police power in America.

It is too late now to ask various Presidents why they violated the laws and policies of the Federal government with such ease. Likewise, it would do little good to ask why such past Attorney General as Robert Kennedy, Nicholas Katzenbach and Ramsey Clark permitted such actions.

Now is the time for reform, and that should be a task for the various governmental units investigating domestic spying by the CIA. The inquiries should be broadened to include the FBI.

It must be remembered, too, that the initiative for such official disclosures came from Edward Levi, in one of his first acts on the job as the new Attorney General. His action reaffirms our faith in his integrity as the top legal official in the United States, and we urge him to continue such frankness and forthrightness; it will serve the public's interest.

Keeping boards open

A Harper College board member last week underscored the importance of the often neglected role that elected board members have in keeping government within the law.

The board member, Shirley Munson of Palatine, questioned the fegality of a closed session of the board. In effect, she put the board on notice that she would monitor its deliberations, in line with the requirements for openness dictated by the Illinois Open Meeting Law.

After the meeting, she told The Herald that she felt the discussion was legal. Whatever her view of the board's proceedings, her example should be followed by members of school boards, village boards and the like.

Public confidence will be encouraged by such actions; a legally functioning board will have nothing to fear from such sharp-eyed persons as Mrs. Munson, who is to be commended for making certain that the public's business is to be conducted primarily in the open.

'No' to national I.D.

The problem with U.S. passport chief Frances Knight's idea of a national I.D. card is that it represents yet another federal invasion into our increasingly violated personal privacy.

Already the federal government has a variety of ways of keeping track of us, such as the Social Security number; we're somewhat alarmed by the possibility of federal computers having another opportunity to keep track of our every action (such a possibility could be a real threat under such a national I.D. system).

So, Miss Knight, you're better advised to stick to the issuing of passports. We'll acknowledge that falsifying identification is a national problem, but there are better, less authoritarian ways to solve it than through a national I.D. card plan.

Look what I found when I got inside!

Our 'immoral commitments'

With Kissinger trying to force Israel concessions of military and economic aid areas, and the Pentagon bowing to an Arab boycott of Jews, while we send military aid to Ethiopia, Pakistan, Vietnam, Cambodia, etc., we have become immoral in our commitments as it is possible to get. We have lied to our friends as well as our enemies, and most of all we have totally deceived the American public on a massive scale. Still, Schlesinger, Kissinger and Ford mouth empty threats about abandoning our commitments and losing credibility. Are we going to revive the "domino theory," too?

After the Chilean affair, the Vietnam "honorable peace," the Cambodian "defensive maneuver," what does the C.I.A., State Department and Pentagon have in store? How about a few thousand military experts "protecting" Arab oil fields? After all, where can the Pentagon send troops after we have been kicked out of Spain, China, Portugal, Australia, etc.

If the Dulles foreign policy is so successful, why are we still trying to put out fires all over the world after more than 30 years of intervention. Oh yes, it started long before Vietnam.

She hits water stand

Regarding the new Buffalo Grove water rates:

Granted, the village needs more money to keep up with the increased costs of repairs and maintenance of the water wells and sewers, but, in my opinion, the village board has placed themselves in an incongruous situation.

For the past three years the consumer has been repeatedly warned to conserve water and has been assigned definite days on which to sprinkle, wash cars, etc.

I have abided by the rules and have kept my water usage to the former 3,800 gallons per month. Now, my attitude has changed — drastically!

The minimum bill is $7.50 per month for 5,000 gallons, which is probably to the benefit of the large user.

I am one of the many small users. I definitely do not like paying for something I'm not receiving.

In these days of high prices, with everyone trying to make every penny count, instead of trying to conserve water, I'll be devising ways to use every ounce of water I'm paying for.

It would be interesting to see the figures on the upsurge on water usage if all the small users adopt my attitude. If the situation couldn't become serious, it would be self-satisfying to see the village board faced with the dilemma of supplying water, especially in the summer, when the wells drop below the level for proper pumping pressure.

Bob Lahey's column

We must relearn Watergate lesson

If the tragedy of Watergate did not teach this nation the horror of secrecy in government, the suspicion here is that we have a much more severe lesson about to be laid before us.

We are, I fear, to become like the schoolboy of frontier days who, failing to ignore a rap on the knuckles by the schoolmaster, shortly found himself straddled across a desk with a green sapling being applied to his backside.

The national memory being as short as it is, the populace seems already to have forgotten that the greatest constitutional threat this nation has ever undergone was first presented to us as a "third-rate burglary."

There is a congressional inquiry — and a press inquisitiveness — now developing which so far has produced stories that generally rate only third or fourth-page play.

Like Watergate, God save us, those stories can only grow.

Already there are hints that at least three presidents had knowledge of, and therefore some role in, the assassination of foreign heads of governments, under the pretense of "intelligence." There are hints that the current informed president has been informed of this, and is cautioning that his own investigating commission be careful not to discover more than it wishes to know.

To anyone with the barest experience at the lower levels of the United States intelligence establishment, that is not only unsurprising, it is the established procedure.

"What's behind that door?"

"Don't ask."

What if it was a band of zealots in the U.S. Central Intelligence Agency who engineered the overthrow of the Wicked Witch of the West? Better not to discuss it.

What if it was the FBI which produced the infra-red pictures which led to the unexpected retirement of Sen. Short? Best not to talk about it.

What if some low-level Navy commander dared a confrontation with a Russian submarine that damn-near led to (nuclear) World War III? It is in the public interest to forever hide that intelligence from the United States public.

What if some spook, with the rank of perhaps master sergeant, uses his acquired skills to carry out an assignment? And what if he decides to use those skills to bug your telephone, follow your daily routine, intercept your mail, with the purpose maybe of taking your children away from you? Or knocking you down for a couple hundred bucks a month? Or, in earnest, to carry out his assignment? None of your damned business.

The above answers to those perhaps exaggerated questions are not entirely fanciful.

Though the examples are themselves fanciful, they adhere to principles known to all minions of the intelligence business. EVERYTHING is secret. But it is more secret after it doesn't work than it is when you set out to do it.

It must not be known that you are about to invade the Bay of Pigs, of course. But when the invasion fails, you

The lighter side

'Henry human? Never!'

by DICK WEST

WASHINGTON — On television the other evening a panel of pundits was discussing recent criticism of Secretary of State Henry Kissinger. One panelist said any mistakes Kissinger may have made only prove he's human.

Newt Faglie from next door who was watching the program with me had gone to the kitchen for a beer.

"Did you hear that, Newt?" I called. "They're saying on the tube that Kissinger is only human."

Faglie came hurrying back. "You must have misunderstood them," he said. "Maybe they were saying the criticism of Kissinger is the worst since Truman."

"No, I'm positive one of the panelists was accusing Kissinger of humanization. Maybe I'd better check it out."

I phoned the UPI office and spoke to a night editor.

"Is there anything on the wire about Kissinger being only human?"

"Not a thing," he replied. "Sounds like another one of those vicious rumors to me. I knew there was a smear campaign against him but I never dreamed it had gotten that nasty."

"It's the type of story that might be planted by someone who is trying to undermine Kissinger's peace efforts in the Middle East."

"Yeah," I said. "It could have been planted by one of those Palestinian groups that oppose an Egyptian-Israeli agreement. They can play pretty rough when they want to."

"Right. The main hope for a settlement lies in Kissinger's reputation as a superhuman negotiator. If he loses that mystique, he might as well stay at home."

My next call was to a State Department spokesman who lives in my neighborhood.

"There's a report going around that Secretary Kissinger is only human," I said. "Do you confirm or deny?"

"No comment."

"Is there anything you can tell me off the record?"

"Off the record, Kissinger is . . ."

Since his remarks were off the record, I am constrained against quoting them here. However, I can say this:

The panelist's assertion that mistakes by Kissinger only prove he's human apparently was based on Alexander Pope's axiom that "To err is human."

But Kissinger's mistakes also can be considered in the light of another Pope axiom — "Those oft are strategems which errors seem."

So don't be too hasty about writing off Kissinger as a mere mortal. His so-called mistakes may be part of the game plan.

Bob Lahey

can't, for God's sake, let anybody know that it was you who loused up that invasion.

The principle of secrecy feeds upon itself. If you swear today it does not exist, you cannot admit tomorrow that it did exist.

No reasonable person, I think, can argue that any nation must not do what it may to inform itself about the capabilities and intentions of its adversaries — and even its friends. That is the original meaning of that word "intelligence." Since not all nations voluntarily tell their friends and adversaries all that they intend, it is sometimes necessary to learn more through subterfuge.

It is a dangerous practice. When discovered, subterfuge alienates allies, and provokes adversaries.

But when subterfuge is turned inward upon a nation's own people, it destroys freedom.

For centuries, the rulers of Europe and Asia used the power of government to spy upon and subvert their own citizens, and so to perpetuate their own rule.

If this is to become the accepted practice in the United States of America, then we are living witnesses to the beginning of the end of government of the people, by the people and for the people.

The almanac

Today is Thursday March 6, the 65th day of 1975 with 300 to follow.

The moon is approaching its new phase.

The morning stars are Mercury and Mars.

The evening stars are Saturn, Venus and Jupiter.

Those born on this date are under the sign of Pisces.

British poetess Elizabeth Barrett Browning, wife of poet Robert Browning, was born March 6, 1805.

On this day in history:

• In 1836, Mexican forces captured the Alamo in San Antonio, Tex., killing the last of 187 Americans who had held out 13 days.

• In 1857, the United States Supreme Court handed down its landmark ruling that Negro slave Dred Scott could not sue for his freedom in a federal court.

• In 1964, King Paul of Greece died at the age of 62 and was replaced by his son, Prince Constantine.

• In 1968, Joseph Martin, of Massachusetts, who twice held the post of speaker of the House, died at the age of 83.

A thought for the day: British poetess Elizabeth Barrett Browning said, "The child's sob in the darkness curses deeper than the strong man in his wrath."

'Grading inflation' a rising concern

Inflation is one of the most talked-about and most lamented phenomena in our society today, with the prices of almost everything going out of sight. But now educators are talking about another form of inflation — grade inflation — and there is widespread argument about what exactly it means.

As one publication noted recently, grade inflation means that the "gentleman's C" has, in these nonexst times, become the gentleman's B. Student grade averages in colleges across the nation have risen over the last few years, to the point where the "average" student now gets "B's" rather than "C's."

In response to grade inflation, Notre Dame University recently raised the grade-point average requirement needed for the dean's list. Graduate schools have become more skeptical of using grade averages as admission criteria and all sorts of other things have happened.

ALARMISTS SEE THE grade inflation trend as evidence that academic standards in the nation's schools are collapsing. Others argue that educators are simply realizing that grades are not a good measure of students learning and so are starting to become less rigid about it. The causes of grade inflation, however, like the causes of many things, are probably more complicated than either of those explanations.

During the last few years, there have been a number of occurrences that have contributed to the "grade inflation." Many schools, in the mid-and late-1960s, gave students pass-no pass options for some courses. The theory was that a student could take a course he was interested in, but unfamiliar with, without the fear of failing — and thus without fear of hurting his grade average.

In addition, substantial numbers of young professors became disillusioned with the whole idea of grades. Grades to them seemed arbitrary and likely to get in the way of learning. As a result, some developed the technique of giving high grades simply to remove the pressure from students so they could (hopefully) concentrate on the subject matter.

In addition to these forces, which are really direct results of the political pressures applied to colleges in the 1960s, there have been two other events which have had an impact on grades. As four-year colleges faced a leveling off, and even a decline, in enrollment in the early 1970s many people suspect there was a tendency to lower standards to keep more "warm bodies" in schools.

THERE ALSO HAS been the rise of "individualized education," designed to help a student master skills at his own pace, not at the pace arbitrarily set by someone else. Elementary schools started it, and then it spread to high schools. Now there are some college teachers who believe in that method.

There is a catch when the system is applied in college. While it can credibly be argued that a first grade teacher should do everything possible to ensure that a first grader does not "flunk" reading, it is harder to argue that the teacher in a medical school should not "flunk" an aspiring doctor who simply cannot grasp the necessary concepts as quickly as others.

A good example of how the new attitude toward failure has permeated the thinking of many students and indeed, many teachers, came a couple of weeks ago when the Oakton Community College board of trustees was considering a new program in respiratory technology.

The program is designed to train the people who have to keep you breathing in the operating room. The curriculum, as outlined at Oakton, was an extremely tough two-year program in which students would be required to take 17 to 19 credit hours per semester and spend as many as 20 or 30 hours in classes and laboratories.

THE STUDENT board member on the Oakton board objected to the fact that the curriculum started off the freshman year by requiring a student to take 19 hours, an extremely heavy load. It looked, he said, like it was an effort to weed students out.

College officials countered his statement by saying the first semester is not as tough as it looks and that later semesters while requiring fewer individual courses, actually require more time in class. Interestingly, though, no one suggested that a program which is training students in a life-or-death skill should do some "weeding out" of students who cannot cut it.

Education today
by Wandalyn Rice

Fortunately, educators are now talking quite a bit among themselves about the problem of "grade inflation" and as the discussion progresses, I suspect someone will get to the subject of the needless prejudice against "flunking" students out of a chosen field of study.

Perhaps what we will end up with is some middle ground between the blind worship of grades and the complete disregard of them. That, probably, would be a logical response to "grade inflation."

CBS special offers insight into a man gorillas trust

DESCHRYVER gains the confidence of a mountain gorilla by squatting near the animal's feeding grounds and aping him. As warden of Kahuzi-Biega National Park on the mountain slopes of eastern Zaire, Deschryver is totally responsible for the welfare of the gorillas, an endangered species.

by United Press International

When Kasimir, a 450-pound mountain gorilla in Zaire's Kahuzi-Biega National Park, sat and munched on leaves and shoots, the park warden was likely to join him. Aping them was one way Adrien Deschryver gained the confidence of Kasimir's family of 19 primates.

A Belgian, Deschryver has lived in Zaire, formerly the Belgian Congo, all his life. His family once farmed in gorilla country on the mountain slopes. During the civil war there in the early 1960s, his home and farm were burned, but he was able to get his family to safety across Lake Kivu by dugout canoe.

When peace returned to Zaire in 1963, Deschryver decided to give up farming and dedicate himself to the preservation and study of mountain gorillas, an endangered species. When the national park was created in 1968 as a preserve for mountain gorillas, he was given total responsibility for their welfare.

DESCHRYVER and his trackers followed gorilla families around for four years before one or two groups, including Kasimir's, seemed willing to let them approach closely. Before this, the gorillas had only humans as killers.

There are said to be several approaches to studying apes in the wild. Some use the reward system, in which the huge ape is fed for doing certain things. But expectation of reward tends to limit the range of the ape's behavior. Some use the submission system. When the gorilla charges, you just lie down. The gorilla won't harm you, but will lose interest and go away.

Deschryver's system is to stand his ground and make the gorilla accept him on his terms. How successful is he? An observer says, "He's now at the stage where some of the gorillas will groom him."

These pictures of Deschryver and his mountain gorilla friends are from "Gorilla," a special narrated by actor David Niven, to be shown on Channel 2 Friday from 7 to 8 p.m.

BABY GORILLA, whose parents were killed by poachers, is held by Deschryver. Left alone in the jungle the youngster might have died.

Wheeling, Palatine, Maine West in finals

A Herald Staff Report
Three area teams advanced. Three area teams were eliminated. The stage is set now for dramatic championship action in regional basketball tournaments.

Wheeling, Palatine and Maine West picked up victories Wednesday night to move into the finals of regional tournament. All championship games will be played at 7:30 p.m. Friday with Wheeling's game with Arlington (at Forest View) broadcast over WWM-FM (92.7).

WHEELING ADVANCES

Wheeling put it all together at Forest View Wednesday night, breaking loose in the second half to pin a 65-51 defeat on the host Falcons and advancing into the finals of the regional tournament.

The Wildcats will clash with Arlington at 7:30 p.m. Friday for the title and a berth in the Arlington-hosted sectional next week.

Wednesday's verdict was sweet revenge for Coach Ted Ecker and his Wildcat pack, who only one week earlier had dropped a 62-57 decision on this same floor to conclude conference play. Wheeling was obviously out to make amends for that showing as they struck for 11 straight points early in the third quarter to all but put the game out of reach.

Ed Kruk sparked the 'Cats, hanging tough on the boards, engineering a number of productive steals and penetrating the Falcon defense for a team-high 23 points. He clicked for four straight points to close out the third quarter after the hosts had rallied slightly to pull within nine of the Wildcats.

And when Forest View put together one final surge in the last stanza, trimming their deficit to 51-45 with 3:22 to go, it was Kruk again teaming with Steve Criss to ice the victory.

Wheeling was up 51-38 when Nate Adams countered for the View with a follow-up tip-in on Mark Russo's fast break layup attempt. Moments later Russo pilfered the ball and connected this time underneath.

A technical call against the guests had Tony Donile hugging a free throw. Donile completed the five-point play by hitting a seven-footer off a rebound. That had the Falcons trailing by only six.

Then Kruk went to work. He fed Criss for one bucket close-in, then prompted a turnover and took the ball up the lane for another.

When the smoke cleared Kruk had scored five straight points and Wheeling led by an insurmountable 58-45 margin. Mike Brzuszkiewicz finished with 15 for the winners, Keith Schildt had 12 and Criss 13 while Russo headed up the Falcon attack with 25.

PALATINE RIPS CONANT

Palatine jumped out to a 12-1 lead over Conant after just two and a half minutes and coasted to a 61-45 victory, pushing the Pirates into Friday's title game of the Palatine regional against Fremd.

Mark Mara of Palatine pumped in 25 points, including 12 in the first quarter when the Pirates built their insurmountable lead. Palatine stole the ball twice in a row with a tough full-court press and both times guard Chris Burrus capitalized with baskets, giving the Pirates a 10-1 edge.

Then two consecutive bench technicals on Conant sent Mara to the free-throw line where he sank his fifth and sixth points of the period at 5:47. The Cougars never again got closer than seven.

Mara, with 10 baskets, was assisted on offense by Burrus, a 5-9 senior who was an unexpected starter because of Tom Iuorio's illness. Burrus was credited with four assists and 10 points, mostly on jumpers from the top of the key.

Mike Frisch, a 6-3 junior, personally led a comeback attempt for Conant with six buckets in the second and third quarters. His 12 points were tops for the Cougars, whose 6-6 center Ron Sulaski was held to just four points all night.

"We knew they could never get the ball in to Sulaski if we covered up the middle," said Palatine coach Ron Finfrock, who changed to a zone defense after planning a man-to-man all week.

Finfrock had good words for Burrus and for 6-3 senior Jim Mayean, who was active under the boards with 10 rebounds.

After Frisch fouled out at the start of the fourth quarter, Pirate Ken Held hit a baseline jumper and Mara followed that with a steal and a nifty layup, sealing the win.

Pete Scaffidi had nine points for Conant and mate Brian O'Donnell had eight. Kevin McKenna had nine for Palatine.

WARRIORS BEAT ELK GROVE

Glen Heiden's long distance artistry plus Steve Zuccarini's scoring underneath and Paul Dick's defensive rebounding were all dominant factors as Maine West eliminated Elk Grove, 67-62, at Rolling Meadows.

The Warriors, 14-9 overall, will battle Mid-Suburban champion Prospect at 7:30 p.m. Friday for the regional title.

Heiden's game-high 20 points included eight field goals, one a 25-footer that left the score 47-47 after three periods.

His free shots in the bonus, with two seconds remaining, climaxed the Warrior victory. Scrappy Elk Grove showed guts, effected 10 ties and led briefly by six late in the third period.

Zuccarini's 19 points came underneath where it's tough. Assists from Heiden (two) and Bill Makuch (one) helped him score three second period baskets as Maine built a 39-22 lead. Elk Grove rushed to a 33-31 halftime deficit.

Two reserve centers — Maine's Paul Dick and Elk Grove's Dave Hornacek — were a pleasure to watch in the second period. Dick swept the defensive boards clean and scored five of his 11 points after replacing John Clark.

Hornacek was smooth and cool in place of Jeff Smith. He notched four second quarter field goals and took away many defensive rebounds, keying Elk Grove's surge near intermission.

After seven ties, Elk Grove broke ahead, 45-39, when Greg Kelley converted two free shots (after Maine technicals) and Bill Prince added four points.

But two field goals from Dick plus one by Zuccarini preceded Heiden's 25-foot jumper that knotted the score, 47-47.

Back and forth it went. Elk Grove leading, 56-55. Then another long jumper by Heiden and Zuccarini's rebound score plus double free throws from Dick and Makuch got Maine a 63-56 lead the Warriors never relinquished.

Steve Carson's 14 points and Prince's 13 led Elk Grove. Joe Parmentier, Kelly and Hornacek all scored 10.

The HERALD

FORMER HERALD AREA performer Dave Kingman is getting acquainted this week with his new manager — Yogi Berra of the Mets.

Chicago aims at 1st

Dick Redmond hurt his former Seal teammates, scoring a go-ahead goal in the second period. Redmond, who was traded to the Hawks from California in 1972 for Darryl Maggs, also had a pair of assists in the first period. Jim Pappin also scored to make it 4-2.

After one period of play, the Hawks were deadlocked with the Seals, 2-2, on goals from Darryl Rota and Stan Mikita.

Meanwhile, St. Louis did Coach Billy Reay's team a favor, knocking off visiting Vancouver, 5-2. The Blues rocked the Canucks with three goals in the first four minutes and then coasted to victory.

Mets' goal: outdown Dave's Ks

A couple of New York boys who have roots in Chicago are getting to know each other this week. When their relationship becomes closer, a new Dave Kingman may take the field.

Kingman, who starred in his younger days at Prospect High School, and Phil Cavarretta, a former Cub and Sox player back in the '30s, '40s and early '50s, are both part of the New York Mets. Big Dave joined the club Sunday and was immediately turned over to Cavarretta, the Mets' batting instructor.

"We've got to try and get him to cut down on his strikeouts," said Manager Yogi Berra in presenting the challenge to both men. Although Kingman hit 18 homers in 350 times at bat, he fanned 125 times, too.

"I have never seen the boy before except on TV and you can't tell much from that," said Cavarretta, who added that he'll observe Dave this week before doing anything about the 6-foot-6, 210 pounder's powerful swing.

Cubs' Hooton draws raves, anger

Burt Hooton drew the raves of Chicago Cubs' Manager Jim Marshall and the anger of some of the hitters in spring practice Wednesday in Scottsdale, Ariz. Hooton, who had pitched winter league ball in Santo Domingo, opened up with his knuckled curve and defied hitters.

"He's throwing better right now than he did last season," said Marshall. "Even though he's had a month off he's getting it in low where it should be. Last year, he was hanging it high and they were hitting." complaining that few were able to hit the ball solidly. It led to several While Hooton's pitching was pleasing to the manager, the hitters were barbed exchanges in the clubhouse.

Dunning, BeeBee star for Sox

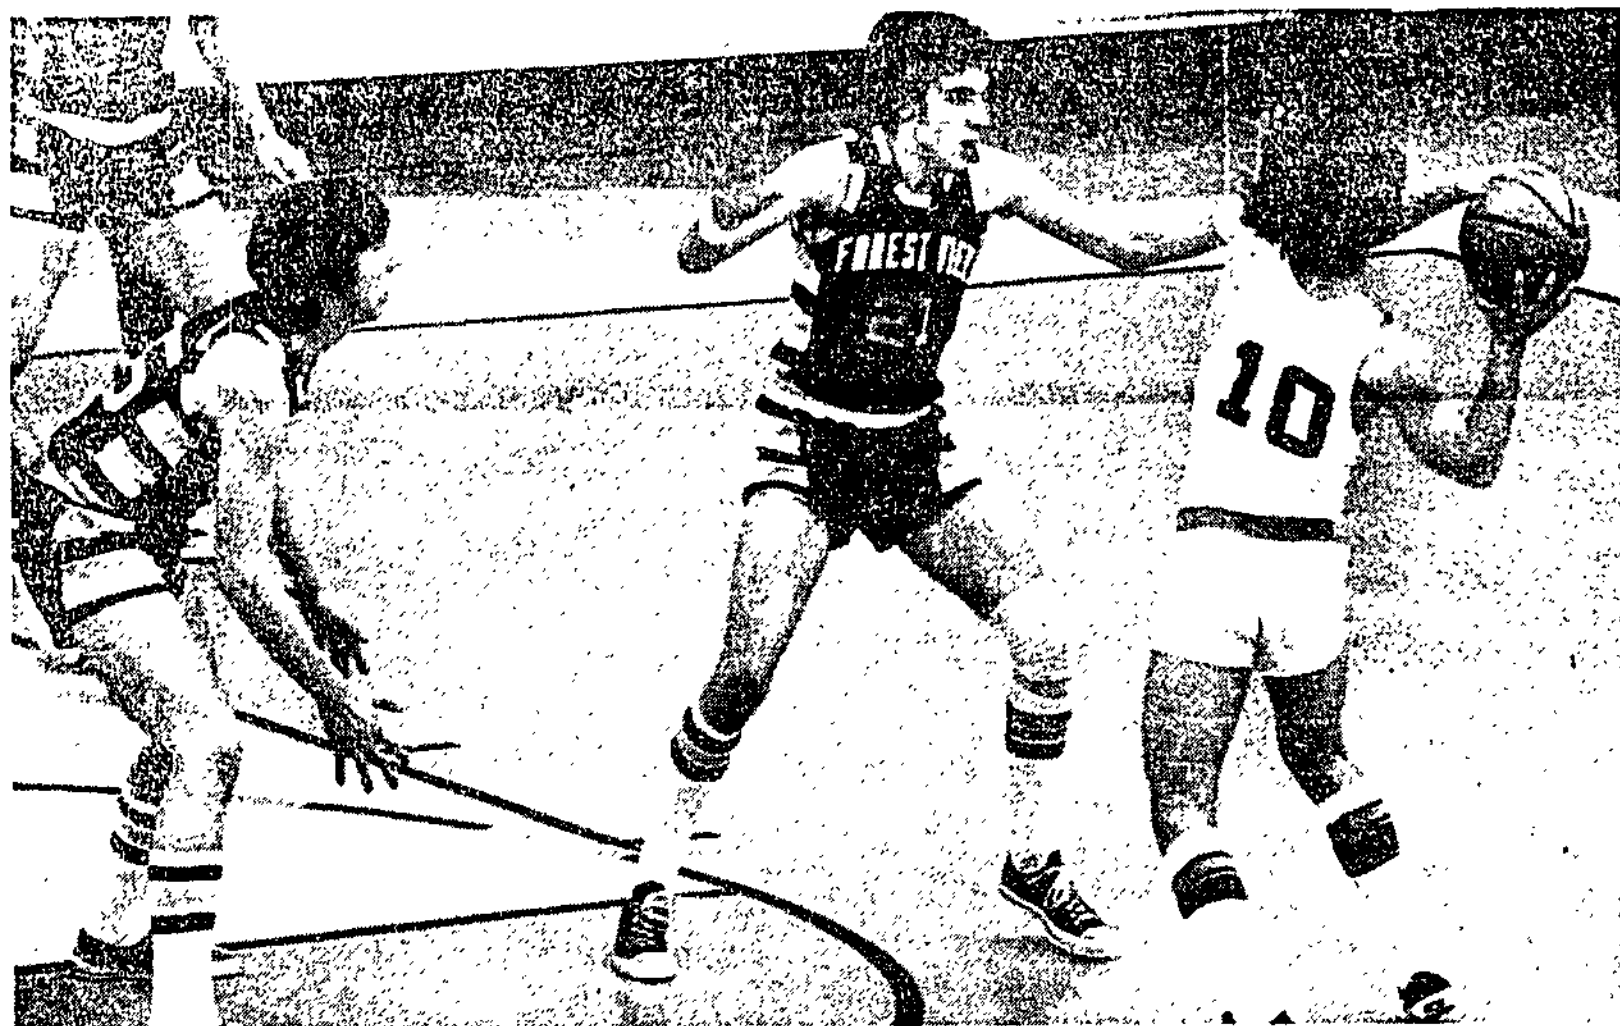

Pitcher Steve Dunning and shortstop BeeBee Richard, who are trying to hook on with the Chicago White Sox after repeated failure to sustain major league status, turned in outstanding performances Wednesday in the second intra-squad game of spring training in Sarasota, Fla. Dunning pitched 2-1/3 innings of hitless ball while striking out three, and Richard contributed three singles plus a two-run triple toward a 6-2 victory by White Sox reserves over a team comprised largely of regulars.

Top jockey falls, breaks collarbone

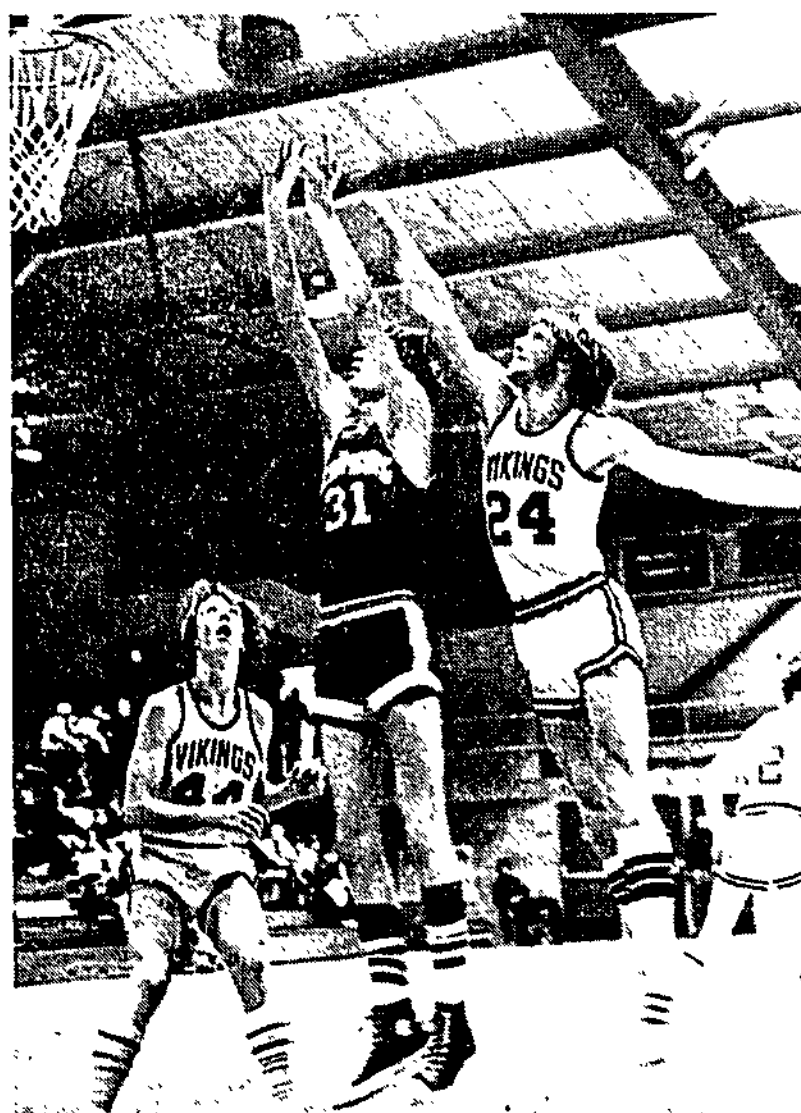

Jockey Laffit Pincay, the nation's top jockey for the past five years, suffered a broken collarbone in a fall on a rain-drenched Santa Anita track Wednesday. Pincay, 27, was listed in good condition at a California hospital following the spill in the first race.

Saxon Mielke awaits Bloom challenge after 6-4 high jump effort

by ART MUGALIAN
Track and field editor

Schaumburg's Scott Mielke is looking forward to the challenge of the Bloom Invitational track meet Saturday. He knows he's likely to find his kind of competition.

Not that the versatile Saxon junior can't find a challenge in the Northwest suburb! Tuesday at Prospect, Mielke reached 6-4 in the high jump — just an inch short of the fieldhouse mark — and he was pushed to that height by Prospect's Brad Miller, who set a sophomore house record of 6-0.

Mielke, a flopper whose best effort this year is 6-4½, barely missed in his third attempt at a record 6-5½. He had earlier won the 50-yard dash for Schaumburg in :03.8 and he later moved over to the pits to take first place in the long jump at 19-10½, his best distance of the season.

Three wins for Mielke plus individual firsts by Saxons Dave Wodek, Bruce Mahlig, Mark Hoerich, Brian Feicho, and Mike Palmer gave Schaumburg the impetus for a 75-43 victory over Joe Wanner's Prospect squad. The Saxons also won both relays and captured four second spots.

Wodek tossed the shot 52-3 and Mahlig, using a new pole, vaulted 13-0. Prospect got two wins from Jim Wright in the low hurdles and the 440 and a superb triple jump of 41-1¾ from Jack Devero. The Knights' Pat White won the mile (4:48.7).

The Fremd Vikings will be shooting for their 10th win tonight when they entertain Hersey at 7:30. Also in action in this final night of the regular season will be these Mid-Suburban Conference teams — Forest View at Wheeling, Rolling Meadows at Conant, Elk Grove at Prospect, Hoffman Estates at Schaumburg and Buffalo Grove at Palatine, Arlington has a bye.

The shooting of Colleen Cannon (16 points), Helde Geisler (14), Connie Bruns (12) and Vicki Limberg (10) paced the Vikings. Linda Webb tossed in 13 points and Kathy Evans had 10 for Conant. The Cougars' record is 3-7.

Elk Grove wins two in hockey

Elk Grove High School took two victories in the Northwest Suburban High School Hockey league, defeating Forest View 6-3 and Buffalo Grove 9-2.

Larry Mitsch and Mark Rodseth paced the victory over Forest View with two goals each. Mike Pecorelli and Joe Danca scored one goal each for the Grenadiers.

Against Buffalo Grove, Mitsch scored five goals, Pecorelli had five assists and Danca scored a three-goal "hat trick."

Mitsch scored the first three goals of the game in the first period, assisted by Pecorelli on all three. John Campbell also picked up an assist.

Buffalo Grove scored the first two goals of the second period making the score 3-2 Elk Grove, but then Elk Grove exploded for six more goals. Campbell scored, assisted by Mike Tucker. Danca scored the next two, one unassisted and the other assisted by Bob Muff and Mark Rodseth. Mitsch scored the next two goals assisted twice by Pecorelli. Tony Saltarski and Campbell also had assists. Danca scored the final goal assisted by Mike Walsh and Bill Tucker.

MITES
The Hoffman Flyer Mites, having clinched first place in their division, played their first year players the major portion of the game against Addison. Addison tied up the game in the first period — the final score of the game was 3 to 3. The Flyer goals were scored by Steve Quallata (2) and Bobby Nardella (1). Assistants were credited to Tim Donovan, Larry Brandon, Derrick Thomas, and Kenny Tompkins. Brian Stroblek again excelled in net.

SQUIRTS
The Squirrel Flyers dropped a heartbreaker 2-1 to Addison in a Woodfield Hockey League game last Thursday. The Flyers' lone goal came off the stick of Darrell Stroblek on a beautiful pass from Jimmy Smith. Goalie Mike Levin faced 25 shots in this game, and only a strong performance kept it close. Defensemen Dave Olson and winners Dave Chaitas and Denny Eggers played exceptionally well in this one. It was a tough loss, but the Squirrel Flyers gave it all they had, hustling all the way.

On Saturday the Squirrel Flyers were nipped 2-0 by the Willow Flyers in another close game. Tommy Vavra and Geoff Williams were robbed on breakaways twice each.

Only a fine game by the Cheryne goalie kept the Flyers from winning this one. John Szale played a fine game on defense, and Robbie Chaitas and Jim Smith turned in strong performances on wing. Despite the defeat, it was a great team effort, and the Flyers played well.

PEEWEE'S
The Hoffman Flyer PeeWees split the weekend action in the Woodfield Hockey League, defeating the Hoffman Park District 4-1 and losing, 7-1, in a rough defeat at the hands of the Addison 5's.

In the Park District encounter, Brad Henzel was the main offensive punch, scoring all three goals for a power but trick Brad was ably assisted by Scott Darling, Robbie Swanson, and Dave Kios. Against Addison the Flyers overcame a 5-3 deficit in the third period to tie up the game, only to have Addison set the anchors in the win. In minutes 2, wins for the Flyers were Derek Campbell (1), Robbie Swanson (1), Frank Vavra (1), and Brad Henzel (2). Swanson and Campbell with three each. Henzel with two. Mike Tompkins with one, added assists in the wide open offensive encounter.

At Fair Lanes

Among the top bowlers in recent Men's league action were Bob Rehill with a 184-187-181-180. Ron Hamm at 179-202-212-209. Ron Frost 179-157-247-260 and Bob Greenleaf, 184-176-175-165.

TRUE LUXURY IS MORE CAR TO THE FOOT.

NOT MORE FEET TO THE CAR

Some car makers equate luxury with length.

But Volvo equates luxury with luxury. So while a 164 is three feet shorter than many domestic luxury sedans, it comes with more standard luxuries. Air conditioning, power front windows, seats, heated driver's seat, four-wheel power assisted disc brakes, fuel injection and power steering.

It's a lot more car where you need it. And a lot less where you don't. $19,999.00. Test drive our Volvo 164.

Keep that dream home from being a nightmare

by LEA TONKIN

It happens every day. A couple finds the house they've always wanted in the suburbs and decide to bid for it. The house is in good shape. The seller is willing to make a reasonable deal.

Before the deal is closed, buyers can make sure that what they're paying for is what they get. A clear title to the property will indicate that it is not burdened with mortgages, liens or restrictive agreements that can hamper full use of the property. Mortgage lenders generally require proof of title ownership and a title insurance policy. If the deal is a cash sale, the buyer can ask the seller to come up with this information to ensure that the sale is completed without a hitch.

As explained by James Feehan, assistant vice president and manager of title and escrow operations for the Pioneer National Title Insurance Co. Arlington Heights office, title search and insurance services offer an assurance to buyers that they're buying real property, not someone else's financial headaches. The list of potential problems is endless, he said. For starters, the deed that the buyer hands over may include forged signatures, or the document may have been signed by a minor or insane person.

The seller may give the buyer a deed to his interest in the property, neglecting to mention several liens slapped on the title by contractors or service companies. Or a long-lost heir may appear, claiming an interest in the property after the completion of the sale.

SEARCHING OUT information on claims against the land and protecting the property title against undiscovered claims in the future is the role of the title insurance company, Feehan said.

Clear title is a "safety valve," said a representative of the Cook County Recorder's office. "A house is the biggest single investment a family will make, so buyers should make sure that all the papers are in order," he said. Property may be insured through private title insurance firms, or it may be registered in the Torrens system of Cook County, or both.

There were 9,939 transactions recorded in the Torrens system during 1974, amounting to approximately $561 million. Cook County transactions in addition to those recorded in Torrens totaled 59,666 sales.

Whether the title search is conducted by the county recorder's office or a private firm, there are several sources of information that will be checked. Louis Ciesla, manager of plant operations for Pioneer National Title Insurance in Arlington Heights, said public records will be checked in the following offices: the county recorder, any taxing authority that levies taxes or assessments on real property, circuit court records, and the clerk of U.S. District Court.

WHEN AN ORDER is filed to request a title search, the title insurance firm may take several days to bring down the title, or check past documents affecting the title. An inspector will visit the property to check the condition of any buildings, location of utility lines, and check for encroachments. After all the necessary inquiries are completed, the title insurer will issue a preliminary report, or a commitment for title insurance.

Once the lender or seller is notified that all claims in the initial report have been satisfied, the real estate closing can be planned. The title insurer will issue a policy of title insurance showing who owns the land and what taxes and assessments affect the property. The policy insures the buyer against loss or damage in the event of an error or discovery of previous claims.

There is a distinct difference between title insurance and other types of insurance, said David Poster, manager of the Chicago Title Insurance Co. Arlington Heights office. A one-time charge is levied for title insurance in contrast to continuing premiums for other kinds of insurance. "This is supposedly because there are no unseen risks," Poster said.

ONCE THE POLICY of title insurance has been issued, the insurance company assumes the risk for any undiscovered claims prior to the sale. "In the great majority of cases, we never have to pay," Poster said. The title insurer would have to pay court costs and claim settlement costs if a dispute arises after the issuance of the policy.

The seller and buyer share some of the costs associated with title insurance. The seller generally pays a $55 charge for the private title search. The buyer will pay a $20 inspection fee and any fee for recording of documents. The reissue of insurance on the property and increased insurance costs, may be paid by the seller. Poster advises buyers to engage an attorney to assure that any negotiable items will be worked out fairly between buyer and seller. Torrens fees are lower than private fees.

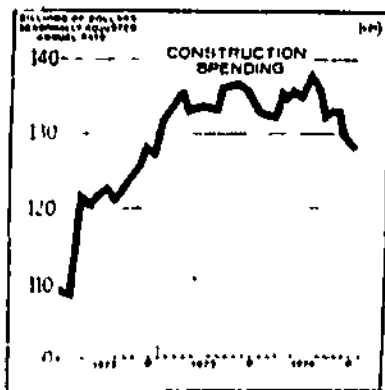

Some terms buyers will encounter...

The terms used by title-insurance experts may be unfamiliar to home buyers. Following is a list of terms commonly used in real estate transactions.

- Abstract of title. The summary of all transactions that affect a particular tract.
- Chain of title. The term applies to a series of transactions and documents that affect a parcel of land.
- Clear title. A title that is not encumbered or otherwise defective.
- Clouded title. An encumbered title.
- Commitment to insure. The report issued by a title insurance company or agent, showing the condition of title. It commits the title insurer to issue a policy upon satisfaction of all stated requirements.
- Conditions and restrictions. Designated land uses that are proscribed, with penalties provided for failure to comply.
- Convey. To transfer or deed title to another.
- Deed. A document that transfers land ownership from one person to another.
- Encroachment. A fixture, as a house, that illegally extends to another person's property.
- Encumbrance. A liability or lien against a parcel of land.
- Lien. A claim or charge by a creditor upon the land of a debtor, as a mortgage lien.
- Map or plat. The map representing a parcel of land that is subdivided into lots, indicating streets.
- Title. The documentation of the right that a person has to ownership and possession of land.

TITLE SEARCH will include an examination of public records, laws and court documents to disclose information about ownership of real estate.

Home-building costs rose 7.89% in area during '74

Home-building costs increased 7.89 per cent in the Chicago metropolitan area during 1974, a report prepared by Uptown Federal Savings and Loan Assn. of Chicago indicates.

The cost increases slowed to one-fourth of 1 per cent during the final quarter of the year, said John Cain, Uptown chairman. He said the rate, indicated in the Index of Chicago Regional Construction Costs, was the lowest boost in home-building costs since the third quarter of 1970.

The fourth-quarter results may signal a major change in price trends for building materials, Cain said. Price increases for five building materials were offset by decreases for other items during the period.

CAIN SAID there were no increases in construction wages in the final quarter of 1974. Commenting on spring contract-bargaining sessions, he said, "Negotiators for the construction unions will have to decide whether to press for catch-up wage increases in an attempt to keep abreast of double-digit inflation, or whether to moderate their demands in the face of the business downturn generally, and especially of the depression in residential construction."

The 7.89 per cent hike in construction costs during 1974 was the third highest since the index was initiated in 1960, yet a decrease from the 11.46 per cent increase during 1973. Cost increases generally have been smaller in even years than in odd years when construction labor contracts traditionally expire. The year-end index reached 225.7, an increase from the 225.1 three months earlier and 209.2 a year earlier.

Inflationary pressures may pick up steam if the housing market revives in late 1975 or 1976, Cain said. Meanwhile, he said, moderating prices for building materials "could make it possible for more people to buy homes in 1975."

Kunkel annual sales reach $15 million

Despite one of the most difficult years in the mortgage market, real estate sales were the highest in the history of Wm. L. Kunkel & Co., Realtors, reaching $15.2 million dollars in 1974, reported Ralph H. Martin, President.

Total residential transactions were 279 and a dollar volume of $12,200,000 according to James R. Duncan, vice president and director of the Residential Division. Among the residential transactions was the sale of 36 new homes in the Kingsberry development. This latter area of sales showed a slight decrease from 1973 as home building in general dropped. Though total sales transactions declined slightly over 1973, Duncan stated that dollar volume and existing home listings showed an increase.

Martin indicated that mortgage money is no longer difficult to obtain and rates are showing some signs of improving from their near maximum legal levels. He said the biggest problem has been the drop in new housing construction, which triggers many existing home sales. With signs of the mortgage market improving, new construction should pick up in the spring of 1975.

Kunkel's Commercial-Investment Division had one of its best years, reported its Director, Marvin M. Kingdon. Sales volume for 1974 was $3 million on 40 transactions. Kingdon predicts that the Division's sales will more than double during 1975. This prediction is based on a new Wm. L. Kunkel & Co. Division to handle the sale of limited partnership and the counseling of real estate investors looking for inflation fighting real property investments.

One of the Division's major undertakings during 1973-74 was the three-story Lerondo Office Building, which was completed in late summer. The 32,000 square foot building at 950 Leo Street is a deluxe office structure with an unusual atrium with hanging planters and benches. It is now 25 per cent leased and should be fully leased during early 1975. Kingdon also indicated that the increasing number of income producing properties, apartments, retail and office buildings in Des Plaines, and the northwest suburbs will have a tremendous impact on the Commercial-Investment Division in 1975, greatly contributing to its sales growth.

Now in its 48th year, Kunkel is a full service real estate firm transacting residential, commercial and investment sales and leasing. "An important reason for our success in 1974," Martin said, "was the highly trained full-time professional sales people who make up the competent staff of real estate representatives." Martin attributed the company's continuing growth to a consistent marketing program, along with an aggressive advertising program.

The opening of a new office in Arlington Heights at Randi and Arlington Heights Road on December 20th, 1974, will assure Kunkel's continued growth in 1975. Projections indicate total sales volume will exceed $20 million for the calendar year 1975, or a percentage increase of 33 per cent.

John H. Bye, broker, who will manage the new facility, and Jim McLaughlin, assistant manager, will serve the suburb's real estate needs along with the following staff: Charlene DiPiero, Al Prusko, Martha Wiesbacher, Diana Loner-

Don't neglect maintenance needs on roof

by DOROTHEA BROOKS

"Don't wait for the roof to fall before you do something about it."

This advice, while something of an overstatement, should serve as a timely reminder to homeowners who tend to overlook this important part of home maintenance. It's usually out of sight, out of mind with roofs, unlike siding, windows, doorways, lawns and walks, which shout their deficiencies each time you walk by.

Roof inspection should be a part of household routine and need not even mean climbing a ladder. A pair of binoculars will let you do the job from the ground.

The roofing experts at the Certain-teed Home Institute offer the following suggestions for preventive roof care:

- Make sure downspouts provide sufficient water drainage.
- Never allow water to cascade from one roof level directly onto another because this will damage shingles on the lower roof.
- Keep downspouts and gutters clear of debris by flushing them with a hose at least twice each year — more frequently if your home is in a wooded area. Clogged gutters may cause water to back up under the shingles, which in time can produce leaks.
- Annually inspect the flashings around chimneys, vent pipes, valleys and any portions of roof that butt up against siding as on a garage which is attached to a two-story house. If the asphalt roofing cement around these areas appears blistered or cracked, apply a generous coating of cement to the area.
- Every spring and fall look at the shingles through binoculars. If they appear curled, blistered or discolored, especially in areas exposed to sunlight, begin planning for a reroofing job. Any missing shingles should be replaced as soon as possible.
- Ceramic granules in the downspout drainage areas usually indicate shingles are deteriorating. These minute granules are applied during the manufacture of asphalt shingles to protect them from the elements. Their gradual loss often goes undetected, yet it speeds deterioration, particularly on roof areas exposed to sunlight.
- Make sure your chimney has a wire screen over it to prevent cinders or other burning debris from landing on the roof. With an asphalt roof, particularly one with the UL Class A fire rating, there isn't much fire hazard, but on a wood roof, a burning ember the size of a match head can ignite.
- Avoid walking on roofs unless absolutely necessary. In addition to the hazards, it could cause damage to shingles. Old, brittle shingles are particularly vulnerable, as are flashing areas in the valleys where two roof planes meet. Make sure workmen installing or repairing television antennas or attic exhaust fans walk on the roof as little as possible.
- Have a qualified roofer inspect the roof every two to three years, more frequently if you live in the sunnier, humid areas of the South and Southwest, where the hot rays from the sun can be especially damaging.
- Even with the best of care, a roof with lightweight shingles has a life expectancy usually no longer than 15 years. Most homes built in the 1950s and 1960s have lightweight shingles and should be closely watched.
- In reroofing, consider investing in a heavyweight shingle which is guaranteed for 25 years. These heavyweights (255 lb.-square to 380 lb.-square) come in a variety of colors and textures, even resembling wood shakes, and cost little more per year over the life of the roof.
- In choosing a roofing contractor, check with friends, Better Business Bureau or other consumer reference services. Get at least three competitive bids, and insist that all estimates and contracts be in writing.

Larry Anchor has successful month

Wayne Johnson, John Christensen and Tony Andros, principles of NW Village Realty, Inc. have announced that Larry Anchor, sales manager of their Schaumburg area office has personally participated in sales of more than 1/4 of a million dollars in residential sales for the month of January.

Anchor has been with the company for five years and is a member of the Million Dollar Sales Club.

Quinlan and Tyson has banner year

Quinlan and Tyson, Inc., Realtors, recorded the second best year in its 91-year history with total residential sales of $110 million in 1974.

Final tabulations show that Quinlan and Tyson again maintained its position as the leading firm in sales volume in the combined north shore and northwest suburban marketing area, according to Richard G. Rutledge, executive vice president.

Rutledge said the $110 million, slightly under the all-time high of $115 million, was a "conservative" figure compared to yardsticks used by many other real estate firms.

He stated, "For example, a $60,000 home listed by one Quinlan and Tyson office and sold by another Quinlan and Tyson office is counted as $60,000 in sales — not $120,000 as some other firms do.

Rutledge reported "very strong" sales of $80 million by the firm's north shore area sales offices. The average price of a north shore home was about $67,000. North shore offices are located in Deerfield, Evanston, Glenview, Highland Park, Lake Forest, Libertyville and Winnetka.

In the northwest suburban area, total sales amounted to 30,000, with an average selling price of about $54,500 he said. Northwest offices are in Arlington Heights, Palatine and Schaumburg. The Arlington Heights office broke its all-time record with sales of $15 million, including exclusive Quinlan and Tyson transactions and sales in cooperation with MAP Multiple Listing brokers.

Rutledge said the $110 million figure was significant in view of the general downturn in real estate activity in the latter part of 1974.

Rutledge noted that the firm's residential sales remained strong partly because of Quinlan and Tyson's "Quest" Transfer Program which serves corporate employees transferred to and from the area. The "Quest" program set a new sales record as it found homes for about one of every two transferred buyers and sellers.

Good home buys for budget-minded

For budget-minded, young families seeking a good buy in a home, Sam Korn, president of Larwin-Ilinois, says "The very best buys in the entire Chicago area today are to be found in a group of some 70 used homes at Trend I Village in Greenbrook Country."

"The Carmel ranch with three bedrooms, one bath, carpeting in major living areas and a one-car garage may be had for as little as $11,000, with low, affordable down payments," Korn said.

"Building costs will increase in 1975, and soon at that, due not only to general inflation but because of the dynamics of the housing industry. While present inventory is available, people should take advantage of today's prices. As inventory diminishes, prices will rise and the good deals will be gone," Korn predicted.

Korn said the homes in Trend I are single-family, detached, not the town-house type, and that most of the lots are on child-protecting cul de sac streets in Hanover Park, about one mile from the North Western railroad station.

California spaciousness is emphasized in the design of the Carmel even though it is the smallest single-family home offered by Larwin in Greenbrook Country, according to Korn.

"Each home in this special group has individual amenities," Korn said. "Some have room-finished basements. Others have recreation rooms with wood paneling or beamed ceilings. Kitchens in all of them are General Electric-equipped. The highest price for a Trend I Carmel home is $37,000, and those have an abundance of deluxe amenities, including two-car, instead of one-car, garages."

Korn said the 70 used homes in the Trend I group include, besides the Carmel ranch, two other basic styles, at higher but still reasonable prices. They are the three-bedroom, one-bath, split-level Balboa priced, from $36,200 to $39,600, and also the four-bedroom two-bath Coronado ranch, priced from $35,800 to $44,100.

"The home shopper at Trend I has not only the advantages of good prices and affordable financing programs but also the opportunity to see the finished product rather than having to rely on the imagination," Korn said.

Trend Village is located in the 1000-acre Greenbrook community off Lake Street (U.S. Route 20), just east of Barrington Road in DuPage County.

The homes are open for inspection weekdays from noon to 8 p.m. Saturdays from 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. Sundays from 10 a.m. to 8 p.m.

Anita Kaulig

Anita Kaulig gains honor

Anita Kaulig has been named "Sales Associate of the Month" for January for the T. A. Bolger, Realtors office in Wheeling.

In making the announcement, Robert M. Hall, vice-president and sales manager commented that this was only the second month that Ms. Kaulig has been with Bolger. "The December opening of our third and newest office in the Wheeling Buffalo Grove area is another step toward achieving our plans for rapid expansion in the MAP multiple listing service," Hall said.

Prior to moving to Wheeling, Ms. Kaulig resided in Chicago and was a sales associate for Kruger Realty.

"Woody" Squassoni

Squassoni named top sales leader

"Woody" Squassoni ended the year on a high note, as he was named top salesman for the month of December, at Wm. L. Kunkel & Co., Realtors, announced Ralph H. Martin president.

It was the fourth time in 1974 that Squassoni was named sales leader of the month. He earned the honors in February, April and June for bringing in the highest monthly total of real estate sales and listings. Squassoni was awarded the sales leader of the month award twice in 1973 and four times in 1972.

A member of the Kunkel residential sales staff since 1966, Squassoni has gained lifetime membership in the "Million Dollar Sales Club" of the Illinois Association of Realtors as a result of achieving real estate sales exceeding $1 million in each of the past four years. He also has obtained the designation of Graduate, Realtors Institute for completing the three phase seminar of the state realtors association.

In 1972, Squassoni was associate director of the Northwest Suburban Board of Realtors and is on their social activities committee. He also is a member of the Elks, Moose and Avid Clubs. He resides with his wife, Vi, in the Brentwood area of Des Plaines. They have three children: Jeff, Debbie and Lori.

Cars like warmth

If you have trouble starting your car in cold weather, remember that batteries are weaker when the temperature is low. To offset this condition, the National Better Heating-Cooling Council suggests you add heat to your garage. For homes with hydronic heating, this can be very simple if the garage is attached to the house. Extend the heating from the room next to the garage, and your car will be warm all winter long.

Once a month you'll love us all over again.

Writing your rent check is just one of the pleasures waiting for you at Moon Lake Village.

Another one is living in your apartment. And enjoying the space the comfort the lush wall to wall shag carpeting the kitchen appliances.

Another is going outside. To your fresh country atmosphere. To your private clubhouse. To your Olympic sized pool. To your tennis courts. To your playgrounds. To your well-stocked lake.

Another is knowing Woodfield Mall is just minutes away. Moon Lake Village. You'd love it if it cost more. Because it doesn't, you'll be wined about it.

First loss in a week

Stock trading slows; Dow off 4.92

NEW YORK (UPI) — The stock market sputtered to its first loss in a week Wednesday on the New York Stock Exchange.

The Dow Jones industrial average, up and down throughout the session, fell 4.92 to 752.82, its first loss since it plunged 17.76 points Feb. 25. The Dow had been ahead more than 5 points following a lower opening.

Other averages also suffered. Standard & Poor's 500-stock index lost 8.66 to 82.90. The average price of a NYSE common share dropped 22 cents. Declines topped advances, 833 to 569, among the 1,807 issues crossing the tape.

VOLUME SLOWED to 24,120,000 shares from the 34,140,000 traded Tuesday, the second heaviest trading session in NYSE history.

Oil issues plunged as the hopes of the past three sessions for oil price reductions were replaced by uncertainties.

There was some encouraging news for investors. A number of banks — headed by Morgan Guaranty Trust Co. — reduced their prime lending rate to 7.75 per cent from 8.25 per cent — the lowest level since June 1973.

Benetton Foods was the most active issue, up 3/8 to 20 1/8 on 539,200 shares. Honeywell followed, off 2 5/8 to 29 and Sony Corp. was third, unchanged at 8 7/8. PRICES CLOSED lower in fairly active trading on the American Stock Exchange. The average price of an Amex share declined by 11 cents. Volume totaled 2,460,000 shares, compared with 3,205,000 Tuesday.

On the Chicago Board Options Exchange, 56,741 contracts were traded, compared with 76,445 Tuesday. IBM April 220s led the actives, up 7/8 to 8 1/4. Northwest Orient April 20s followed, off 1/4. Polaroid April 25s were third, off 1/4 to 25 1/4.

Prof studies the percentages

The Professor let the spade lead run around to his ace. Then he led a diamond to dummy; played the three of clubs and finessed his 10 spot after East followed low. He chased his act of clubs and, after both opponents followed, the Professor could count 12 tricks in sure winners. He played the hand out to see if a squeeze might develop in spades and hearts. But it didn't, so the Professor settled for his small slam.

"Why did you take that club finesse?" asked the student. "Isn't it better percentage to try to break the suit when you have seven cards and miss the jack?"

"If dummy held the ten of clubs, I would have played out ace-king and queen," the professor explained. "That would give me five club tricks any time clubs broke or the jack dropped doubleton. There is a 36 per cent chance of a 3-3 break, plus a 16 per cent chance of dropping a doubleton jack. I would have had a 52 per cent chance for my contract under those circumstances."

"With the 10 of clubs in my hand, it would do me no good to drop the doubleton jack of clubs, because the four clubs in his partner's hand would stop me. On the other hand hanging the high clubs would only represent a 36 per cent chance. The play I took would produce five club tricks at any time the suit

THIS IS ONE OF Dunbar Lakes' six styles of condominium townhomes (three 2-bedroom models, and three 3-bedroom models) in Schaumburg. In addition to attached garages, artium court yard with brickwork and

2 staffers start year right

The first day of the new year brought an executed contract to two sales associates in the Des Plaines office of Gladstone, Realtors. At 7 p.m. New Year's Day Uni Okuma and Marge Silvestri completed the sale of a duplex in Des Plaines to the Singh family. Ms. Okuma and Ms. Silvestri worked together on the listing and were the selling sales associates.

This teamwork between two knowledgeable sales people brought in the most listings for 1974 in the Des Plaines office. And they have started 1975 with three listings in the first nine days, plus the duplex sale.

Both women agree that with financing terms easing, no one has to delay a move any longer. Other equally well qualified sales associates are in the Gladstone offices in Villa Park, Franklin Park, Berkley, Westchester, Mount Prospect and Elk Grove Village.

Economy from Grandma's kitchen

Saving money on the food budget is enough to make one leap with joy, and these new recipes have been created with an eye to economy. They were inspired by those culinary miracles that Grandma turned out on her cast iron stove; low in cost, high in nourishment and appetite appeal.

BOUNTEOUS BEEF PIES

Crust:

- 1 1/2 cups sifted all-purpose flour
- 1 teaspoon salt
- 1/2 cup shortening
- 3/4 cup quick or old fashioned oats, uncooked
- 8-10 tablespoons cold water

Filling:

- 2 1/2 cups chopped cooked beef
- 1 package (9-oz.) frozen cut green beans, cooked and drained
- 1 can (10 1/2 oz.) condensed cream of mushroom soup

For crust, sift together flour and salt. Cut in shortening until mixture resembles coarse crumbs. Stir in oats. Sprinkle water by tablespoonfuls over mixture and stir lightly until dampened; form into a ball. Divide dough into two equal parts. Roll out half of dough on lightly floured board or canvas to form 13-inch circle. Fit loosely into 9-inch pie plate. Trim. Fill with beef and green beans. Evenly spoon mushroom soup over beef and beans. Roll out other half of dough to form 12-inch circle, cut slits for steam to escape. Place over filling, trim. Turn edges under; flute. Bake in preheated hot oven (425 degrees) 40 to 45 minutes or until top crust is evenly browned and filling is bubbly. Makes 8 servings.

DINNER IN A DISH

- 1/2 pounds ground beef
- 1 cup quick or old fashioned oats, uncooked

Stir flour and salt into melted butter in medium-sized saucepan. Gradually blend in milk, stirring constantly over medium heat, until thickened. Stir in potatoes; heat thoroughly. Remove from heat. Cook peas according to package directions; drain.

Fill center of meat crust with creamed potatoes. Surround outer edge of meat crust with peas. Bake in preheated moderate oven (350 degrees) 5 to 10 minutes. Before serving sprinkle with paprika. Makes 8 servings.

Dietitians concerned about food fads

This week has been proclaimed National Nutrition Week by the American Dietetic Association (ADA). "Food Fads Fool" is the theme chosen by the 26,000 member group.

Members of the ADA are concerned with the increasing amount of misinformation on food and nutrition disseminated in the United States with its resultant economic and nutritional exploitation of the American people.

The ADA states that unusual food practices are not necessarily bad, but warns that those fads lacking in necessary nutrients or focusing on extremes are potentially dangerous.

PARTICULARLY singled out by the organization are the low-carbohydrate diet, zen microbiotic diet, starvation or fasting with less than 800 to 900 calories a day and diets focusing on just a few foods.

How do you spot a food fad? The ADA suggests: Food fads always make big promises, such as...

- fantastic health and longer life;
- instant slenderness;
- spiritual awakening, or inner peace;
- protest of the Establishment — counter-culture living;
- cures for illnesses (cancer, arthritis, mental disorders and a host of others).

The American Dietetic Association

The association maintains that "nearly all edible foods may be classified a natural and health foods because they contribute nutrients to man's diet, promote physiologic and psychologic health. All foods are 'organic' because they are composed of organic compounds containing carbon."

Health food advocates frequently over-emphasize the emotional and symbolic value rather than the scientific and nutritive values of foods, the association position paper states.

ON THE SUBJECT of vitamins, the ADA says "normal, healthy individuals do not need vitamin, mineral and dietary supplements if an adequate diet is consumed... the basic four food groups."

Quick and easy dinner with beef and sour cream

After a busy day, nothing could be easier to fix for a quick meal-in-one dish than Beef with Sour Cream.

And what flavor? Tender strips of beef steak browned in butter, then simmered briefly with onions and mushrooms in hot beef bouillon. Served over all is a dairy-rich sauce of sour cream and flour blended together.

This zesty satisfier is made even more colorful when served on a fluffy bed of white rice dotted with strips of green pepper and pimiento.

Brown in butter in fry pan. Push beef to one side. Separate onion slices into rings. Cook onions and mushrooms in fry pan with beef for five minutes. Add salt and pepper. Dissolve bouillon cube in hot water. Pour over beef mixture.

Cover; simmer for 25 minutes or until tender. Combine sour cream and flour. Spoon over beef mixture. Cover; simmer for five minutes. Serve with rice. Makes four servings.

BEEF WITH SOUR CREAM

- 1 1/2 pounds round beef steak, cut into strips
- 1/4 cup butter
- 2 medium onions, sliced
- 5 ounces fresh whole mushrooms
- 1 teaspoon salt
- 1/2 teaspoon pepper
- 1 beef bouillon cube
- 1 cup hot water
- 1 cup (8 ounces) sour cream
- 2 tablespoons flour
- Hot cooked rice
- Green pepper
- Pimiento

Cut steak into one-half inch pieces.

Spinach deceiving

Looks are deceiving, sometimes. A pound of spinach, before it is cooked, looks like enough to feed a crowd. Don't let it fool you — it isn't. When cooked it will yield approximately enough for four.

Flavor pork roast with West Indies orange sauce

The rash of diets swamping Americans in this day of "think thin," have also been looked into by the ADA. Their recommendation is a weight loss plan of one to two pounds per week to avoid potential health hazards.

In a 1972 survey, Edward H. Rynearson, M.D., emeritus professor of medicine at Mayo Clinic, found that:

- Three-fourths of the population believed that extra vitamins provide more pep and energy;
- One-fifth of the population attribute arthritis and cancer to vitamin and mineral deficiencies at least in part;
- Millions treat themselves without consulting a physician;
- Three million adult Americans have worn brass or copper jewelry for arthritis and rheumatism.

The doctor goes on to say "the most widespread and expensive type of quackery in the United States today is the promotion of vitamin products, special dietary foods and food supplements. Millions of consumers are being misled concerning their need for such products."

Normally a loin pork roast needs little flavor additive, but this West Indies recipe is unusual and pleasantly different because it blends good pork taste with oranges.

Select a 6-pound loin end roast, which is more economical than a center cut, and ask the butcher to saw the chine bone for ease in carving. Allow roast to reach room temperature.

Rub all surfaces of the roast with salt and pepper. Melt enough butter or margarine to cover the bottom of the pan in which you will do the roasting and place the pork in it.

Mix together 2 cups orange juice, 2 teaspoons grated orange rind, a dash of cayenne pepper, 1/4 teaspoon garlic powder, and 1/4 teaspoon leaf oregano (optional). When well mixed, pour about half of this over the roast.

PLACE IN A preheated 325 degree oven and when roast begins to brown, pour over remaining orange juice mixture. Thereafter use pan juices to baste regularly while roast cooks approximately 2 1/2 hours or to 170 degrees on a meat thermometer. Serves six.

Most everyone likes a good ham loaf and this one adds fresh vegetables to the ingredients. Finely chop 2 cups cooked ham and in a mixing bowl combine with 1 cup sliced ripe olives, 1 lightly beaten egg, 1/2 cup shredded carrots, 1/4 cup diced onion, 1/4 cup diced celery, 1/4 cup milk, 1/2 cup fine bread crumbs, and 1/4 teaspoon pepper. When well mixed, taste and add salt if needed.

Lightly pack into a buttered quart size loaf pan and bake in a preheated 350-degree oven for 40 minutes or until browned. Garnish with celery leaves and ripe olives and it will be pretty as a picture when brought to the table. Serves four.

If you'd like a sauce for the loaf, try this one made with plums, a flavor that goes well with ham in almost any form. Drain a No. 2 1/2 can of whole peeled purple plums and reserve the syrup. Cut plums in half and remove pits.

Put plum syrup in a saucepan and stir in 3 tablespoons cornstarch, 1/4 teaspoon salt, 1/4 teaspoon cinnamon, and 1/4 teaspoon allspice. Cook, stirring constantly, until sauce thickens and is clear. Add the plum halves, 2 tablespoons lemon juice, and 1 tablespoon butter. Cook until just heated through and serve. Makes 4 cups.

Potato intrigue

How about adding some intrigue and cottage cheese to your stuffed baked potatoes? Bake three large potatoes at 400 degrees until tender. Cut in half, scoop out the inside, saving shells. Beat mashed potatoes with four fat tablespoons butter, one cup cottage cheese, one tablespoon chopped olives and salt and pepper to taste. Spoon mixture into shells, sprinkle with paprika and bake in oven for 10 minutes or until tops are lightly browned. Makes six servings.

Sundae treat

Honey Butter Sauce on a sundae is a special treat any day of the week. In a one-quart saucepan melt one-half cup (one stick) butter with one eighth teaspoon cinnamon. Remove from heat. Blend in three-quarters cup honey and a dash of salt. Stir in one-half cup whipping cream until smooth. Add one teaspoon orange extract (optional). Serve warm over ice cream.

Prices effective through Sunday, March 9th, 1975.

He's a chili purist

Robust stew draws recipe requests

by LOIS SEILER

Sausage and spice and everything nice go into the hearty stew and chili prepared by Arthur Jackson of Arlington Heights.

Director of public relations for American Airlines, Art began cooking about 20 years ago as a hobby. He cooks from inspiration, finding it an interest that brings dividends in dining pleasure.

His sausage stew was devised from necessity when the Jacksons forgot to defrost meat for Sunday dinner. Although meat cannot be purchased at supermarkets on Sunday, sausage can. Art bought a variety — hot and mild Italian, Polish and pork sausage, and an array of vegetables, and then went to work.

The sausage is cooked first, drained and then simmered in Burgundy wine. This is combined with sweet potatoes, red cabbage, zucchini, butternut squash, mushrooms and onions cooked in a tomato sauce. Angostura bitters sweetens the concoction and makes it edible, according to Art.

BECAUSE THE STEW is hearty and spicy, he prefers a light salad, such as greens tossed with a vinegar and oil dressing, and sour dough French bread as accompaniments.

Both from the standpoint of availability and flavor, Art prefers the taste of sausage in his chili as well as his stew. However, he concedes that you can still make a pretty good chili with beef, if it is coarsely ground.

A member of the International Chili Appreciation Society, Art is a chili purist. He reports that in Texas, where the Society often holds chili cookouts, beans are not included in the dish, but are cooked and eaten separately. Whenever he travels, Art orders chili, evaluating the quality and picking up ideas here and there to add to his own recipe.

One indication that Art's chili is hot and spicy is the ½ cup chili powder used in the tomato sauce, which is also seasoned with oregano, onion and wine. Masa flour is used as the thickening agent, and Pinto beans or kidney beans may be added, if desired. Art recommends serving the same accompaniments with the sausage chili as those suggested with the stew.

REAL MAN-PLASERS, Art has served both the chili and stew to guests as a casual meal — always with success and recipe requests from friends. These dishes are also a hit with the Jackson's daughters, Meg and Sue. If a dessert is in order, he prefers something light, such as brandied ice.

Although his wife, Jane, is a good cook, Art can't resist getting into the kitchen at least a couple of times each week. He likes to cook hearty soups with big chunks of beef and spinach, and prepare Oriental dishes in a wok. And you won't hear Jane complain; indeed, his culinary endeavors win her hearty approval.

SAUSAGE STEW

- 2 pounds mild Italian sausage
- 2 pounds hot Italian sausage
- 2 pounds smoked Polish sausage
- ½ pound bulk pork sausage
- 1 cup Burgundy wine
- 1 large can peeled tomatoes, cut up
- 2 medium sweet potatoes, peeled and sliced thin
- ½ pound zucchini, sliced

½ pound butternut or winter squash, cut in squares

- ½ pound fresh mushrooms, or a large can
- 1½ to 2 cups small round white onions
- ½ head shredded red cabbage
- 1 tablespoon seasoned salt
- 1 tablespoon coarsely-ground pepper
- ¼ cup Angostura bitters

Fry bulk sausage; add remaining sausage and a little water to cover and cook until tender, about 20 to 25 minutes. Pour off grease. Add wine to meat and simmer to keep hot while preparing remaining ingredients.

In a separate kettle, place tomatoes and sweet potatoes. Cook 10 minutes. Then add remaining vegetables and bitters and cook about 20 minutes more or until sweet potatoes are fork-tender.

Combine sausage with vegetables and cook another 10 minutes. Keep hot until serving. Serves 8 to 10.

SAUSAGE CHILI

- 2 pounds Italian sausage (hot or mild)
- 1 8-ounce can tomato sauce
- 2 cans water
- 1 cup finely-chopped onion
- ½ cup chili powder
- 1 tablespoon oregano
- 1 tablespoon paprika
- 1 teaspoon salt
- ½ cup Masa flour
- ½ cup red wine
- 1 large can Pinto or kidney beans, plus juice (optional)

Remove skin from sausage, chop up and cook in enough water to cover until done. Pour off liquid and grease. Add all remaining ingredients except flour, wine and beans. Cook for 15 minutes. Dissolve flour in wine and add to chili. Add beans, if desired. Cook another 15 to 20 minutes. Serves 8.

Herald market basket survey

The total cost of a market basket of groceries rose 21 cents last month, according to a price survey last Friday. Meat prices accounted for the majority of increases while items in the dairy and processed vegetable categories remained near stable.

Bacon was up 32 cents over last month for the highest jump in the meat section. Ground beef was down 20 cents and bologna 10 cents. Round steak and whole chickens were up 4 cents each and pork loin chops up 10 cents.

With the exception of eggs, which rose 14 cents, all dairy products surveyed remained the same.

POTATOES WERE UP 50 cents in the fresh produce category. Lettuce was down 20 cents and broccoli 31 cents. Cereals and dry groceries remained about the same except for corn flakes which decreased 20 cents in price. Sugar was up 14 cents.

A 10-cent decrease in mixed vegetables and a six cent decrease in canned green beans accounted for the lower total for processed fruits and vegetables.

Prices were obtained from a representative Jewel Food Store in Arlington Heights.

Aggressive spending aids survival in supermarket

The more you understand and practice "aggressive spending," the better you fare when matching wits and pennies with big business at the supermarket.

Aggressive spending doesn't mean spending fast and/or vigorously. Instead, you aggressively seek out the best value from a number of alternatives involving price, image, suspected and real quality, and service. In aggressive spending you look for the best quality-price-service combination available.

Before you can choose from a number of alternatives, you need information usable at the point of decision — in today's case, the supermarket.

Take buying ham as an example of aggressive spending. Ham in all its variety remains a relatively good buy. The key word, with all meat prices up, is — relatively.

As an aggressive spender, you'll look for answers to such questions as:

1. Is boneless ham a better buy than one with the bone in?
2. At what price differential is a butt portion a better buy than a shank portion?
3. What is the cost effect of "water added?"
4. How do costs differ between "fully cooked" and "cured and/or smoked?"
5. How much do you pay for the gelatin in canned hams?
6. How do fresh hams differ from cured hams?

Look at these facts to help you choose a best buy: Hams are divided into four parts — butt portion, center slices, shank portion, and the hock or leg end. A butt or shank half includes center slices in addition to either portion. Because there's very little waste in center slices, they cost more per pound but may provide a best value.

Hams may vary from fresh — that is, uncured and uncooked — to dry smoked and salted. In between are cured, cooked and canned. Few dry smoked and/or salted hams are available, and they are costly. Cooked hams provide more protein per pound than cured but uncooked or partially cooked hams because cooked hams contain less water. Since canned hams are cooked after sealing, the net weight you pay for includes fluids cooked out plus a small amount of gelatin (1/4 ounce in a 5-pound ham).

Picnic ham or smoked butt, parts of the shoulder, are similar to hind quarter hams but contain less lean meat.

Boneless ham may simply have the bone removed, or may be trimmed, sectioned, and flattened with a minimum of waste. As expected, boneless hams cost more per pound than bone-in hams for a couple of reasons — less waste and labor expense for boning. If you cook the bone or hock with soup, beans, or stew, then the bone may not be considered waste.

Now — to those questions:

You can afford to pay $1.30-$1.35 for a whole boneless ham compared to a bone-in ham at $1 a pound. That is, you can afford to pay a third more for a ham with the bone out. You can afford to pay two-thirds more for center slices than for bone-in ham. Or, figure number of servings per pound — five from center slices, four for boneless, three for bone-in hams, and two for a picnic.

A butt portion is worth about five to 10 per cent more than a shank portion.

Water added means the ham may weigh as much as 10 per cent more than the "green" or fresh ham. Figure on loss ing as much as 10 per cent of the weight as fluid cooks out. Thus, you should pay about 8 to 10 per cent less for a ham with water added regardless of whether the bone is in or out.

Fully cooked versus cured only — figure like "water added." You can eat a fully cooked ham with no cooking or merely warmed. But, expect a fresh or cured-only ham to shrink when you cook it.

Sign of quality

Tough rind is a sign of quality in winter squash. It is a sign of maturity and good eating quality.

Mix equal amounts of frozen orange juice concentrate and honey to flavor winter squash. Add salt and spoon a little into cavities of halved, seeded acorn or butternut squash and bake in a 400-degree oven 20 to 60 minutes, depending on the size of the vegetables.

Good to the last drop

What to do with the last bit of ketchup in a bottle? Pour in oil and vinegar. You'll get a small amount of delicious salad dressing.

Creamette has a right size thin spaghetti for everyone...

7 oz. for singles and newly marrieds. 14 oz. for small families. 2 lb. for large families and parties.

Olives and raisins accent chicken dish

Even with today's higher prices, chicken is still one of the most economical protein foods. Its mild flavor makes it compatible with many other foods.

Here's a braised chicken that may turn out to be a family favorite. Brown the chicken in butter and onion, add the seasonings, some sliced pimiento-stuffed olives and raisins for a new combination. Cover and simmer the chicken until tender; then serve with rice.

OLIVE BAKED CHICKEN

- 3 pound frying chicken,
- cup up
- 1/2 teaspoon garlic salt
- 1/2 cup butter or margarine
- 1/2 cup chopped onion
- 1 cup golden raisins
- 1/2 cup sliced pimiento-stuffed olives
- 1/2 teaspoon curry powder
- 1/2 teaspoon ground cumin (optional)
- 1 can (10 1/2 ounces) chicken broth
- Hot cooked rice

Wash and dry chicken pieces. Sprinkle with garlic salt. Melt 2 tablespoons butter in large skillet; brown chicken pieces on all sides over medium heat. Add remaining 2 tablespoons butter and onion to skillet. Cook, stirring occasionally, until onion is tender. Reduce heat. Sprinkle raisins and olives over chicken. Mix curry powder and cumin with a little chicken broth; pour over chicken along with remaining broth. Cover and simmer 25 to 30 minutes, or until chicken is tender. Serve with rice.

To relieve overcrowding Change Tarkington, Field borders: panel

A Wheeling-Elmhurst Grove Dist. 21 subcommittee recommended Wednesday night that boundaries be changed for Field and Tarkington schools to relieve anticipated overcrowding.

The London Junior High School subcommittee suggested to the boundary committee:

- Students attending Field who live north of McHenry and Aptakisic-Tripp roads be transferred to Irving School, 1250 Radcliffe Rd., Buffalo Grove.

- Students at Tarkington this year who live in the Dun-Lo Highlands subdivision west of Buffalo Grove Road and south of Dundee Road be transferred to Riley School, 1209 Burr Oak Dr., Arlington Heights.

Field, 51 St. Armand Ln., Wheeling, anticipates 641 students next year which would overcrowd the school. Transferring students as recommended would take 121 students from Field primarily from the Whipple Tree and Cedar Run subdivisions.

Foxboro developer charges planner 'abuse'

by TOM VON MALDER

The developer of the Foxboro apartment complex in Wheeling said Wednesday he believes he has been "abused" by the village's plan commission.

The plan commission last week rejected, in a 4-to-2 vote, a revised plan presented by developer Irving Lefkowitz for the undeveloped portion of the complex, on the west side of Wolf Road, north of Hintz Road.

Lefkowitz said the revised plan was presented to the plan commission at the suggestion of Tom Markus, village administrative assistant. Lefkowitz said the changes made in the plan involved "moving some of the units around" so that wider parking spaces, a wider approach for fire department vehicles and a larger retention basin would be in the development, as required by the village.

"I am not asking for any more units (apartments) than the 400 approved by the village in an annexation agreement," Lefkowitz said. "I think we've been abused somewhat. We didn't make any radical changes."

LEFKOWITZ SAID if the village board also rejects the revised plans, he will consult his attorney to consider his next step. The developer did not say he would sue the village if approval were not granted, but he did not rule out the possibility of a lawsuit.

The controversy between the developer and the plan commission arose because the revised plan, when submitted, was labeled "phase two." Lefkowitz said the word choice was unfortunate, that the project is in fact one whole project being built in two portions as each portion is financed.

by United Press International
It's back to business as usual in the automobile business — slow.

New-car dealers, with the best sales period of the 1973-model year behind them, told UPI business this week is much like it was before the cash rebates started in mid-January — almost nonexistent in some cases. Other dealers, however, noticed no difference since the rebates ended last Friday.

"It sort of slowed up real quickly," says Roger Harper, sales manager of Stewart Chevrolet, San Francisco. In Chicago, a Ford dealer was more explicit: "Since the rebates ended, it's been like someone turned off the faucet."

Area sales 'holding up'

Many auto dealers in the Northwest suburbs said Wednesday that sales are holding their own since cash rebates ended Feb. 28, despite reports from around the nation showing sales have slowed.

Only one Chevrolet dealer in this area said sales have dropped off since the rebates on small cars ended.

GOV. DANIEL WALKER is greeted by members of the Illinois General Assembly as he leaves the chamber following his budget message. The governor presented a record $10.8 billion request for fiscal 1976.

Walker proposes record budget

SPRINGFIELD (UPI) — Gov. Daniel Walker Wednesday proposed a record $10.75 billion state budget for the coming fiscal year — an increase of 36.5 per cent from the request he made a year ago and of 24 per cent from current appropriations.

Walker estimated he will spend $8.15 billion during the year starting July 1 — another record.

The budget calls for a second straight year of deficit spending and would wipe out every cent the state has in general-revenue reserves.

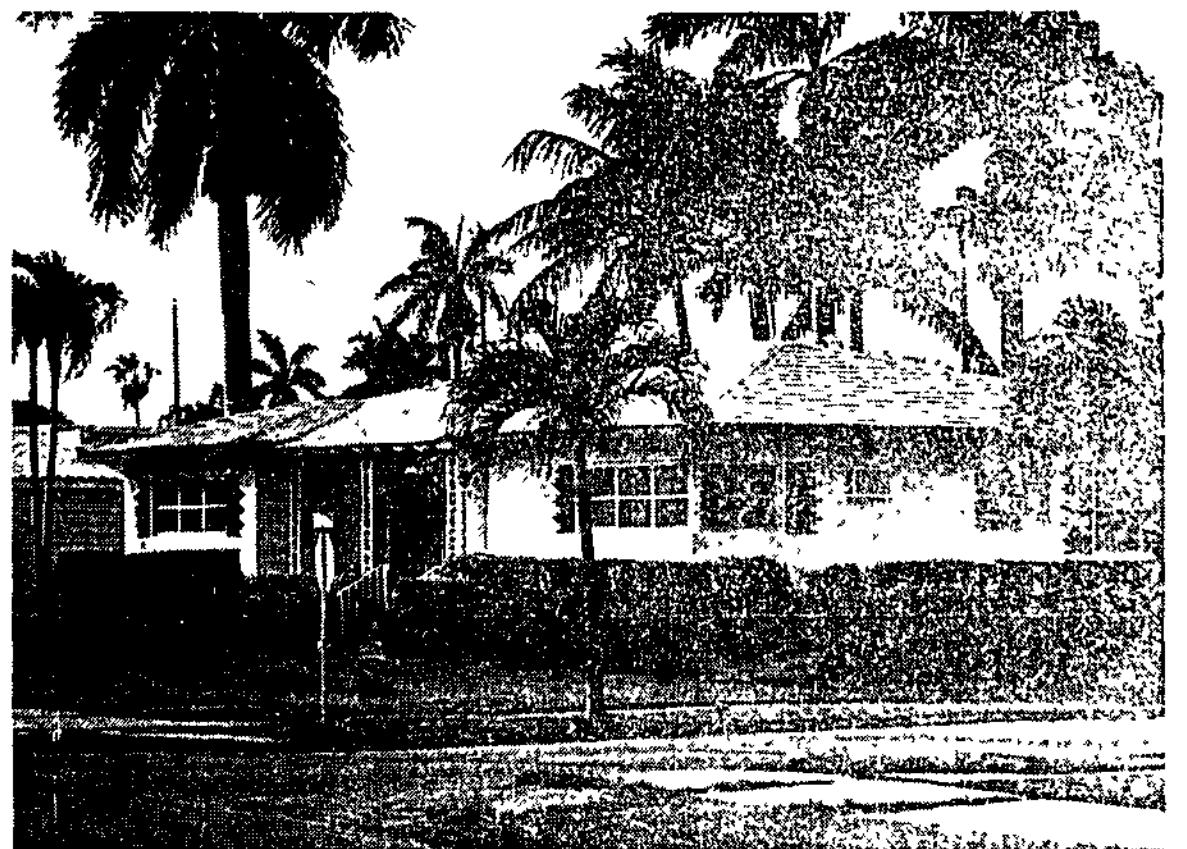

Walker said he will avoid a tax increase by spending the surplus left over from past years and by issuing hundreds of millions of dollars in new bonds, which will not come due for retirement for 20 or 25 years.

Comptroller George Lindberg, however, called the proposal a "blueprint for bankruptcy." He and some other analysts said the massive hike in appropriations and in spending will force a tax increase by 1977 at the latest.

Walker acknowledged his budget proposes spending the state dry. But, he said, such a program is needed to fight the recession and growing unemployment.

"In my book, this is the rainy day we've been protecting against," he told a (Continued on Page 3)

VACATION HOME of County Republican Chairman Floyd T. Fulle is involved in the federal case against him. Fulle said he paid $35,000 for the Hollywood, Fla., house in 1970 but the grand jury said the price was $45,000. He was charged with perjury because of his testimony.

Linked to alleged payoff

U.S. to press Fulle on Florida land deal

by AL MESSERSCHMIDT

The purchase of a Florida vacation home and testimony by the man who sold it are key elements in the federal case against County Republican Chairman Floyd T. Fulle, The Herald has learned.

Joseph D. Zizzo, a bank executive and former village president of Harwood Heights, has told a federal grand jury that he sold a Hollywood, Fla., vacation home to Fulle in 1970 for $45,000, according to a source close to the case.

Fulle testified before the grand jury that the house cost $35,000. He later was charged with perjury because of that testimony. The jury apparently believed Zizzo's version of the house deal, despite documents in federal hands that indicate the price was $35,000.

AT ISSUE IS the amount of Fulle's down payment. Fulle told the grand jury he paid $10,000 down, but the grand jury said in the indictment that the down payment was $20,000.

The $20,000 figure is important because Fulle also is charged with receiving a $20,000 payoff three months before the house purchase from developer Sellergren Inc. Fulle, a county commissioner, allegedly shook down the firm for county apartment zoning in Palatine Township.

Fulle purchased the vacation home Aug. 28, 1970, according to a deed filed with the Broward County, Fla., circuit court clerk's office. Tax stamps on the deed show a $35,000 purchase price. The stamps were purchased Oct. 5, 1970, when Fulle paid the balance of the purchase price.

Federal investigators have obtained a copy of the house-purchase agreement, which lists furniture, decorations and a $35,000 purchase price for the house, at 1401 Hollywood Blvd., Hollywood, Fla.

A copy of a $10,000 cashier's check from the Parkway Bank and Trust Co., Harwood Heights, which was a down payment on the purchase, also is federal evidence. In addition, Fulle is believed to have given the grand jury a copy of a personal check for more than $24,000, which was further payment on the house.

ZIZZO, WHO was village president of west suburban Harwood Heights from 1961 to 1965 and now is senior vice president of the Parkway bank, refused to discuss the property sale or Fulle's indictment.

His attorney, Warren Fuller, confirmed that Zizzo has appeared before the grand jury.

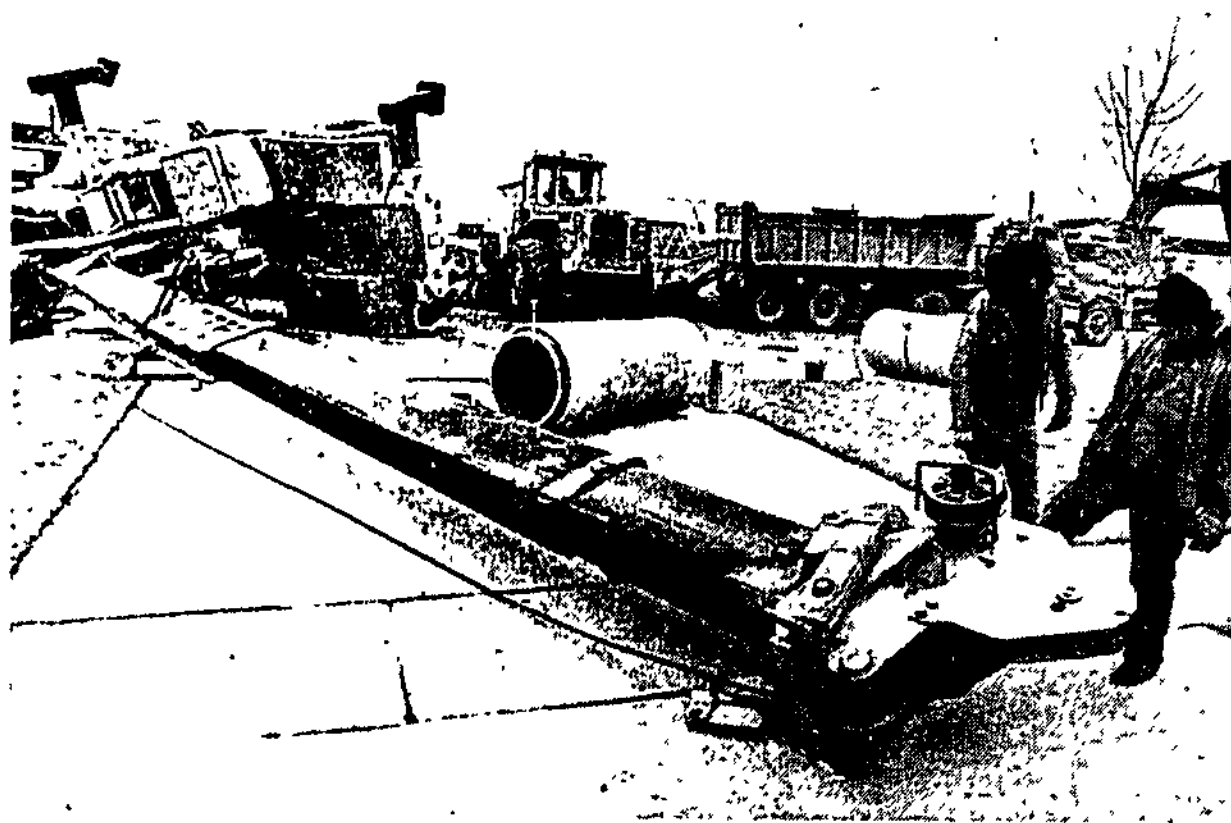

Also refusing to comment were Fulle and Assistant U.S. Atty Anton Valukas, who heads the county zoning investigation.

Federal officials apparently have not attempted to link the Fulle home purchase with county zoning obtained by Zizzo in 1969 and by another Parkway bank official in 1970 for the Devon-51 apartment project in Elk Grove Township.

Internal Revenue Service agents obtained both zoning files from the County Zoning Board last summer.

ZIZZO, AS BENEFICIARY of an Exchange National Bank trust, is owner of 27 acres north of Devon Avenue and west of Rohlwing Road in the middle of the Devon-53 site. The property was zoned for high-density apartments by the county board July 29, 1969. The board vote was unanimous and included a "yes" vote by Fulle.

A second, 30-acre parcel in the proposed project, which is owned by Aaron Cohen, also was rezoned. The Parkway Development Co. is planned developer of the land and (Continued on Page 7)

BOOM TIME IN Schaumburg. A construction crane Wednesday toppled onto a driveway at 433 S. Walnut Ln. The crane was lifting sewer pipe and the weight was too heavy, causing the equipment to fall on its side, said

Wally Wendt, crane operator for D.L. Amici Construction Co., Melrose Park. Police said only slight damage was reported and there were no injuries. One witness said the crash made a "hell of a noise."

Rich takes River Grove job

Prospect Hts. schools aide resigns

Tom Rich, assistant superintendent of Prospect Heights Dist. 23, resigned his position Wednesday night to become superintendent of River Grove Dist. 81 1/2.

The Dist. 23 board accepted Rich's resignation effective in June and appointed Gerald McGovern, principal of MacArthur Junior High School to the post.

Rich has served in the district for the past 17 years, the last six as assistant superintendent. He started in the district as a teacher and was principal of MacArthur from 1962-69.

Supt. Edward Grodzky credited Rich with "bringing special education to a high point in the district" and said, "I feel I am not only losing a great administrator but a good friend. He's going to a very fine district."

"I'M VERY appreciative of all the opportunities I've had administratively in Dist. 23," Rich said. "I feel I had good training and experience."

Dist. 81 1/2 is a one-school elementary district. Rich described it as one of the more affluent districts in the state.

"They are able to provide many services, many small districts aren't able to provide," Rich was selected for the position from 75 applicants.

McGovern joined the district in 1967 as a teacher and described his new appointment as "another opportunity to serve in Dist. 23."

"I have only one regret in accepting this position," McGovern said. "I will miss the excitement that anyone has to feel in working with junior high kids. It's one of the most stimulating, exciting transferred from Field still would attend London Junior High School.

Students who might be transferred from Tarkington, 310 S. Scott St., Wheeling, are bused to school because they must cross Buffalo Grove Road. The boundary change, which would allow the students to walk to school is expected to remain for several years. The subcommittee also recommended that a sidewalk be built along Buffalo Grove Road.

THE SUBCOMMITTEE also recommended that Tarkington's enrollment and boundaries be reviewed next year for possible boundary changes.

THE COOPER and Holmes Junior High School subcommittees have recommended no boundary changes for next year. However, the Cooper group has urged that crowded facilities at Alcott School, 530 Bernard Dr., Buffalo Grove, be reevaluated next year.

The subcommittees' recommendations will be reviewed by the boundary committee Wednesday before final recommendations are made to the school board. The committee was appointed by the board to investigate possible boundary changes to alleviate crowded conditions next year and to develop long-range building and boundary plans for the dis-places you can be."

THE BOARD authorized Grodzky to find a new principal for MacArthur School by the second board meeting in May.

In other action Wednesday night, the board adopted a 1975-76 school year calendar that coincides with that of High School Dist. 214. The school year will begin Sept. 2, the day after Labor Day, will include a two-week winter vacation, a one-week spring vacation beginning on Good Friday and will end June 14.

The board also changed its regular meeting dates for April. The board will meet April 9 and 16.

Park program finish seen in 60 days

Wheeling Parks Supt. David Phillips said Wednesday a $130,000 park-improvement program started late last year should be finished in about 60 days.

The improvements include installing playground equipment, lighting parks and tennis courts and landscaping park sites throughout the village. The improvements are among those promised in the $700,000 referendum approved by the voters in 1972.

Phillips said the lighting and playground work already has been started and the landscaping will begin in early spring.

The $75,000 lighting work involves installing lights at the new tennis courts at Heritage and Husky parks. After the lights are installed, residents will be able to play tennis at night for a slight charge.

The work also will include installation of a walk light at Chamber of Commerce Park and a safety light at Northside Park.

THE $39,000 playground equipment already has been installed at Husky Park and the sites adjacent to Sandberg and Twain schools. Workers now are installing playground equipment at Northside Park and soon will begin installation at Heritage Park and the sites next to Whitman and Field schools.

Park board members have asked that the landscaping work be delayed until spring because they feared the new trees and shrubs would die during the winter. The work will cost about $16,000 and will consist of extensive planting at Husky, Chamber, Heritage and Northside parks.

Phillips said when the work is complete, the park district will have met most of its park improvement obligations promised in the referendum. "When these are finished, the only thing remaining of major consequence is our land acquisition program," Phillips said.

In the 1972 referendum the park district outlined an expansion program designed to bring new sites into the park system. The park district has obtained one site and is attempting to obtain two others.

Some of the other referendum projects that have been completed include the new tennis courts, walkways and basketball courts at several parks and a new parking lot.

Buffalo Grove's financial future looks healthy: Larson

by BETTY LEE

The financial picture for the 1975-76 fiscal year in Buffalo Grove will be the "healthiest" in years, Village Mgr. Daniel Larson said Wednesday.

Larson said additional tax revenue from new residential and commercial development is expected to bolster the village's shaky finances, which were weakened by a poor construction season last year.

"By the first of September, we'll be in strong financial shape," he said.

The prediction was made by Larson in light of the 1974-75 projected annual report, which will be used at coming budget meetings. The first session will be at 8 a.m. Saturday by the village board's finance committee.

The village expects about $136,000 in general funds left from the current fiscal year, Larson said. The money will be available because every village department "pulled in their belts," Larson said.

OF THE $3.1 million budget last year, about $1.4 million was allocated for general funds. About $1.3 million is anticipated to be spent by the end of the fiscal year, April 30, leaving some funds available at the start of the new year.

Tax money will come with the first phase of the Plaza Verde center, adjacent to Villa Verde apartments near Arlington Heights and Dundee roads, with the center scheduled to open in May. Within the center, Eagle Food and Osco Drug stores and two other businesses will bring in tax money by September, Larson said.

Also, Grand Spaulding Dodge on Dundee Road will be another source of revenue.

The village is dependent on commercial and residential development as a source of income because of the lack of industry. Last year, officials projected that more than 700 new residential units and five shopping centers would be built.

BUT A TIGHT mortgage market, combined with a slow growth in the nation's economy and the two-month long cement truck drivers' strike last year, severely slashed construction activity in Buffalo Grove, Larson said.

Village departments were able to cut expenses and remain below budget allocations by:

- Canceling all training requiring village funds between Feb. 1 and Sept. 1, 1975

- Discontinuing participation in the Metropolitan Enforcement Group, effective live Sept. 1, 1974.

- A moratorium on hiring staff until "absolutely necessary." There are 70 full-time positions of which three remain unfilled.

- Delaying a 1974-75 employee pay plan until Aug. 1, 1974.

- Purchasing a used tractor instead of a new one for the public works department, saving $4,000.

- Deferring the village hall landscaping and sidewalk project.

- Eliminating participation in national professional conferences.

Despite the cutbacks, the village was able to start several programs and services such as:

- An investigative youth division at the Buffalo Grove Police Dept.

- A second full-time mechanic to maintain police and public works vehicles. Major repairs done by the village result in substantial savings, village officials said.

- Construction of a regional stormwater retention basin at the Arlington Country Club on Buffalo Grove Road. This is a project jointly financed by the State of Illinois, the Metropolitan Sanitary District and the village.

- Storm water relief projects along Buffalo Creek, White Pine Road and along the rear yards of McArthur Lane.

- Participation in a central police dispatching program with Arlington Heights, Mount Prospect and Elk Grove Village.

- A study on the proposed town center to be built in the area bounded by Buffalo Grove Road, Ill. Rte. 83 and Lake Cook Road.

- Well repairs at a cost of $135,000.

- Street resurfacing and curb replacement project at a cost of $137,000.

- Landscaping on the Dundee Road median.

- Cleaning of all storm-sewer catch basins.

- Emergency generators installed at two major sewage lift stations.

- New staff cars to replace high gas consuming cars.

- Installation of a sanitary-sewer flusher.

The village also equipped its Civil Defense truck with emergency supplies, hired an architect for the new public service facility, entered a lease purchase agreement with the Buffalo Grove Golf Course and assumed operational responsibility and gave financial support to Omni-House: Youth Services Bureau in Wheeling.

ect and therefore determined the density of each half, rather than the whole project. Because most of the retention basin lies in the unbuilt area, it lowers the buildable land in that area. Thus, the plan commission said the density of the project yet to be built would be 20.6 units per acre and rejected the plan.

The plan commission based its rejection on the village code allowance of 16 units per acre maximum. However, one of the plan commissioners who voted against the revised plan, Jack Metzger, said he was opposed to the density and the architectural design of the project. "I just don't like it period," Metzger said.

The matter is expected to be brought before the village board later this month.

Oakton must add local share

$200,000 state college funds cut threatened

by WANDALYN RICE
Maine and Niles townships face the loss of $200,000 in state adult-education funds unless Oakton Community College starts using some of its local tax money to help finance adult-education programs.

The Illinois Community College Board has threatened to cut off the funds to a cooperative made up of two high school districts and Oakton Community College unless Oakton puts local tax money into subsidizing classes offered by the cooperative.

The cooperative, Maine-Oakton-Niles Adult and Continuing Education Program, was formed in 1971 by Maine Township High School Dist. 207, Niles Township High School District 219 and Oakton.

THE STATE MONEY is used to pay for certain nonrecreational adult education courses, with the rest of the cooperative's money coming from tuition charges. The program is administered by Dist. 207.

Iray Hartstein, Oakton board chairman, said the state college board has recently changed its rules to require community colleges to put local tax money into support of adult-education programs if they want state funds. He said a proposal to cut off money to MONACEP was put on the state board agenda recently without notice to college officials, but Oakton officials managed to head off action.

"When we've got this much money in jeopardy, we're going to go down fighting," Hartstein said.

Hartstein said that in order to qualify for the state funds under the new rules, Oakton will have to change its agreement with the two high school districts so the cooperative's budget will be included in the college budget and so a prohibition against using local tax money is removed from the agreement. The two high school districts however, are prohibited by law from putting local tax money into adult-education programs.

OAKTON Vice President David Hilquist said the college is partially subsidizing the program with college services funded by tax money, but the services do not show up in the cooperative's budget as a financial contribution. Hilquist said negotiations have started between Oakton and the two high school districts to change the agreement and added that officials hope to have a revised agreement ready in 60 days.

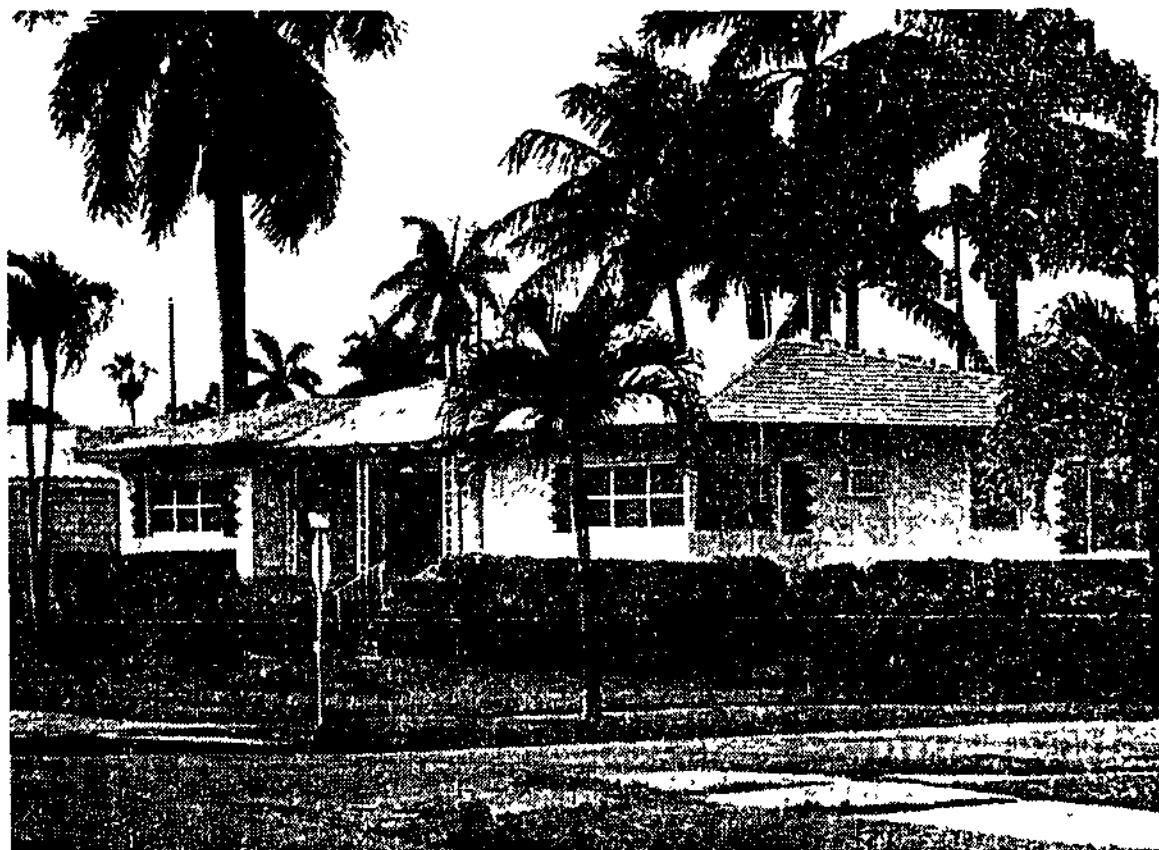

Hilquist said the total adult-education budget is about $600,000. The state money is paid to the program at the end of the year in order to reimburse the college for money spent during the year. He said about 10,000 students are enrolled in the noncredit adult-education classes, most of which are held at local high schools.

Oakton Pres. William Koehline said the requirement that the college support the program with local tax funds is a new one. The cooperative agreement, he said, "was acceptable for 2½ years but it's not acceptable now."

VACATION HOME of County Republican Chairman Floyd T. Fulle is involved in the federal case against him. Fulle said he paid $35,000 for the Hollywood, Fla., house in 1970 but the grand jury said the price was $45,000. He was charged with perjury because of his testimony.

Linked to alleged payoff

U.S. to press Fulle on Florida land deal

by AL MESSERSCHMIDT

The purchase of a Florida vacation home and testimony by the man who sold it are key elements in the federal case against County Republican Chairman Floyd T. Fulle, The Herald has learned.

Joseph D. Zizzo, a bank executive and former village president of Harwood Heights, has told a federal grand jury that he sold a Hollywood, Fla., vacation home to Fulle in 1970 for $45,000, according to a source close to the case.

Fulle testified before the grand jury that the house cost $35,000. He later was charged with perjury because of that testimony. The jury apparently believed Zizzo's version of the house deal, despite documents in federal hands that indicate the price was $35,000.

AT ISSUE IS the amount of Fulle's down payment. Fulle told the grand jury he paid $10,000 down, but the grand jury said in the indictment that the down payment was $20,000.

The $20,000 figure is important because Fulle also is charged with receiving a $20,000 payoff three months before the house purchase from developer Sellergren Inc. Fulle, a county commissioner, allegedly shook down the firm for county apartment zoning in Palatine Township.

Fulle purchased the vacation home Aug. 28, 1970, according to a deed filed with the Broward County, Fla., circuit court clerk's office. Tax stamps on the deed show a $35,000 purchase price. The stamps were purchased Oct. 5, 1970, when Fulle paid the balance of the purchase price.

Federal investigators have obtained a copy of the house-purchase agreement, which lists furniture, decorations and a $35,000 purchase price for the house, at 1401 Hollywood Blvd., Hollywood, Fla.

A copy of a $10,000 cashier's check from the Parkway Bank and Trust Co., Harwood Heights, which was a down payment on the purchase, also is federal evidence. In addition, Fulle is believed to have given the grand jury a copy of a personal check for more than $24,000, which was further payment on the house.

ZIZZO, WHO was village president of west suburban Harwood Heights from 1961 to 1965 and now is senior vice president of the Parkway bank, refused to discuss the property sale or Fulle's indictment.

His attorney, Warren Fuller, confirmed that Zizzo has appeared before the grand jury.

Also refusing to comment were Fulle and Assistant U.S. Atty. Anton Valukas, who heads the county zoning investigation.

Federal officials apparently have not attempted to link the Fulle home purchase with county zoning obtained by Zizzo in 1969 and by another Parkway bank official in 1970 for the Devon-53 apartment project in Elk Grove Township.

Internal Revenue Service agents obtained both zoning files from the County Zoning Board last summer.

ZIZZO, AS BENEFICIARY of an Exchange National Bank trust, is owner of 27 acres north of Devon Avenue and west of Rohlwing Road in the middle of the Devon-53 site. The property was zoned for high-density apartments by the county board July 29, 1969. The board vote was unanimous and included a "yes" vote by Fulle.

A second, 50-acre parcel in the proposed project, which is owned by Aaron Cohen, also was rezoned. The Parkway Development Co. is planned developer of the land and (Continued on Page 7)

End of rebates cuts auto sales

by United Press International
It's back to business as usual in the automobile business — slow.

New-car dealers, with the best sales period of the 1975-model year behind them, told UPI business this week it is much like it was before the cash rebates started in mid-January — almost nonexistent in some cases. Other dealers, however, noticed no difference since the rebates ended last Friday.

"It sort of slowed up real quickly," says Roger Harper, sales manager of Stewart Chevrolet, San Francisco. In Chicago, a Ford dealer was more explicit: "Since the rebates ended, it's been like someone turned off the faucet."

GOV. DANIEL WALKER is greeted by members of the Illinois General Assembly as he leaves the chamber following his budget message. The governor presented a record $10.8 billion request for fiscal 1976.

Walker proposes record budget

SPRINGFIELD (UPI) — Gov. Daniel Walker Wednesday proposed a record $10.75 billion state budget for the coming fiscal year — an increase of 36.5 per cent from the request he made a year ago and of 24 per cent from current appropriations.

Walker estimated he will spend $8.15 billion during the year starting July 1 — another record.

The budget calls for a second straight year of deficit spending and would wipe out every cent the state has in general-revenue reserves.

Walker said he will avoid a tax increase by spending the surplus left over from past years and by issuing hundreds of millions of dollars in new bonds, which will not come due for retirement for 20 or 25 years.

Comptroller George Lindberg, however, called the proposal a "blueprint for bankruptcy." He and some other analysts said the massive hike in appropriations and in spending will force a tax increase by 1977 at the latest.

Walker acknowledged his budget proposes spending the state dry. But, he said, such a program is needed to fight the recession and growing unemployment.

"In my book, this is the rainy day we've been protecting against," he told a (Continued on Page 3)

Park district weighs buying Thacker site

The Des Plaines Park District has expressed interest in buying the vacant two-acre site of the old Thacker School in the 1500 block of Thacker Street.

The Des Plaines Dist. 62 Board of Education decided this week to sell the lot, which is across the street from Central School, 1526 Thacker, and is leased to the park district.

Robert Reinke, assistant school superintendent, said board members "didn't see any need for the site and it's not essential for the program at Central."

"They want to put it back on the tax rolls," he said.

Under state law, the school board must give local government agencies first option on the property. Dist. 62 Business Mgr. Harold Brieschke said he has notified the city and the park district that the lot is for sale.

If neither governmental body buys the property within 60 days, Brieschke said the site would be offered at a public sale. The land is zoned for apartments and Brieschke said the school district is seeking an estimate of its value.

DAVID MARKWORTH, superintendent of recreation for the park district, said his agency is interested in the property. He said the district has been operating a winter skating rink at the site under a school-park district agreement.

"We've been hesitant to do any more development at the site because we only had a lease agreement," he said.

Markworth said purchase of the property will be discussed at the March 18 park board meeting.

Des Plaines Mayor Herbert H. Belrol said he was notified Tuesday that the Thacker site was for sale. He said he sent a letter to aldermen about the property and "it's up to them to decide what they want to do."

Fifth candidate files petitions for Oakton board

A fifth candidate has filed nominating petitions for a three-year term on the Oakton Community College board in the April 12 election.

John Prochaska, 31, of 504 N. Redfield Ct., Park Ridge, was defeated in the 1973 and 1974 elections. He said he is running again because "the interest is still there and I've had time to get to know the board members better. My candidacy was never a one-time thing."

Other candidates for the two available terms are incumbent Vivian Medak, Lincolnwood; Alvin Marks, Niles; Lee Prince, Skokie; and Thomas Ruckert, Glenview.

Prochaska said, "I can't see any real big issues in the election unless you want to get involved in personalities." However, he did say a "local issue" in his candidacy will be to provide Park Ridge with representation on the board.

City's '74 fire-loss rate called lowest in 8 years

by LUISA GINETTI

Fire losses in Des Plaines dropped significantly in 1974 despite an 11 per cent increase in fire calls compared with 1973, according to figures released by the Des Plaines Fire Dept.

Property losses due to fires amounted to $130,965 in 1974 compared to a loss in 1973 of $310,116. Fire Chief Donald Corey said the 1974 fire-loss figure represents the lowest per-capita loss to the city in eight years. The 1974 per-capita loss, based on a population of 58,000 was $2.26 compared to $5.34 in 1973.

A decrease also was reported in the total fire loss of contents to buildings with $72,290 in contents lost in 1974 compared to $99,626 in 1973.

The total amount of fire loss to vehicles, however, showed an increase last year as compared to figures for 1973. Vehicle fire losses in 1974 totaled $53,685 compared to a figure of $25,085 for 1973.

COREY SAID HE attributed the reduced loss to three main factors — the work of the fire prevention bureau, the ability of firemen to apply their training knowledge while fighting a blaze and luck.

"A lot of it stems from luck but it's also a matter of having adequate equipment and sufficient men on the scene," Corey said. "A lot of the fires we fought could have been big ones, but we managed to put them out in their infant stages."

Corey said the improved training program the department now operates also has been a factor in improving the ability to fight fires. "The days of firemen spending their spare time playing chess or pinocle are pretty much over," the chief said.

Corey also termed 1974 as a progressive year for the department with the institution of the paramedic program and a full-time training officer.

The department also hired six new firefighters during the year enabling the city to place a second truck company in operation. Corey said the addition of the truck company means less chance of firemen being delayed in getting to a fire because of blocked railroad crossings.

THE YEAR-END report also indicates an increase of 8.5 per cent in the total number of ambulance alarms answered by the department. Of the 1,977 ambulance alarms, 36 were false alarms.

Decreases in the number of ambulance calls for street accidents, home emergencies, industrial accidents and maternity cases all dropped in 1974 compared to figures for 1973, the report indicates. Attempted suicides in the city also decreased from 56 in 1973 to 49 in 1974.

Inspections by the fire prevention bureau increased slightly in 1974. Inspections are made of industrial plants, hospitals, schools, municipal properties and private dwellings. A sharp increase in the number of fire hazard removal orders issued by the bureau was reported with 1,438 orders sent out in 1974 compared to 358 in 1973.

"Top Educator" honored

Maine West High School science teacher Mary Gienko was named an Outstanding Young Educator of 1975 by the Des Plaines Jaycees. The Jaycees cited her "selfless devotion to the youth of Des Plaines."

Buses can use yellow lights

Has the Illinois School Bus Law been changed to allow the use of yellow lights instead of red lights when the bus stops on streets and highways?

Yes, there has been a change in the law but the law does not permit the exclusive use of yellow lights. According to the Illinois State Police Illinois buses are now permitted to have an eight-light system. A flashing yellow light may be used in the last 100 feet before stopping in urban areas and the last 200 feet outside of urban areas. However, a red brake light is still required to indicate the bus is actually stopping.

Superblock staircases violate code

Spiral staircases planned for the three-story shopping mall in the downtown Superblock project do not meet city codes and are unacceptable, City Building Commr. William Baldaccini said.

The mall, part of the proposed $14 million Superblock building, is planned with four spiral stairways.

However, an architect who designed the structure said staircases do meet the code and he hopes to work out an agreement with Baldaccini.

Work on the development, which will include a 12-story office building in addition to the retail area, has been stymied by high-interest rates and the developer's inability to obtain financing.

The city council voted Monday to grant a third extension on the building's construction timetable. Proponents recently said financing should be arranged within 60 days.

DENNIS STEVENS, one of the designers of the structure, said the disagreement concerning the staircases involves an interpretation of the city building code.

"It is a question of whether this is required for safety purposes or merely a monumental type feature," Stevens said. "We don't anticipate any major problems with this."

Plans for the mall show the staircases and a single group of escalators as the primary means of transportation.

Baldaccini said the developers might have to submit revised plans for the stairways in the shopping area. He said the building code does not allow spiral staircases as the primary means of moving from one floor to another in a public building.

THE CITY BUILDING department and the Des Plaines Architectural Commission have examined the plans.

Construction of the building was slated to begin last summer, but financing problems have caused the delays.

A spokesman for J. R. Gottlieb and Co., the primary developers, said preliminary lease agreements have been reached for more than 50 per cent of the retail area. Officials of Spiegel's Department Store and the First National Bank of Des Plaines both have indicated they will lease substantial portions of the building.

Annoying phone calls. And talking to strangers.

What's the best thing to do when you get an annoying phone call?

Hang up right away. It's as simple as that.

And what's the best thing to do when you get a call from a stranger and he wants to know who you are? Don't tell him. Instead, ask him, "whom do you want?" or "what number did you call?"

If a stranger asks for confidential information on the phone, don't give it to him.

So keep in mind, if a caller harasses you, or becomes abusive or even obscene, just hang up on him. He'll get the message.

But if annoying calls persist, please call our Business Office.

After all, the whole idea of the telephone is to make your life easier. We want to keep it that way, too.

Proposed budget hits $984,200

Township expenses up; blame welfare

Swelling welfare rolls in Elk Grove Township account for most of the 10 percent over all increase in expenditures anticipated by township officials for fiscal 1975-76.

The preliminary 12-month budget of $984,200 under consideration by township auditors includes $172,100 for general assistance payments — double the amount appropriated in 1974 in a 13-month budget of $301,010.

More than 1,500 persons were listed on Elk Grove Township welfare rolls last year. During 1973, less than half that number received general assistance payments, considered temporary aid until county and state welfare assistance is available.

The township expects to receive $167,000 in federal revenue-sharing funds, slightly less than the $161,000 received last year.

THE LARGEST portion of the $286,000 in federal revenue-sharing funds the township plans to spend is earmarked for the Elk Grove-Schaumburg Townships Mental Health Center, based in Elk Grove Village. The mental health center will receive $81,000, matching the township's support last year.

Other revenue-sharing expenditures slated are day care, $35,000; senior citizens, $20,000; Clearbrook Center, $24,000; sewers, $20,000; ADD program, $18,000; Northwest Special Recreation Assn.; public safety, $10,000; flood control, $3,000; Mount Prospect Historical Society, $5,000; Northwest Opportunity Center, $5,000 and financial administration, $1,000.

New appropriations of $20,000 for Food-stamp office to seek space

The Northwest Opportunity Center, swamped with applicants for food stamps, is expected to ask Elk Grove, Maine and Schaumburg townships for office space to handle the overflow.

Diane Burke, Elk Grove Township representative to the center, told township officials this week the center's staff and office, 8 College Dr., Arlington Heights, cannot accommodate the hundreds of applicants being processed.

Bruce Newton, center director, is expected to ask the three townships this month to provide office space for three food-stamp workers the center is adding to its staff.

Newton was not available for comment.

MRS. BURKE, in her report to the Elk

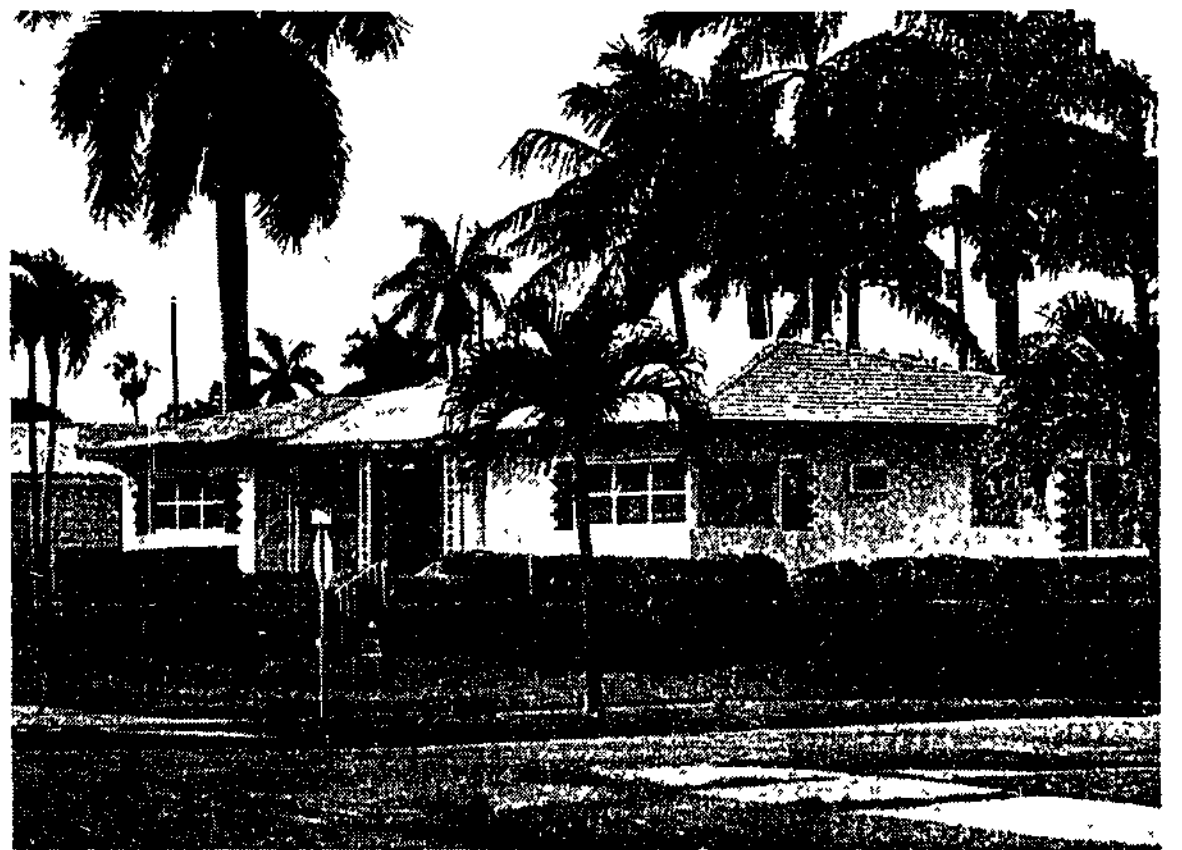

Grove Township auditors, said about 400 families are receiving free food through the center's "Operation Nutrition" program and another 140 families have been approved to receive food stamps.

"There are many, many more families who have appointments but have to wait weeks just to be interviewed to determine if they are eligible and then have to wait again for the food stamps," she said.

"Some days the lines of people waiting to be interviewed to determine if they are eligible for free food stamps is almost out on the sidewalk," she told Elk Grove township officials.

Mrs. Burke said the center has received approval to hire at least three

VACATION HOME of County Republican Chairman Floyd T. Fulle is involved in the federal case against him. Fulle said he paid $35,000 for the Hollywood, Fla., house in 1970 but the grand jury said the price was $45,000. He was charged with perjury because of his testimony.

Linked to alleged payoff

U.S. to press Fulle on Florida land deal

by AL MESSERSCHMIDT

The purchase of a Florida vacation home and testimony by the man who sold it are key elements in the federal case against County Republican Chairman Floyd T. Fulle, The Herald has learned.

Joseph D. Zizzo, a bank executive and former village president of Harwood Heights, has told a federal grand jury that he sold a Hollywood, Fla., vacation home to Fulle in 1970 for $45,000, according to a source close to the case.

Fulle testified before the grand jury that the house cost $35,000. He later was charged with perjury because of that testimony. The jury apparently believed Zizzo's version of the house deal, despite documents in federal hands that indicate the price was $35,000.

AT ISSUE IS the amount of Fulle's down payment. Fulle told the grand jury he paid $10,000 down, but the grand jury said in the indictment that the down payment was $20,000.

The $20,000 figure is important because Fulle also is charged with receiving a $20,000 payoff three months before the house purchase from developer Selligren Inc. Fulle, a county commissioner, allegedly shook down the firm for county apartment zoning in Palatine Township.

Fulle purchased the vacation home Aug. 28, 1970, according to a deed filed with the Broward County, Fla., circuit court clerk's office. Tax stamps on the deed show a $35,000 purchase price. The stamps were purchased Oct. 5, 1970, when Fulle paid the balance of the purchase price.

Federal investigators have obtained a copy of the house-purchase agreement, which lists furniture, decorations and a $35,000 purchase price for the house, at 1401 Hollywood Blvd., Hollywood, Fla.

A copy of a $10,000 cashier's check from the Parkway Bank and Trust Co., Harwood Heights, which was a down payment on the purchase, also is federal evidence. In addition, Fulle is believed to have given the grand jury a copy of a personal check for more than $24,000, which was further payment on the house.

ZIZZO, WHO was village president of west suburban Harwood Heights from 1961 to 1965 and now is senior vice president of the Parkway bank, refused to discuss the property sale or Fulle's indictment.

His attorney, Warren Fuller, confirmed that Zizzo has appeared before the grand jury.

Also refusing to comment were Fulle and Assistant U.S. Atty Anton Valukas, who heads the county zoning investigation.

Federal officials apparently have not attempted to link the Fulle home purchase with county zoning obtained by Zizzo in 1969 and by another Parkway bank official in 1970 for the Devon-53 apartment project in Elk Grove Township.

Internal Revenue Service agents obtained both zoning files from the County Zoning Board last summer.

ZIZZO, AS BENEFICIARY of an Exchange National Bank trust, is owner of 27 acres north of Devon Avenue and west of Rohlwing Road in the middle of the Devon-53 site. The property was zoned for high-density apartments by the county board July 29, 1969. The board vote was unanimous and included a "yes" vote by Fulle.

A second, 50-acre parcel in the proposed project, which is owned by Aaron Cohen, also was rezoned. The Parkway Development Co. is planned developer of the land and (Continued on Page 7)

The youths also were charged with a food-store holdup Sunday in Hinsdale.

Police said Maurice Shor, 19, of Westmont, and Gary Sjoquist, 19, of Park Ridge, were charged in the two incidents. They were arrested Wednesday in Westmont by Elk Grove Village and Hinsdale police, and were being held in the DuPage County Jail in lieu of $150,000 bond. A 16-year-old boy who was allegedly involved in the incidents was turned over to juvenile authorities.

Shor also was charged with possession of marijuana by Hinsdale police.

The trio allegedly held up a clerk at gunpoint at Dunkin' Donuts, 700 E. Higgins Rd., Tuesday night. The Hinsdale robbery netted the thieves about $200, police said.

Police said most of the money taken in the two robberies was recovered at the time of arrest.

Shor and Sjoquist are scheduled to appear in the Elk Grove Village branch of Circuit Court April 9.

Alleged kickback scheme

Court clears Schaumburg employe

Rogers R. Elermann, a Schaumburg Park District maintenance employe, was cleared in court Wednesday of all charges stemming from an alleged chemical-company kickback scheme.

Circuit Court Judge Nathan J. Kaplan dismissed two counts each of accepting bribes and official misconduct after the State's Attorney's office requested the charges be dropped. An assistant state attorney told Kaplan there was insufficient evidence to prosecute the case.

Elermann was indicted nearly a year ago along with 21 other officials including two Village of Schaumburg employes for allegedly receiving kickbacks from United Laboratories, Addison.

Immediately after Kaplan dismissed the charges in his Civic Center courtroom, Elermann's wife whispered, "Thank God."

Elermann said "I am just happy. I want to thank everyone. The park district people were all for me."

PAUL DERDA, Park District Director, after learning of the court decision, said, "I'm pleased it's all over. I'm pleased and pleased for Rog. He has gone through one hell of an ordeal and it was certainly traumatic for him."

"We were all pulling for him. He is a loyal and dedicated employe."

Elermann was suspended briefly after the indictments, but was reinstated pending a court decision.

The two village employes facing trial are J. C. Smith, public works superintendent, and John Mitnick, a building inspector. Smith, charged with 11 counts each of accepting bribes, official misconduct and having illegal interest in contracts, is scheduled to appear March 14 for trial.

No trial date has been set for Mitnick, who is charged with bribery, official misconduct and illegal interest in a contract.

'Green' tenants may join to fight 10% rent hikes

by PAT GERLACH

Low and moderate-income families at Schaumburg Green apartment complex, who face a 10 per cent rent increase, are considering forming a tenants' association to fight the increase.

Builder Marvin Myers and Associates posted notices March 1 advising occupants of the 367-unit Wise Road complex that they are asking Illinois Housing Development Authority approval of the increase, which could go into effect June 1.

Tenants Rae Gabler and Shelia Mullins are circulating petitions against the increase and report heavy support from their neighbors. "But we are finding that many of the people haven't even seen the notices, which were posted just before midnight Saturday in the laundry rooms of each building," Mrs. Mullins said.

One-third of the units are reserved for families who qualify for rental subsidy under federal guidelines. The complex, opened in June, was financed with money from the state housing development authority through sale of tax-exempt notes and bonds. Federal funds provide the subsidy.

Market-value rentals range from $215 to $265, with subsidized rates of $130 to $202.

The increase would boost market-value rents to between $237 and $285 and subsidized units would cost $143 to $202.

"If there is an increase, I'll move because I have paid money in good faith and the promised goods and services have not been delivered," Daniel Hopkins told builder's representatives Wednesday at a tenants' meeting.

Hopkins said air conditioning and a television antenna promised but not installed last month were only a few of the promises not delivered until last month.

His neighbor, Suzanne Jack, feels she was "baited" by "false" advertising. "Your ads talk about 22 fully landscaped acres to roam through but this place hasn't even been landscaped," Mrs. Jack said.

Gene Callahan of the Myers firm described the Schaumburg Green landscaping as "deplorable" and told the 15 tenants present "it will be done as soon as the weather breaks even if I have to come out and do it myself."

Callahan and Tony Augustine, an attorney for the building firm, said the 10 per cent increase is "low" compared to projected 15 to 20 per cent increases planned throughout most of the Chicago area.

Callahan cited the economy, the rapidly increasing cost of services and supplies, as well as losses experienced by the firm in litigation with four subcontractors who abandoned the project and went out of business as reasons for the rate hike.

HOPKINS AND other tenants contend they have been paying a portion of each month's rent for landscaping, a swimming pool and other amenities promised but not delivered by the builder.

Callahan said the items will be completed as soon as weather permits. "Given the realities of the economy, the price of everything has gone up and 10 per cent is as low as we can go," he said.

He said the cost of utilities, maintenance and janitorial service has skyrocketed, noting the proposed budget for the complex this year has been set at $1,050,000, "far more" than anticipated.

Callahan told residents they were welcome to stay, but made it clear any who are dissatisfied may leave at any time. "We hope you do stay, but we can't force anyone," he said, stressing that the firm is doing its "best" to complete the complex and eliminate problems.

more food-stamp workers but doesn't have the office space or lobby area to accommodate the hundreds of people they could handle.

AUDITOR BERNARD LEE said Elk Grove Township would provide space for the center's food-stamp distribution program "willingly." Lee said he also has contacted the Northwest Suburban Bar Assn., of which he is a member, to obtain legal advice for the 60 to 80 families who have asked the center for legal help.

Mrs. Burke said the center is handling more case loads daily and is asking area residents' help by donating clothing, furniture and appliances to the center for distribution. "These are hard times" she said.

Mrs. Burke said small donations may be brought to the center. She asked that people who have large items to donate contact the center at 235-3456.

'Insufficient evidence'

Park worker cleared in kickback scheme

Rogers R. Elermann, a Schaumburg Park District maintenance employee, was cleared in court Wednesday of all charges stemming from an alleged chemical-company kickback scheme.

Circuit Court Judge Nathan J. Kaplan dismissed two counts each of accepting bribes and official misconduct after the State's Attorney's office requested the charges be dropped. An assistant state's attorney told Kaplan there was insufficient evidence to prosecute the case.

Elermann was indicted nearly a year ago along with 21 other officials including two Village of Schaumburg employees for allegedly receiving kickbacks from United Laboratories, Addison.

Immediately after Kaplan dismissed the charges in his Civic Center courtroom, Elermann's wife whispered, "Thank God."

Elermann said "I am just happy. I want to thank everyone. The park district people were all for me."

PAUL DERDA, Park District Director, after learning of the court decision, said, "I'm pleased it's all over. I'm pleased and pleased for Rog. He has gone through one hell of an ordeal and it was certainly traumatic for him.

"We were all pulling for him. He is a loyal and dedicated employee."

Elermann was suspended briefly after the indictments, but was reinstated pending a court decision.

The two village employees facing trial are J. C. Smith, public works superintendent, and John Mittvick, a building inspector. Smith, charged with 11 counts each of accepting bribes, official misconduct and having illegal interest in contracts, is scheduled to appear March 14 for trial.

Hanover Park opposes large airport

Hanover Park residents will fight any effort to expand Schaumburg Airport as a municipal field, a representative of the community told the Schaumburg Transportation Committee Wednesday night.

George Wilcox, Hanover Park representative to the North Suburban Mass Transit District and delegate to the committee meeting, said Hanover Park residents oppose increased use of the field by small planes, as well as any potential hike in the size of planes.

"A plane is taking off or landing every 45 seconds" over some Hanover Park homes during summer days with optimum flying weather, Wilcox said. Committee members assured Wilcox that plane size will not increase, because the Federal Aviation Administration has consistently refused to grant instrument-flight rules status for the Schaumburg facility. Without such status, the airport is limited to use by planes of about the same size as now use it.

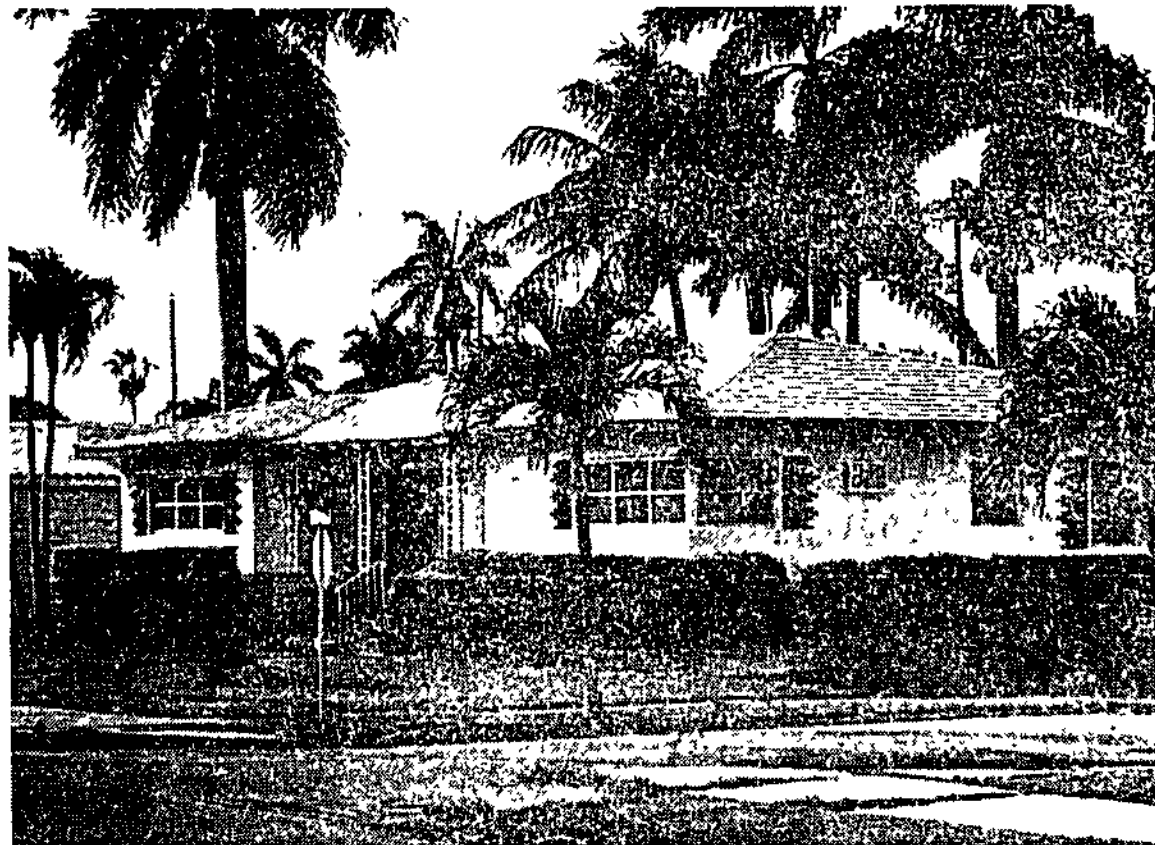

WILCOX SAID the Schaumburg committee has a "selling job ahead" if it hopes to allay the Hanover Park opposition. Although Streamwood has joined Hanover Park in opposing airport growth, Roselle has supported Schaumburg's plans. Roselle's representative, Robert Franz, suggested Hanover Park has "overassessed its ability to spoil things. Hoffman Estates has not taken a position.

Wilcox suggested that Hanover Park may attempt to encourage the state to withhold federal funds from the airport if its objections are not met.

Committee members indicated it may be possible to satisfy some of Hanover Park's objections. The possibility of a flight-pattern change will be studied in the environmental impact study, to be the final segment of a $50,000 federally funded study to examine feasibility of municipal airport ownership.

The committee also received cost estimates ranging from $2.5 million to $2.9 million for a 20-year facilities development program. The cost estimates did not include land acquisition, and were not based on any engineering or inflation data, said Wehling, but were presented merely as "order of magnitude" comparisons for three alternative development programs.

VACATION HOME of County Republican Chairman Floyd T. Fulle is involved in the federal case against him. Fulle said he paid $35,000 for the

Linked to alleged payoff

U.S. to press Fulle on Florida land deal

by AL MESSERSCHMIDT

The purchase of a Florida vacation home and testimony by the man who sold it are key elements in the federal case against County Republican Chairman Floyd T. Fulle, The Herald has learned.

Joseph D. Zizzo, a bank executive and former village president of Harwood Heights, has told a federal grand jury that he sold a Hollywood, Fla., vacation home to Fulle in 1970 for $45,000, according to a source close to the case.

Fulle testified before the grand jury that the house cost $35,000. He later was charged with perjury because of that testimony. The jury apparently believed Zizzo's version of the house deal, despite documents in federal hands that indicate the price was $35,000.

AT ISSUE IS the amount of Fulle's down payment. Fulle told the grand jury he paid $10,000 down, but the grand jury said in the indictment that the down payment was $20,000.

The $20,000 figure is important because Fulle also is charged with receiving a $20,000 payoff three months before the house purchase from developer Sellergren Inc. Fulle, a county commissioner, allegedly shook down the firm for county apartment zoning in Palatine Township.

Fulle purchased the vacation home Aug. 28, 1970, according to a deed filed with the Broward County, Fla., circuit court clerk's office. Tax stamps on the deed show a $35,000 purchase price. The stamps were purchased Oct. 5, 1970, when Fulle paid the balance of the purchase price.

Federal investigators have obtained a copy of the house-purchase agreement, which lists furniture, decorations and a $35,000 purchase price for the house, at 1401 Hollywood Blvd., Hollywood, Fla.

A copy of a $10,000 cashier's check from the Parkway Bank and Trust Co., Harwood Heights, which was a down payment on the purchase, also is federal evidence. In addition, Fulle is believed to have given the grand jury a copy of a personal check for more than $24,000, which was further payment on the house.

ZIZZO, WHO was village president of west suburban Harwood Heights from 1961 to 1965 and now is senior vice president of the Parkway bank, refused to discuss the property sale or Fulle's indictment.

His attorney, Warren Fuller, confirmed that Zizzo has appeared before the grand jury.

Also refusing to comment were Fulle and Assistant U.S. Atty. Anton Valukas, who heads the county zoning investigation.

Federal officials apparently have not attempted to link the Fulle home purchase with county zoning obtained by Zizzo in 1969 and by another Parkway bank official in 1970 for the Devon-53 apartment project in Elk Grove Township.

Internal Revenue Service agents obtained both zoning files from the County Zoning Board last summer.

ZIZZO, AS BENEFICIARY of an Exchange National Bank trust, is owner of 27 acres north of Devon Avenue and west of Rohlfing Road in the middle of the Devon-53 site. The property was zoned for high-density apartments by the county board July 29, 1969. The board vote was unanimous and included a "yes" vote by Fulle.

A second, 50-acre parcel in the proposed project, which is owned by Aaron Cohen, also was rezoned. The Parkway Development Co. is planned developer of the land and (Continued on Page 7)

End of rebates cuts auto sales

by United Press International

It's back to business as usual in the automobile business—slow.

New car dealers, with the best sales period of the 1973-model year behind them, told UPI business this week is much like it was before the cash rebates started in mid-January—almost nonexistent in some cases. Other dealers, however, noticed no difference since the rebates ended last Friday.

"It sort of slowed up real quickly," says Roger Harper, sales manager of Stewart Chevrolet, San Francisco. In Chicago, a Ford dealer was more explicit: "Since the rebates ended, it's been like someone turned off the faucet."

Area sales 'holding up'

Many auto dealers in the Northwest suburbs said Wednesday that sales are holding their own since cash rebates ended Feb. 28, despite reports from around the nation showing sales have slowed.

Only one Chevrolet dealer in this area said sales have dropped off since the rebates on small cars ended.

GOV. DANIEL WALKER is greeted by members of the Illinois General Assembly as he leaves the chamber following his budget message. The governor presented a record $10.8 billion request for fiscal 1976.

Walker proposes record budget

SPRINGFIELD (UPI) — Gov. Daniel Walker Wednesday proposed a record $10.75 billion state budget for the coming fiscal year — an increase of 36.5 per cent from the request he made a year ago and of 24 per cent from current appropriations.

Walker estimated he will spend $8.15 billion during the year starting July 1 — another record.

The budget calls for a second straight year of deficit spending and would wipe out every cent the state has in general-revenue reserves.

Walker said he will avoid a tax increase by spending the surplus left over from past years and by issuing hundreds of millions of dollars in new bonds, which will not come due for retirement for 20 or 25 years.

Comptroller George Lindberg, however, called the proposal a "blueprint for bankruptcy." He and some other analysts said the massive hike in appropriations and in spending will force a tax increase by 1977 at the latest.

Walker acknowledged his budget proposes spending the state dry. But, he said, such a program is needed to fight the recession and growing unemployment.

"In my book, this is the rainy day we've been protecting against," he told a (Continued on Page 3)

Market-value rentals range from $215 to $265, with subsidized rates of $130 to $202.

The increase would boost market-value rents to between $237 and $285 and subsidized units would cost $148 to $202.

"If there is an increase, I'll move because I have paid money in good faith and the promised goods and services have not been delivered," Daniel Hopkins told builder's representatives Wednesday at a tenants' meeting.

Hopkins said air conditioning and a television antenna promised but not installed last month were only a few of the promises not delivered until last month.

His neighbor, Suzanne Jack, feels she was "baited" by "false" advertising. "Your ads talk about 22 fully landscaped acres to roam through but this place hasn't even been landscaped," Mrs. Jack said.

Gene Callahan of the Myers firm described the Schaumburg Green landscaping as "deplorable" and told the 15 tenants present "It will be done as soon as the weather breaks even if I have to come out and do it myself."

Callahan and Tony Augustine, an attorney for the building firm, said the 10 per cent increase is "low" compared to projected 15 to 20 per cent increases planned throughout most of the Chicago area.

Callahan cited the economy, the rapidly increasing cost of services and supplies, as well as losses experienced by the firm in litigation with four subcontractors who abandoned the project and went out of business as reasons for the rate hike.

Library adopts policy outlawing censorship

The "unwritten policy" against censorship at the Rolling Meadows Public Library has been put into writing.

The library board has adopted a materials-selection policy which in part prohibits bits the restriction of any library material for political or moral reasons.

The policy states that "the placing of books on a restricted shelf, available only on request, shall be based solely on the need to protect materials from physical damage and not on political, moral or other judgments." The library always has had an unwritten policy to this effect, said Judith Drescher, head librarian.

The materials-selection policy says books and materials for the library will be chosen by the librarian on the basis of "their literary, educational, information and recreational value." The library accepts suggestions for purchases, and will accept gifts of books, according to the policy.

CHILDREN MAY select any item from the library, but "no responsibility is accepted for selection from the adult collection," the policy states. "Any restriction must come from the parent or guardian in the form of a written request."

Although the library cooperates with school districts in making supplementary material available to students, the new selection policy states, "The library does not attempt to acquire textbooks or other materials required by the school curriculum."

The Rolling Meadows library houses a computer connected to the High School Dist. 214 computer. The computer is used by students after 5 p.m. To make use of the terminal equitable, the library board also adopted a policy to require computer users to have a Rolling Meadows library card. Nonresidents must pay $12 for the card, and reciprocal borrowing privileges with other suburban library cards do not apply.

Hospital gets go-ahead for groundbreaking

Northwest Community Hospital will break ground this morning on an intensive-care wing following unanimous approval of the building plan by the Arlington Heights Plan Commission Wednesday night.

The 20-bed intensive-care facility will be subject to final review by the village board March 17.

The board authorized the start of excavation for the addition, pending plan-commission approval, after hospital officials said they had entered into a construction contract not knowing board approval would be necessary.

If the building plans are approved by the village board as expected, it will take about a year to complete the intensive-care facility.

The building addition is being paid for out of a $20.5 million revenue-bond issue approved by the village board last year.

Plum Grove-Countryside to oppose condo project

Plans for a condominium apartment project with as many as 49 units in the 4700 block of Kirchhoff Rd., Rolling Meadows, is expected to receive stiff opposition from residents of the area.

"Once rezoning is accomplished, you have flexibility to build something else," Kenneth Butler, president of the nearby Plum Grove-Countryside Property Owners' Assn., said Wednesday. "That's our real concern. That's a big fear. Once you get it rezoned, you can really do anything you want to."

The 13 families in the association have successfully fought attempts in the past to rezone the property for a nursing home.

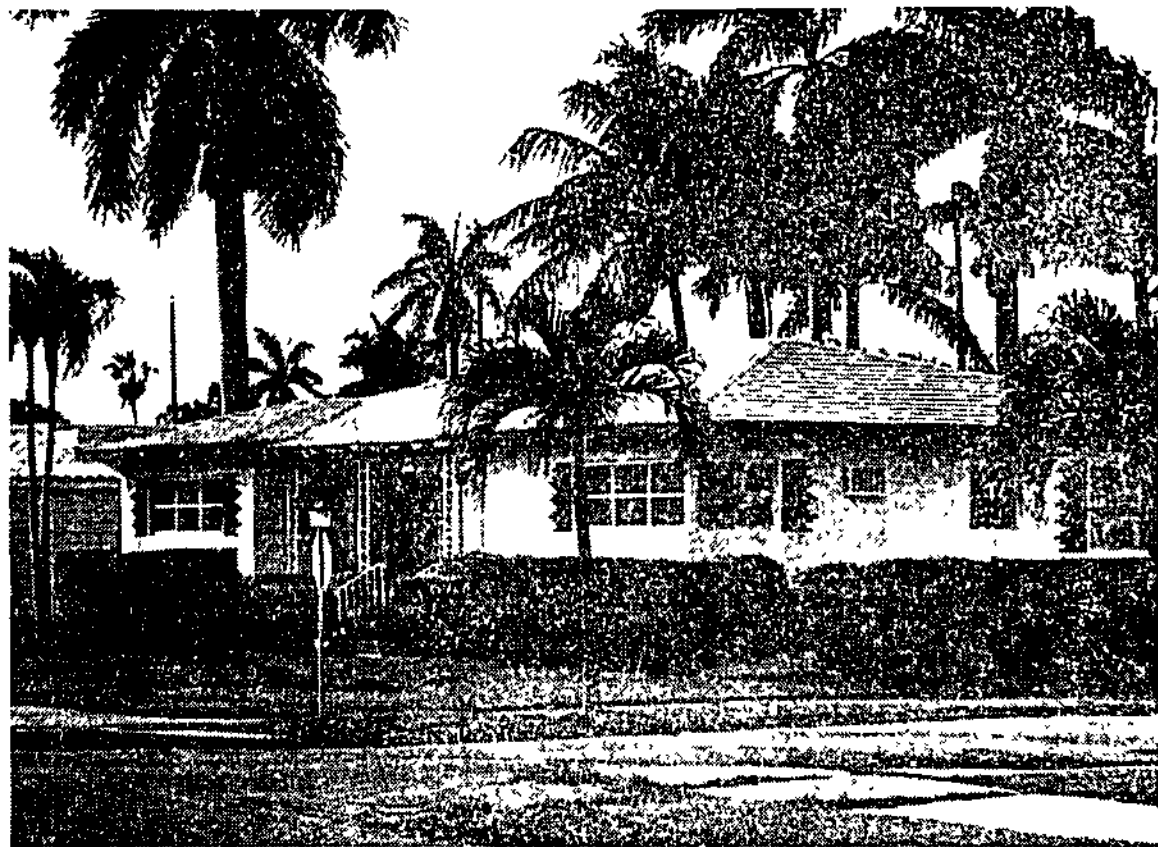

HAROLD BRISSENDEN, a member of the board of directors of the Plum Grove Village Homeowners' Assn., expressed the same fear as Butler. He said his organization "would be hard-pressed" to oppose any condominium apartment project similar to the one in which they live, but their reaction would depend on a specific plan.

"One thing I do fear is a developer changing his intention, or where it is speculative rezoning and now the property is for sale," Brissenden said.

Fred Sanelli, president of Sanelli Inc., Glenview, is negotiating for purchase of 3.5 acres for a condominium apartment development.

Sanelli said he and his architect, Norman Werner of Glenview, want to consider the matter before deciding if they will proceed with a rezoning application. Sanelli and Werner would develop the land jointly.

Sanelli said the cost of the land would make development under present zoning, for houses, a financial impossibility. Subdividing the site into quarter-acre lots might initially please the adjacent homeowners, but by building under minimum city codes a developer could "put up housing that wouldn't do their (the neighbors') property any good," Sanelli said.

VACATION HOME of County Republican Chairman Floyd T. Fulle is involved in the federal case against him. Fulle said he paid $35,000 for the Hollywood, Fla., house in 1970 but the grand jury said the price was $45,000. He was charged with perjury because of his testimony.

Linked to alleged payoff

U.S. to press Fulle on Florida land deal

by AL MESSERSCHMIDT

The purchase of a Florida vacation home and testimony by the man who sold it are key elements in the federal case against County Republican Chairman Floyd T. Fulle, The Herald has learned.

Joseph D. Zizzo, a bank executive and former village president of Harwood Heights, has told a federal grand jury that he sold a Hollywood, Fla., vacation home to Fulle in 1970 for $45,000, according to a source close to the case.

Fulle testified before the grand jury that the house cost $35,000. He later was charged with perjury because of that testimony. The jury apparently believed Zizzo's version of the house deal, despite documents in federal hands that indicate the price was $35,000.

AT ISSUE IS the amount of Fulle's down payment. Fulle told the grand jury he paid $10,000 down, but the grand jury said in the indictment that the down payment was $20,000.

The $20,000 figure is important because Fulle also is charged with receiving a $20,000 payoff three months before the house purchase from developer Sellergren Inc. Fulle, a county commissioner, allegedly shook down the firm for county apartment zoning in Palatine Township.

Fulle purchased the vacation home Aug. 28, 1970, according to a deed filed with the Broward County, Fla., circuit court clerk's office. Tax stamps on the deed show a $35,000 purchase price. The stamps were purchased Oct. 5, 1970, when Fulle paid the balance of the purchase price.

Federal investigators have obtained a copy of the house-purchase agreement, which lists furniture, decorations and a $35,000 purchase price for the house, at 1401 Hollywood Blvd., Hollywood, Fla.

A copy of a $10,000 cashier's check from the Parkway Bank and Trust Co., Harwood Heights, which was a down payment on the purchase, also is federal evidence. In addition, Fulle is believed to have given the grand jury a copy of a personal check for more than $24,000, which was further payment on the house.

ZIZZO, WHO was village president of west suburban Harwood Heights from 1961 to 1965 and now is senior vice president of the Parkway bank, refused to discuss the property sale or Fulle's indictment.

His attorney, Warren Fuller, confirmed that Zizzo has appeared before the grand jury.

Also refusing to comment were Fulle and Assistant U.S. Atty. Anton Valukas, who heads the county zoning investigation.

Federal officials apparently have not attempted to link the Fulle home purchase with county zoning obtained by Zizzo in 1969 and by another Parkway bank official in 1970 for the Devon-33 apartment project in Elk Grove Township.

Internal Revenue Service agents obtained both zoning files from the County Zoning Board last summer.

ZIZZO, AS BENEFICIARY of an Exchange National Bank trust, is owner of 27 acres north of Devon Avenue and west of Rohlwing Road in the middle of the Devon-33 site. The property was zoned for high-density apartments by the county board July 29, 1969. The board vote was unanimous and included a "yes" vote by Fulle.

A second, 30-acre parcel in the proposed project, which is owned by Aaron Cohen, also was rezoned. The Parkway Development Co. is planned developer of the land and (Continued on Page 7)

End of rebates cuts auto sales

by United Press International
It's back to business as usual in the automobile business — slow.

New-car dealers, with the best sales period of the 1975-model year behind them, told UPI business this week is much like it was before the cash rebates started in mid-January — almost nonexistent in some cases. Other dealers, however, noticed no difference since the rebates ended last Friday.

"It sort of slowed up real quickly," says Roger Harper, sales manager of Stewart Chevrolet, San Francisco. In Chicago, a Ford dealer was more explicit: "Since the rebates ended, it's been like someone turned off the faucet."

Many auto dealers in the Northwest suburbs said Wednesday that sales are holding their own since cash rebates ended Feb. 28, despite reports from around the nation showing sales have slowed.

GOV. DANIEL WALKER is greeted by members of the Illinois General Assembly as he leaves the chamber following his budget message. The governor presented a record $10.8 billion request for fiscal 1976.

Walker proposes record budget

SPRINGFIELD (UPI) — Gov. Daniel Walker Wednesday proposed a record $10.75 billion state budget for the coming fiscal year — an increase of 36.5 per cent from the request he made a year ago and of 24 per cent from current appropriations.

Walker estimated he will spend $8.15 billion during the year starting July 1 — another record.

The budget calls for a second straight year of deficit spending and would wipe out every cent the state has in general-revenue reserves.

Walker said he will avoid a tax increase by spending the surplus left over from past years and by issuing hundreds of millions of dollars in new bonds, which will not come due for retirement for 20 or 25 years.

Comptroller George Lindberg, however, called the proposal a "blueprint for bankruptcy." He and some other analysts said the massive hike in appropriations and in spending will force a tax increase by 1977 at the latest.

Walker acknowledged his budget proposes spending the state dry. But, he said, such a program is needed to fight the recession and growing unemployment.

"In my book, this is the rainy day we've been protecting against," he told a (Continued on Page 3)

St. Colette parish festival 'sellout'

The second annual St. Colette Parish Festival will be at the church and school, 3900 Meadow Dr., Rolling Meadows, March 14-15 and 21-22.

Ticket sales for the festival, which features the theme "This is Our Country," have reached 1,000, said ticket chairman Robert Placek, 4001 Jay Ln. "Saturday, March 15, is practically a sellout," he said.

Tickets are available, at $5 per person, after Sunday masses or by calling 255-9308 or 259-9114. A limit of 1,200 tickets is being sold for each night.

Five half-hour shows will be playing continuously in the school and church basement from 7:30 p.m. to 1 a.m. each night.

The church basement will feature Dixieland jazz and blues in the St. Louis tradition around the theme "The Gateway." Las Vegas-style entertainment will be presented in one of the school showrooms. Other school showrooms will feature comedy skills and blackouts, "Great Moments in History," a series of musical sketches, and "Here, There and Everywhere," a musical overview of America. A restaurant will be set up in the church basement. The restaurant will serve Italian sausage and beef, lasagna, cold sandwiches, desserts and beverages for $1 to $1.75.

Proceeds go into the church's general fund. Last year, the festival netted $15,000, which helped to reroof the school building, resurface the church and school parking lots and paint the church's exterior trim.

Baptist church 'mission' days

Meadows Baptist Church is sponsoring a mission conference this month at the church, 2101 Kirehoff Rd.

Dr. Clarence Bass, chairman of the Baptist General Conference's World Missions Board, will speak at both services on Sunday. The Rev. Donald Wright, missionary to Japan, will lead the list of speakers at the 9:30 a.m. Sunday Bible School. Both men will speak at 6:30 p.m.

Resident helps catch 2 burglary suspects

A phone call from a resident of Algonquin Park Apartments helped Rolling Meadows police apprehend two suspects in the process of emptying storage lockers early Wednesday, police said.

The woman, whom police did not identify, told a neighbor she heard suspicious noises in the basement of her building at 4900 Algonquin Pkwy., and called police while the neighbor went to investigate. The neighbor, Edward Jarina, saw two men allegedly piling the contents of four or five storage lockers in the middle of the basement floor. He led Patrolman Lawrence Carson to the basement when Carson arrived, police said.

Charged with two counts of burglary were Richard E. Campbell, 20, of Crystal Lake, and Daniel W. Kemplowski, 17, of 332 Thorndale Ave., Elk Grove Village.

The two men were held Wednesday in lieu of posting $10,000 bond each, and were scheduled for arraignment today in Arlington Heights branch of Circuit Court.

Miramonti's top concerns: taxes, floods, vandalism

Taxes, flooding and vandalism are the main concerns of Palatine trustee candidate Patricia E. Miramonti in her platform for the April 15 village election.

Mrs. Miramonti, running as an independent for a four-year seat on the village board, says while she would like to see services increased and taxes decreased, this probably is impossible.

"I would try to provide an equitable taxing plan that would relate which taxes supply which services," Mrs. Miramonti said in a statement. She favors financing village services from within the present tax structure with no new taxes. Special projects should be financed from bonds, and federal revenue-sharing funds should be reserved for non-recurring expenses, she said.

MRS. MIRAMONTI said she believes the village board can help the Palatine Police Dept. decrease vandalism by adopting an ordinance requiring proper rear and side lighting of businesses. She also advocates an ordinance requiring business which attract juveniles to provide private surveillance of their property.

Flooding was mentioned as a major concern of Mrs. Miramonti, who serves on the village's flood and clean streams committee. She recommends a strict ordinance for the proper landscaping of retention and detention areas. She also promises to be receptive to new ideas from the village engineer that could help prevent flooding.

Other major planks of Mrs. Miramonti's platform are:

- A downtown redevelopment program that reflects the village's heritage.

- A beautification committee to make suggestions for beautification projects in the downtown area and along Northwest Highway and other major thoroughfares.

- Adoption of an ordinance dealing with landscaping of new commercial and industrial developments.

- A revision of the ethics ordinance so no profession is discriminated against serving on village boards and commissions.

- An investigation of inadequacies and injustices in the federal flood-insurance policy.

- Village representation at meetings of other municipalities when developments which may affect Palatine are under consideration.

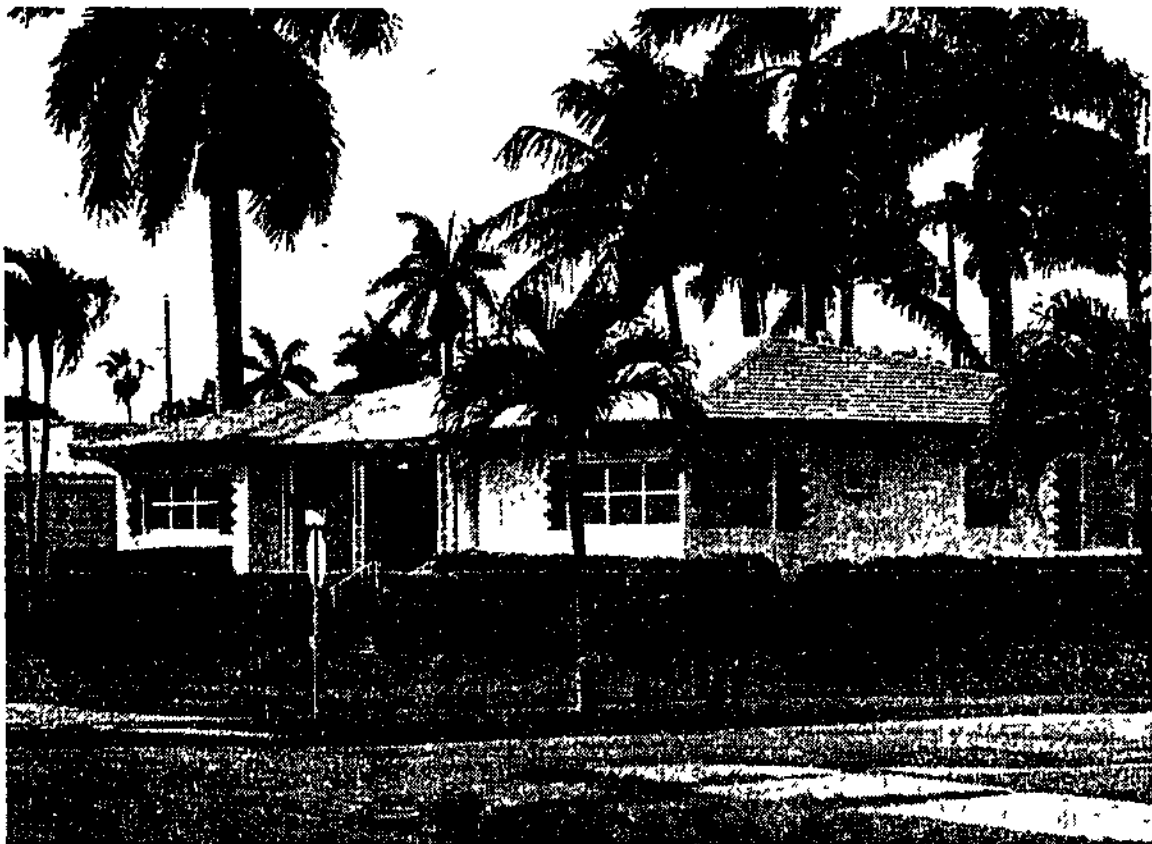

- Village representation at County Zoning Board of Appeals meetings.

Mrs. Miramonti is in a six-way race for the three seats on the board. Also running as independents are Trustee Fred H. Zajonc and Thomas D. LaDore. The GOP endorsed candidates are Trustees Bryan P. Coughlin Jr. and Philip E. Stern and newcomer John V. Sero.

VACATION HOME of County Republican Chairman Floyd T. Fulle is involved in the federal case against him. Fulle said he paid $35,000 for the Hollywood, Fla., house in 1970 but the grand jury said the price was $45,000. He was charged with perjury because of his testimony.

Linked to alleged payoff

U.S. to press Fulle on Florida land deal

by AL MESSERSCHMIDT

The purchase of a Florida vacation home and testimony by the man who sold it are key elements in the federal case against County Republican Chairman Floyd T. Fulle. The Herald has learned.

Joseph D. Zizzo, a bank executive and former village president of Harwood Heights, has told a federal grand jury that he sold a Hollywood, Fla., vacation home to Fulle in 1970 for $45,000, according to a source close to the case.

Fulle testified before the grand jury that the house cost $35,000. He later was charged with perjury because of that testimony. The jury apparently believed Zizzo's version of the house deal, despite documents in federal hands that indicate the price was $35,000.

AT ISSUE IS the amount of Fulle's down payment. Fulle told the grand jury he paid $10,000 down, but the grand jury said in the indictment that the down payment was $20,000.

The $20,000 figure is important because Fulle also is charged with receiving a $20,000 payoff three months before the house purchase from developer Sellergren Inc. Fulle, a county commissioner, allegedly shook down the firm for county apartment zoning in Palatine Township.

Fulle purchased the vacation home Aug. 28, 1970, according to a deed filed with the Broward County, Fla., circuit court clerk's office. Tax stamps on the deed show a $35,000 purchase price. The stamps were purchased Oct. 5, 1970, when Fulle paid the balance of the purchase price.

Federal investigators have obtained a copy of the house-purchase agreement, which lists furniture, decorations and a $35,000 purchase price for the house, at 1401 Hollywood Blvd., Hollywood, Fla.

A copy of a $10,000 cashier's check from the Parkway Bank and Trust Co., Harwood Heights, which was a down payment on the purchase, also is federal evidence. In addition, Fulle is believed to have given the grand jury a copy of a personal check for more than $24,000, which was further payment on the house.

ZIZZO, WHO was village president of west suburban Harwood Heights from 1961 to 1965 and now is senior vice president of the Parkway bank, refused to discuss the property sale or Fulle's indictment.

His attorney, Warren Fuller, confirmed that Zizzo has appeared before the grand jury.

Also refusing to comment were Fulle and Assistant U.S. Atty Anton Valukas, who heads the county zoning investigation.

Federal officials apparently have not attempted to link the Fulle home purchase with county zoning obtained by Zizzo in 1969 and by another Parkway bank official in 1970 for the Devon-53 apartment project in Elk Grove Township.

Internal Revenue Service agents obtained both zoning files from the County Zoning Board last summer.

ZIZZO, AS BENEFICIARY of an Exchange National Bank trust, is owner of 27 acres north of Devon Avenue and west of Rollwing Road in the middle of the Devon-53 site. The property was zoned for high-density apartments by the county board July 29, 1969. The board vote was unanimous and included a "yes" vote by Fulle.

Hospital gets go-ahead for groundbreaking

Northwest Community Hospital will break ground this morning on an intensive-care wing following unanimous approval of the building plan by the Arlington Heights Plan Commission Wednesday night.

The 20-bed intensive-care facility will be subject to final review by the village board March 17.

The board authorized the start of excavation for the addition, pending plan-commission approval, after hospital officials said they had entered into a construction contract not knowing board approval would be necessary.

If the building plans are approved by the village board as expected, it will take about a year to complete the intensive-care facility.

The building addition is being paid for out of a $20.5 million revenue-bond issue approved by the village board last year.

Blood donors needed for March 22 draw

Donors are needed for Palatine's second blood drive of 1975 March 22 at Palatine High School, 150 E. Wood St.

"We need 300-plus donors to meet our quota," a spokesman for Palatine's Blood-Assurance Program said.

Appointments to donate blood may be made by calling the health department, 338-7500.

Under the blood-assurance program, the American Red Cross guarantees all village residents an unlimited supply of blood if 4 per cent of the village's population donates blood each year.

At the first blood drawing 248 pints were donated. To meet the year's quota, 250 or more pints must be drawn at the five remaining drives.

To be eligible to donate blood a person must be in good health, weigh at least 110 pounds and be at least 17 years old. Donors 66 and over must have a physician's written consent.

Another candidates' night set March 18

The Arlington Crest Civic Assn will sponsor a candidates' night for the Salt Creek Park District and Palatine Village Board candidates March 18 at Rose Park Fieldhouse, 330 S. Williams, Palatine.

Persons seeking park district positions will appear at 8 p.m., and trustee candidates will speak at 8:30 p.m. Each candidate will make a brief opening statement before accepting questions from the floor.

All residents of the park district are invited to attend.

Police pension plan may be changed

Village Pres. Wendell E. Jones of Palatine is taking steps to relieve the financial burden of policemen who have to pay 14 per cent of their salaries into two pension plans.

In a letter to U.S. Rep. Philip E. Crane, R-12th, Jones asked that the Congressman introduce a bill that would give Palatine policemen the option of paying into the Social Security system, police pension plan or both.

"No logical reason exists for these men not to have a free choice regarding the pension system to which they will belong," Jones wrote.

Jones estimates policemen could save $900 to $900 a year if one pension plan were lifted.

The policemen have been trying to get the problem of the double pension payments removed since 1957. The latest attempt was in negotiations now under way with the village for next fiscal year's salaries and fringe benefits.

"We do not believe it is fair for the majority of our employees to pay 8 1/2 per cent in pension deductions and the policemen to pay 14 per cent, unless they choose," Jones said.

Jones said nearly all police department employees prefer dropping the Social Security payments and keeping the police pension plan.

$1.6 million for state survey

Village unveils list of priority projects

by LYNN ASINOF

Mount Prospect has plans, but no funds, for some $1.6 million in construction projects.

Village Mgr. Robert J. Eppley has submitted a list of seven construction projects to the Illinois Dept. of Local Government Affairs in response to a survey seeking information on proposed construction.

Eppley said the information may be used as part of a state-grant program, but said he views the survey as "only a questionnaire."

New buildings take priority over other projects in Eppley's list of proposed construction. Plans for a three-bay fire station estimated to cost $305,000 head the priority list. Eppley said the project could be started by September if funds became available immediately.

THE SECOND PROJECT on Eppley's list is construction of a police building with a 20,000-square-foot main floor and a 13,000-square-foot basement. This project, estimated to cost $690,000, could be started by May 1976 if funds became available.

Eppley said locations have not been selected for either building. He said the village could trade land it owns for land in the right location.

Additions to the public works facilities take third place on Eppley's list. Three projects costing an estimated $350,000 are proposed.

The first, estimated at $100,000, would be a masonry building attached to the public works building. The second, estimated at $200,000, also would be an addition to the present building and would be used for storage of equipment and maintenance supplies.

A SEPARATE building used for housing seasonal construction equipment is proposed for the fire-department property near the intersection of Kensington and River roads. This building is estimated to cost $50,000.

Eppley said all three projects could be started as soon as engineering drawings are completed.

Other projects proposed by Eppley include a new well at the intersection of Elmhurst and Camp McDonald roads, estimated at $150,000, and a pump house to serve the well, estimated at $100,000.

Eppley said he did not include an additional $30 million worth of projects in his answer to the survey because the amount was too high. These projects included the enclosure of McDonald Creek and the Feehanville Ditch.

VACATION HOME of County Republican Chairman Floyd T. Fulle is involved in the federal case against him. Fulle said he paid $35,000 for the Hollywood, Fla., house in 1970 but the grand jury said the price was $45,000. He was charged with perjury because of his testimony.

Rich resigns Prospect Hts. school post

Tom Rich, assistant superintendent of Prospect Heights Dist. 23, resigned his position Wednesday night to become superintendent of River Grove Dist. 84½.

The Dist. 23 board accepted Rich's resignation effective in June and appointed Gerald McGovern, principal of MacArthur Junior High School to the post.

Rich has served in the district for the past 17 years, the last six as assistant superintendent. He started in the district as a teacher and was principal of MacArthur from 1962-69.

Supt. Edward Grodzky credited Rich with "bringing special education to a high point in the district" and said, "I feel I am not only losing a great administrator but a good friend. He's going to a very fine district."

Linked to alleged payoff

U.S. to press Fulle on Florida land deal

by AL MESSERSCHMIDT

The purchase of a Florida vacation home and testimony by the man who sold it are key elements in the federal case against County Republican Chairman Floyd T. Fulle, The Herald has learned.

Joseph D. Zizzo, a bank executive and former village president of Harwood Heights, has told a federal grand jury that he sold a Hollywood, Fla., vacation home to Fulle in 1970 for $45,000, according to a source close to the case.

Fulle testified before the grand jury that the house cost $35,000. He later was charged with perjury because of that testimony. The jury apparently believed Zizzo's version of the house deal, despite documents in federal hands that indicate the price was $35,000.

AT ISSUE IS the amount of Fulle's down payment. Fulle told the grand jury he paid $10,000 down, but the grand jury said in the indictment that the down payment was $20,000.

The $20,000 figure is important because Fulle also is charged with receiving a $20,000 payoff three months before the house purchase from developer Sellergren Inc. Fulle, a county commissioner, allegedly shook down the firm for county apartment zoning in Palatine Township.

Fulle purchased the vacation home Aug. 20, 1970, according to a deed filed with the Broward County, Fla., circuit court clerk's office. Tax stamps on the deed show a $35,000 purchase price. The stamps were purchased Oct. 5, 1970, when Fulle paid the balance of the purchase price.

Federal investigators have obtained a copy of the house-purchase agreement, which lists furniture, decorations and a $35,000 purchase price for the house, at 1401 Hollywood Blvd., Hollywood, Fla.

A copy of a $10,000 cashier's check from the Parkway Bank and Trust Co., Harwood Heights, which was a down payment on the purchase, also is federal evidence. In addition, Fulle is believed to have given the grand jury a copy of a personal check for more than $24,000, which was further payment on the house.

ZIZZO, WHO was village president of west suburban Harwood Heights from 1961 to 1965 and now is senior vice president of the Parkway bank, refused to discuss the property sale or Fulle's indictment.

His attorney, Warren Fuller, confirmed that Zizzo has appeared before the grand jury.

Also refusing to comment were Fulle and Assistant U.S. Atty. Anton Valukas, who heads the county zoning investigation.

Federal officials apparently have not attempted to link the Fulle home purchase with county zoning obtained by Zizzo in 1969 and by another Parkway bank official in 1970 for the Devon-31 apartment project in Elk Grove Township.

Internal Revenue Service agents obtained both zoning files from the County Zoning Board last summer.

ZIZZO, AS BENEFICIARY of an Exchange National Bank trust, is owner of 27 acres north of Devon Avenue and west of Rollwing Road in the middle of the Devon-31 site. The property was zoned for high-density apartments by the county board July 29, 1969. The board vote was unanimous and included a "yes" vote by Fulle.

A second, 50-acre parcel in the proposed project, which is owned by Aaron Cohen, also was rezoned. The Parkway Development Co. is planned developer of the land and (Continued on Page 7)

End of rebates cuts auto sales

by United Press International
It's back to business as usual in the automobile business — slow.

New-car dealers, with the best sales period of the 1975-model year behind them, told UPI business this week as much like it was before the cash rebates started in mid-January — almost nonexistent in some cases. Other dealers, however, noticed no difference since the rebates ended last Friday.

"It sort of slowed up real quickly," says Roger Harper, sales manager of Stewart Chevrolet, San Francisco. In Chicago, a Ford dealer was more explicit: "Since the rebates ended, it's been like someone turned off the faucet."

Many auto dealers in the Northwest suburbs said Wednesday that sales are holding their own since cash rebates ended Feb. 28, despite reports from around the nation showing sales have slowed.

GOV. DANIEL WALKER is greeted by members of the Illinois General Assembly as he leaves the chamber following his budget message. The governor presented a record $10.8 billion request for fiscal 1976.

Walker proposes record budget

SPRINGFIELD (UPI) — Gov. Daniel Walker Wednesday proposed a record $10.75 billion state budget for the coming fiscal year — an increase of 36.5 per cent from the request he made a year ago and of 24 per cent from current appropriations.

Walker estimated he will spend $8.15 billion during the year starting July 1 — another record.

The budget calls for a second straight year of deficit spending and would wipe out every cent the state has in general-revenue reserves.

Walker said he will avoid a tax increase by spending the surplus left over from past years and by issuing hundreds of millions of dollars in new bonds, which will not come due for retirement for 20 or 25 years.

Comptroller George Lindberg, however, called the proposal a "blueprint for bankruptcy." He and some other analysts said the massive hike in appropriations and in spending will force a tax increase by 1977 at the latest.

Walker acknowledged his budget proposes spending the state dry. But, he said, such a program is needed to fight the recession and growing unemployment.

"In my book, this is the rainy day we've been protecting against," he told a (Continued on Page 3)

Village to ask fire-damaged house be razed

The Village of Mount Prospect is preparing a condemnation suit against the remains of a house at 501 N. Elmhurst Ave.

The condemnation action was prompted by a January fire that left the house unsafe. Building Director Buell B. Dutton said, "The entire building from the top of the roof down to the underside of the second floor would have to be completely removed and replaced" to make the house safe.

The village board approved the condemnation action Tuesday after attempts to contact the owner of the house failed. The house, listed in 1972 as a health or safety hazard, was vacant until this summer when its owner, James Gillison, Sr., reportedly moved in.

Village officials contacted Gillison in October, Dutton said, and Gillison reportedly agreed to make some improvements. The village has been unable to contact Gillison since.

Dutton said he has received calls from persons interested in purchasing the house and renovating it. He said, however, that because he cannot contact the owner there is nothing he can do.

If the court upholds the village's request to raze the building, the village would finance the demolition and then place a lien on the property.

Village Atty. John J. Zimmermann said he plans to file the condemnation suit as soon as possible.

An investigation into the fire is not complete. Probable cause of the blaze, which caused at least $20,000 damage, is listed as arson.

Proposed budget hits $984,200

Welfare boosts township expenses

Swelling welfare rolls in Elk Grove Township account for most of the 10 per cent over-all increase in expenditures anticipated by township officials for fiscal 1975-76.

The preliminary 12-month budget of $984,200 under consideration by township auditors includes $172,100 for general assistance payments — double the amount appropriated in 1974 in a 13-month budget of $893,910.

More than 1,500 persons were listed on Elk Grove Township welfare rolls last year. During 1974, less than half that number received general assistance payments, considered temporary aid until county and state welfare assistance is available.

The township expects to receive $367,000 in federal revenue-sharing funds, slightly less than the $391,000 received last year.

THE LARGEST portion of the $208,000 in federal revenue-sharing funds the township plans to spend is earmarked for the Elk Grove-Schaumburg Townships Mental Health Center, based in Elk Grove Village. The mental health center will receive $171,000, matching the township's support last year.

Other revenue-sharing expenditures slated are day care, $35,000; senior citizens, $30,000; Clearbrook Center, $24,000; sewers, $20,000; ADD program, $18,000; Northwest Special Recreation Assn., public safety, $10,000; flood control, $5,000; Mount Prospect Historical Society, $3,000; Northwest Opportunity Center, $3,000 and financial administration, $1,000.

New appropriations of $20,000 for health and $10,000 for social services for the aged and poor account for most of the increase in the town fund budget of

The Northwest Opportunity Center, swamped with applicants for food stamps, is expected to ask Elk Grove, Maine and Schaumburg townships for office space to handle the overflow.

Diane Burke, Elk Grove Township representative to the center, told township officials this week the center's staff and office, 8 College Dr., Arlington Heights, cannot accommodate the hundreds of applicants being processed.

Bruce Newton, center director, is expected to ask the three townships this month to provide office space for three food-stamp workers the center is adding to its staff.

Newton was not available for comment.

MRS. BURKE, in her report to the Elk Grove Township auditors, said about 400 families are receiving free food through the center's "Operation Nutrition" program and another 140 families have been approved to receive food stamps.

"There are many, many more families who have appointments but have to wait weeks just to be interviewed to determine if they are eligible and then have to wait again for the food stamps," she said.

"Some days the lines of people waiting to be interviewed to determine if they are eligible for free food stamps is almost out on the sidewalk," she told Elk Grove township officials.

Mrs. Burke said the center has received approval to hire at least three more food-stamp workers but doesn't have the office space or lobby area to accommodate the hundreds of people they could handle.

AUDITOR BERNARD LEE said Elk Grove Township would provide space for the center's food-stamp distribution program "willingly." Lee said he also has contacted the Northwest Suburban Bar Assn., of which he is a member, to obtain legal advice for the 60 to 80 families who have asked the center for legal help.

Mrs. Burke said the center is handling

Downtown panel seeks residents' suggestions

Mount Prospect's downtown commission is looking for suggestions from residents in developing a plan for revitalizing the central business district.

Grobe, Donovan file for school board

David Grobe and William Donovan have filed nominating petitions for the April 12 board of education election in Mount Prospect Dist. 57.

Grobe, 603 W. Henry St., and Donovan, 9 N. Owen St., were endorsed by the Dist. 57 caucus last week. Delores Corr also was endorsed by the caucus but has not filed.

Two 3-year terms are open on the board. Incumbents William Holloway and Michael Ward are not seeking reelection.

The commission has sent letters to businessmen in the downtown area inviting them to send their suggestions to the village. "All meetings are public and it is in the interest of business people and property owners to have an input to assist us in our thinking and planning," the commission stated.

Robert Bennett, chairman of the commission, said the letter is designed to provide the community with information in addition to seeking community suggestions.

"It doesn't really call for anything specific," Bennett said. "It's trying to let people know we are trying to do something with the downtown area."

"We would be hopeful we would get some ideas," Bennett said.

The commission will meet at 7:30 p.m. today at the village hall, 112 E. Northwest Hwy.

Raise taxes or use existing revenue

Trustees divided on balancing budget

by KURT BAEH

A four-hour meeting Wednesday night of the Arlington Heights Village Board's finance committee ended in a stalemate with deeply divided opinion over raising taxes or tapping the utility tax and federal revenue-sharing funds to balance a present $93,000 deficit.

The $6.1 million budget will go to the village board for consideration March 17 without a concrete recommendation from the finance committee on how it should be financed.

Without committing federal revenue-sharing or utility taxes to pay for general operating expenses, the budget would add about $12 to the average homeowner's tax bill. The homeowner this year will pay about $88 in real estate taxes to the village.

By using money from the 5 per cent utility tax or federal revenue-sharing money — which until now has been almost exclusively to pay for major capital expenditures — the tax increase could be reduced or forestalled.

BUT SOME TRUSTEES argued Wednesday night that taxes would have to be raised eventually when the cost of planned capital improvements is due.

"Every year routinely we've been increasing the tax rate and it's time we put a stop to it," said Trustee Frank Palmatier, finance committee chairman who advocates using utility tax and revenue sharing to hold the line on the village tax rate.

But Palmatier could not persuade other trustees to accept his plan.

"We're just kidding ourselves that we have a better fiscal policy when all we're

Rich resigns Prospect Hts. school post

Toni Rich, assistant superintendent of Prospect Heights Dist. 23, resigned his position Wednesday night to become superintendent of River Grove Dist. 84½.

The Dist. 23 board accepted Rich's resignation effective in June and appointed Gerald McGovern, principal of MacArthur Junior High School to the post.

Rich has served in the district for the past 17 years, the last six as assistant superintendent. He started in the district as a teacher and was principal of MacArthur from 1962-69.

Supt. Edward Grodzky credited Rich with "bringing special education to a high point in the district" and said, "I feel I am not only losing a great administrator but a good friend. He's going to a very fine district."

"I'M VERY appreciative of all the opportunities I've had administratively in Dist. 23," Rich said. "I feel I had good training and experience."

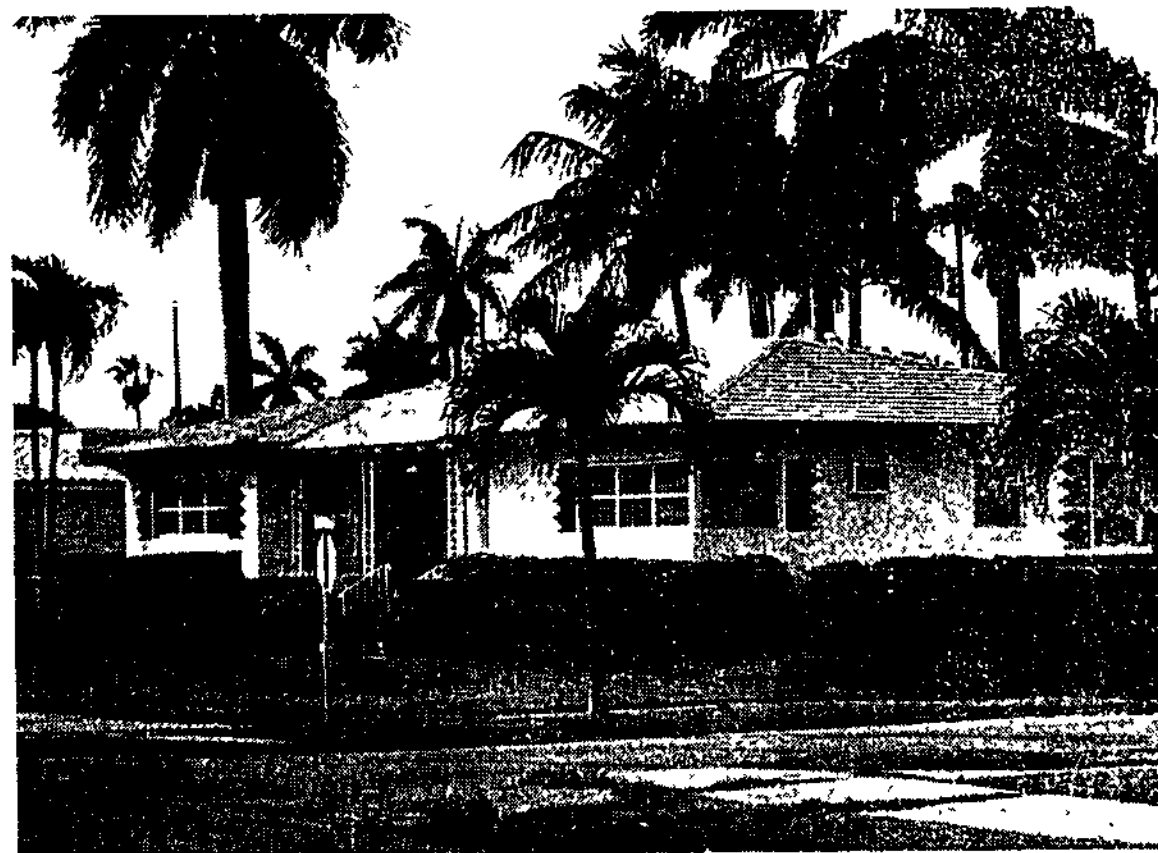

Dist. 84½ is a one-school elementary district. Rich described it as one of the more affluent districts in the state. "They are able to provide many services, many small districts aren't able to provide," Rich was selected for the position from 75 applicants.

McGovern joined the district in 1967 as a teacher and described his new appointment as "another opportunity to serve in Dist. 23."

"I have only one regret in accepting this position," McGovern said. "I will miss the excitement that anyone has to feel in working with junior high kids. It's one of the most stimulating, exciting places you can be."

of millions of dollars in new bonds, which will not come due for retirement for 20 or 25 years.

Comptroller George Lindberg, however, called the proposal a "blueprint for bankruptcy." He and some other analysts said the massive hike in appropriations and in spending will force a tax increase by 1977 at the latest.

Walker acknowledged his budget proposes spending the state dry. But, he said, such a program is needed to fight the recession and growing unemployment.

Restudy may come after village election

Landfill still an 'ugly duckling,' but...

by KURT BAER

The future of the Arlington Heights landfill, a long-standing question mark in the village, may be up for restudy soon.

Situated at Nichols and Schaefer roads at the extreme north end of the village, the mountain of trash always has been vaguely identified as a future recreation area. But specific plans and contours never have been set.

The 66-acre landfill has not been used as a refuse disposal site since June 1973. But lately it was mentioned as a possible dumping site for earth that will be excavated for village flood-control basins.

The engineering firm of R. J. Peterson & Associates has proposed a dirt-disposal study, including the possible use of the landfill, at a cost of $23,000. By dumping dirt where it eventually will be needed, such as at the landfill, Lake Arlington and along McDonald Creek, the village may be able to save the cost of longer distance hauling, Peterson says in support of the study proposal.

BUT SEVERAL village trustees say the earth-dumping problem may lead to a master plan for the site.

"I would like to see some such study of the landfill," says Trustee Frank Palmatier, chairman of the Citizens Action Committee Against Flooding, which has mapped out a $17-million program of flood-control stormwater retention basins for the village. "We have to settle the question of whether it can be used for land disposal before turning it over to the park district."

A ski slope, skeet-shooting range, bicycle paths, horseback riding, water sports along Buffalo Creek and hiking trails all have been put forth by the Arlington Heights Park District as possible future uses for the landfill.

"We'd like to get a landscape architect's plan for the area," says Park Comr. Katherine Graham, adding that the park district does not want to pay for the study if it can avoid it.

THE VILLAGE administration also has an interest in what happens to the landfill. Village Mgr. L. A. Hanson has recommended that the village retain several acres of the site for municipal use, including the possible expansion of the existing well and six-million gallon water-storage tank.

A village study of the landfill, or the appointment of a village-park district committee to study the site, may have to await the outcome of the April 1 village election, Palmatier said.

The park district was prepared to spend about $5,000 on a landscape architect's plan for the landfill this year, Park Comr. Katherine Mueller said, but decided not to spend the money after the village board determined last July that it was not prepared to deed the property to the park district.

Welfare boosts Elk Grove Twp. budget

Swelling welfare rolls in Elk Grove Township account for most of the 10 per cent over-all increase in expenditures anticipated by township officials for fiscal 1975-76.

The preliminary 12-month budget of $381,200 under consideration by township auditors includes $172,100 for general-assistance payments — double the amount appropriated in 1974 in a 13-month budget of $803,010.

More than 1,500 persons were listed on Elk Grove Township welfare rolls last year. During 1973, less than half that number received general-assistance payments, considered temporary aid until county and state welfare assistance is available.

The township expects to receive $367,000 in federal revenue-sharing funds, slightly less than the $301,000 received last year.

THE LARGEST portion of the $288,000 in federal revenue-sharing funds the township plans to spend is earmarked for the Elk Grove-Schaumburg Townships Mental Health Center, based in Elk Grove Village. The mental health center will receive $83,000, matching the township's support last year.

Other revenue-sharing expenditures slated are day care, $35,000; senior citizens, $30,000; Clearbrook Center, $24,000; sewers, $20,000; ADD program, $18,000; Northwest Special Recreation Assn.; public safety, $10,000; flood control, $5,000; Mount Prospect Historical Society, $5,000; Northwest Opportunity Center, $5,000 and financial administration, $4,000.

New appropriations of $20,000 for health and $10,000 for social services for the aged and poor account for most of the increase in the town fund budget of

Food-stamp office to seek space

The Northwest Opportunity Center, swamped with applicants for food stamps, is expected to ask Elk Grove, Moline and Schaumburg townships for office space to handle the overflow.

Diane Burke, Elk Grove Township representative to the center, told township officials this week the center's staff and office, 8 College Dr., Arlington Heights, cannot accommodate the hundreds of applicants being processed.

Bruce Newton, center director, is expected to ask the three townships this month to provide office space for three food-stamp workers the center is adding to its staff.

Newton was not available for comment.

MRS. BURKE, in her report to the Elk Grove Township auditors, said about 400 families are receiving free food through the center's "Operation Nutrition" program and another 140 families have been approved to receive food stamps.

"There are many, many more families who have appointments but have to wait weeks just to be interviewed to determine if they are eligible and then have to wait again for the food stamps," she said.

The township auditors have budgeted

"Some days the lines of people waiting to be interviewed to determine if they are eligible for free food stamps is almost out on the sidewalk," she told Elk Grove township officials.

Mrs. Burke said the center has received approval to hire at least three more food-stamp workers but doesn't have the office space or lobby area to accommodate the hundreds of people they could handle.

AUDITOR BERNARD LEE said Elk Grove Township would provide space for the center's food-stamp distribution program "willingly." Lee said he also has contacted the Northwest Suburban Bar Assn., of which he is a member, to obtain legal advice for the 60 to 80 families who have asked the center for legal help.

Mrs. Burke said the center is handling more caseloads daily and is asking area residents' help by donating clothing, furniture and appliances to the center for distribution. "These are hard times" she said.

Mrs. Burke said small donations may be brought to the center. She asked that people who have large items to donate contact the center at 255-3456.

$15,600 for the sewer fund compared to the $13,142 appropriated last year and $204,800 in the road and bridge budget compared to $176,275 earmarked last year.

Trustees divided over budget doing is putting the extra cost on the municipal credit card," Trustee Russell H. Colvin said.

Trustee Alice Harms said the village should hold a public hearing before it deviates from its established policy to use the utility tax to pay for anything but water, sewer and building projects.

Other trustees proposed cuts of one kind or another in the budget in order to eliminate the deficit and thereby reduce the anticipated tax increase to about $8 per house based on an equalized assessed valuation of $10,000.

CUTS IN SENIOR citizens' programs, youth services, an $800,000 public works garage and a reduction in the planned hiring of six policemen and six firemen were all considered.

The village budget includes an 8 per cent cost of living salary increase for employees. There was no extended discussion Wednesday night of reducing the raise.

In summing up his position on the budget financing controversy, Village Pres. Ralph H. Clabour said: "I would like to return to the philosophy that we pay for the cost of local government with local taxes and not use either revenue sharing or the utility tax."

However, Palmatier said that to continue to raise taxes was "fiscally imprudent" when other sources of revenue exist.

Theology talk Tuesday

Mary Jule Durkin of DePaul University will discuss "Future of the Parish — a Challenge to Women" at the fourth session of Theology West II, a discussion series being held at St. James Parish Center, 800 N. Arlington Heights Rd., at 9:15 a.m. Tuesday.

Mrs. Durkin teaches theology at DePaul and also is Northwest suburban director of DePaul's School of New Learning.

Theology West II is a lecture series sponsored by women of the Northwest suburbs. Fee is $3 per lecture with a $1 charge for babysitting.

Hospital gets go-ahead for groundbreaking

Northwest Community Hospital will break ground this morning on an intensive-care wing following unanimous approval of the building plan by the Arlington Heights Plan Commission Wednesday night.

The 20-bed intensive-care facility will be subject to final review by the village board March 17.

The board authorized the start of excavation for the addition, pending plan-commission approval, after hospital officials said they had entered into a construction contract not knowing board approval would be necessary.

If the building plans are approved by the village board as expected, it will take about a year to complete the intensive-care facility.

The building addition is being paid for out of a $20.5 million revenue-bond issue approved by the village board last year.
